Walk For Seven Days To Trapper's Cabin After The Plane Crashes Against Mountain--Returning Tuesday.

(Associated Press)

FALSE PASS, Alaska, May 12—Maj Frederick L Martin, world flight commander, whose plane was smashed against a mountain on the Alaska peninsula April 30, intends to leave Port Moller, Alaska, tomorrow for the states

Word came here from Port Moller that Major Martin and Staff Sergeant Alva L Harvey, his mechanic would be aboard the cannery tender Catherine D, of the Pacific-American Fisheries of Bellingham, Washington The Catherine was scheduled to leave a cannery at Port Moller tomorrow for Puget Sound and will reach Bellingham, Wash, May 25

Major Martin's machine the Seattle which was the flagplane of a squadron of four that left Santa Monica Cal March 17 to fly around the earth hit the mountain in a blinding snow and fog

Receiving Best of Care

CORDOVA Alaska May 1—Maj Frederick L Martin of the American globe encircling air squadron and his mechanician Staff Sergt Alva L Harvey, alive and well after having undergone severe hardships during the ten days they were missing today were preparing to leave Alaska for the states on their way to Washington

The aviators are resting in the quarters of the Pacific American Fisheries company at Port Moller where they are receiving the best of care

The two American aviators, who emerged unscathed from the splintered parts of the plane on the mountainside, were forced down one hour and a half after leaving Chignik for Dutch Harbor Unalaska Island, shortly after noon April 30, to rejoin their companions They rescued a few of the records and food rations from the debris and started on a long tramp down the mountain side toward the north Pacific ocean shoreline

After many hardships they finally reached a trapper's cabin situated on the southern tip of Port Moller bay last Wednesday morning where they obtained food and a warm place to sleep They were utterly exhausted after seven day tramp under severe weather conditions and they rested two days in the cabin Saturday the fliers feeling refreshed in mind and body walked to the beach and were able to flash the first message of their safety to the world after being reported missing ten days

Saved By Nerve

Only nerve and concentrated food rations' saved their lives said the brief message broadcast from Port Moller The trials and privations were excruciating, but they plodded on persistently and won a gigantic battle with the elements against great odds the brief radio note stated they would remain at Port Moller until receipt of further orders from headquarters in Washington

The discovery of Major Martin's location has ended an intensive search by every agency at the command of the government Two United States guard cutters the Algonquin and Haid plowed through turbulent gale lashed waters of the north Pacific day and night in search of the two aviators Every bay and inlet was carefully combed small boats being dispatched from the cutters on bodies of shallow water where it was thought the men might be concealed behind small jetties of land At night the search lights of the vessels swept the shore lines The United States bureau of fisheries vessel Lider also aided in the hunt together with numerous cannery boats located within 400 mile stretch between Chignik and Dutch Harbor

On receiving information from the trapper on Lake Chignil twenty-seven miles north of Chignik that he was almost certain he saw Major Martin flying 400 feet above the frozen water a half an hour after leaving the last scheduled point on Alaska peninsula in the direction of the Bering sea the cutter Algonquin rushed to Dutch Harbor to refuel and started patrolling the Bering Sea coastline until she was stopped by the fliers many miles southwest of the Bristol Bay district

No word had been received up on an early hour this morning from Attu island where the rest of the air squadron is awaiting favorable weather for a hop off across Bering sea to Paramushiru island in the Kuriles at the north end of the Japanese empire In this jump the aviators will cover a distance of 955 miles the longest in the 27,000 miles of the flying schedule

LEGAL SYSTEM IS ANTIQUATED

Governor Bryan Says That Code of Procedure Should Be Brought Down To Date At Once.

LAW'S DELAYS HAVE BECOME INTOLERABLE

Executive Critizes Lawyers and Jurors Who Lend Themselves to Schemes For Clogging Wheels of Justice.

Declaring his belief that it is about time the judicial system of Nebraska should be overhauled and brought down to date in order to make it possible to administer the laws with reasonable certainty and dispatch Governor Bryan gave voice Monday morning to strong criticism of lawyers and jurists who lend themselves to interminable legal delays and clogging the wheels of justice

At the present time a layman is puzzled to know and there seems to be great doubt even in the minds of some attorneys whether or not a county court outranks the supreme court of Nebraska the governor said in outlining his views to newspapermen

This remark was interpreted as referring to the recent habeas corpus proceeding in Boyd county in the interest of Walter R Simmons under death sentence for murder and the appeal taken therefrom by his attorneys to the district court at Butte which is now pending there The Nebraska supreme court recently affirmed Simmons conviction in Boyd county and set the time of his execution for May 23 Application for reprieve has been filed with the governor on the ground that there is not time enough between now and then to dispose of the habeas corpus suit

Mr Bryan asserted that I am not referring to this particular case or any other pending cases He said he was merely expressing his ideas as a citizen from the results of his observation for several years past

Northwestern Road Asks That Mandamus Be Vacated At Once.

Says That Rail Commission Is Exceeding Its Authority.

After filing in state supreme court Monday forenoon a motion asking that tribunal to vacate its peremptory writ of mandamus issued last Saturday upon request of the state railway commission and the attorney general to prevent the abandonment of certain trains beginning Sunday efforts were made by Wymer Dressler counsel for the carrier to have the matter heard by the court at once The hearing was set for 9 a m Tuesday at which time Mr Dressler will present the case for the railroad and Hugh Lamaster for the state

The attorney contended in his pleadings on the motion that the various trains covered by the writ are operated on interstate routes and are therefore outside the jurisdiction of the railway commission of the state of Nebraska

It was further represented to the court that other transportation facilities are provided which amply meet the needs of the public and that the discontinuance of the trains referred to is necessary in the interest of the public welfare because they are being operated at a loss and the burden falls upon everyone who travels The sum of $13,000 a month could be saved by taking them out of service said Dressler's statemen

To prohibit the Northwestern from discontinuing them or operating its property according to the best judgment of the officials of the railroads was declared to be an unreasonable interference with the management Authority of the state railway commission to make or enforce any order restricting the company in its operation of trains was denied except in receiving specific complaints and after hearing thereon for the correction of abuses shown to exist

The customary plea was added that compulsory operation of the trains would deprive the Northwestern of its property without due process of law and deny it the equal protection of the laws contrary to the terms of the 14th amendment to the federal constitution

In an affidavit separately filed Attorney Dressler recited a long distance telephone conversation which he had Saturday with Chairman Browne of the state railway commission in which he said the latter admitted he know of no objection by any patron regarding the proposed curtailment of service but that Browne did not like the way the Northwestern had gone about the matter The chairman he said declined his proposal to come before the commission on Saturday with an application to approve the changes effective Sunday

The Nebraska commission Dressler's affidavit alleged is the only one among those of eight states in which the road operates claiming the power and right to determine service regulations before allowing changes to be made This is not done he said in Illinois Wisconsin Michigan Iowa Nebraska South Dakota, or Wyoming

REGENT BATES QUITS HIS JOB

No Reason Given for Severing Connection With Governing Body of the State's Big School.

BRYAN NOT TO FILL POSITION AT ONCE.

Official Who Resigns Elected From State At Large While Present Law Provides For Election By Districts.

W L Bates of Lincoln formerly of Lodgepole has resigned from the board of regents for the University of Nebraska and a vacancy has thereby been created which Governor Bryan will fill by appointment after he has had time to canvass the field for a suitable man or woman

A letter of resignation from Mr Bates dated April 4 reached Chancellor Avery of the university last Friday It was addressed to the board of regents and members of that body considered it in connection with Dean Seavey of the university law college who is the board's legal adviser It was decided that inasmuch as the governor makes all appointments to fill vacancies in state offices the resignation should be turned over to him This Chancellor Avery did Monday forenoon calling on Governor Bryan and delivering it in person

Regent Bates was elected in 1920 for a term of six years beginning in January 1921 His term therefore had more than two and a half years still to run He was elected from the state at large but the constitution has since been changed to provide for election of the six regents one from each congressional district At present the board of regents has no members from the Fifth and Sixth districts It has two each from the Second and Third and one each from the First and Fourth

District Appointment Likely

Governor Bryan will probably name somebody to succeed Bates from one of the districts now unrepresented on the board although he is not required to do so in view of the fact that Bates was not elected from any district The retiring member lived in the Sixth district at the time of his election but is now a resident of the First His retirement

ORDER MARTIN TO RETURN TO WASHINGTON

Ill-Fated Fliers To Be Instructed to Proceed to Capital—May Be Sent Later Across Atlantic to Lead Aviators Home From Europe.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON May 12—Major Frederick L Martin and his mechanic Staff Sergeant Alva L Harvey will be ordered to Washington direct from Port Moller Alaska where they arrived safely after their airplane had been wrecked and they had been missing for eleven days in the wilds of Alaska

The two aviators will be assigned to duty in the army air service headquarters temporarily but their names will be kept on the list of the round the world fliers in compliment to the men and in recognition of the hardships they endured in valiantly attempting to lead the squadron in the globe encircling flight

Meanwhile the three other planes will continue their way around the world under command of Lieut Lowell H Smith senior officer in the absence of Major Martin

The plans of the air service also will permit Major Martin to keep the designation of commanding officer of the flight Lieutenant Smith's title being that of acting officer in charge

It is intended to send Major Martin and Sergeant Harvey across the Atlantic in time to greet the fliers and lead them on the way home from Europe in that way giving the commander the post of honor which he lost by hard luck in Alaska

TO ABANDON PLANS

LONDON May 12—(A P)—Plans for the meeting of Prime Minister MacDonald with Premier Poincare of France at Chequerscourt May 19 will probably be abandoned as a result of the French election upset it was intimated in official circles today

HEAVY BLOW FOR POINCARE IN ELECTIONS

Majority Of French Premier In Chamber Swept Away And Hinted President Millerand May Resign.

(Associated Press)

PARIS, May 12—Nearly complete returns compiled at official headquarters today show that France in yesterday's elections decided on a considerable change in domestic policies and on at least important modifications in the method of handling her foreign affairs

Premier Poincare's majority in the chamber of deputies was swept away in a violent swing of the political pendulum toward the left and the bloc national, which formed the nucleus of that majority was reduced to second rank in the party groups

Poincare May Quit His Post

Raymond Poincare.

French premier who sustained a serious defeat by the loss of his majority in the chamber of deputies, and as the result may design

Opposition 311 Poincare parties 257 opposition majority 114

The government claims that forty nine out of the 158 radicals elected are dissident and will vote with the government in matters of foreign policy Even if this is correct however the government will still remain in the minority

This however does not necessarily mean that M Herriot the radical leader will be the next premier

Face Many Difficulties

There are many difficulties to be surmounted Before an arrangement can be made between the unified socialists and the radical socialists the former must agree to support M Herriot unqualifiedly

On questions of foreign policy political experts look for 133 of these deputies to vote in favor of Premier Poincare and 168 against him

Political observers pointed out that a swing in the balance of the chamber bringing into power a premier of the left might affect the tenure of office of President Millerand who was a great proponent of the bloc national in 1919 and its first premier

Those claiming to be in his confidence declared he would prefer to resign rather than become a rubber stamp' for a majority with which he was not in sympathy

War records no longer are a preponderant factor in French politics Former Minister of the Interior Malvy who was banished during the war for five years is returned to the chamber carrying his ticket with him while General De Castelnau victor of Grand Couronne and the savior of Nancy in 1914 was beaten

Andre Marty Elected

Andre Marty communist imprisoned for surrendering his ship to the Bolsheviks in the Black sea is elected for Seine-Et Oise while Jean Longuet grandson of Karl Marx also was returned

Andrew Lefevre former minister of war one of those who had warned against the renaissance of German revenge was successful

Of the Poincare cabinet the Ruhr ministers M Maginot and Le Troquer were returned as were M Dupreu minister of justice and Louis Marin minister of liberated regions

Raoul Peret president of the chamber was re elected Leon Daudet the royalist leader was defeated

MAJOR MARTIN AND MECHANIC ESCAPE DEATH

(Associated Press.)

FALSE PASS, Alaska, May 12.—Maj. Frederick L. Martin, world flight commander, whose plane was smashed against a mountain on the Alaska peninsula April 30, intends to leave Port Moller, Alaska, tomorrow for the states.

Word came here from Port Moller that Major Martin and Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, his mechanic would be aboard the cannery tender Catherine D, of the Pacific-American Fisheries of Bellingham, Washington. The Catherine was scheduled to leave a cannery at Port Moller tomorrow for Puget Sound and will reach Bellingham, Wash., May 25.

Receiving Best of Care.

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 12.—Maj. Frederick L. Martin of the American globe encircling air squadron, and his mechanician, Staff Sergt. Alva L. Harvey, alive and well after having undergone severe hardships during the ten days they were missing, today were preparing to leave Alaska for the states on their way to Washington.

The aviators are resting in the quarters of the Pacific-American Fisheries company at Port Moller, where they are receiving the best of care.

The two American aviators, who emerged unscathed from the splintered parts of the plane on the mountainside, were forced down one hour and a half after leaving Chignik for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska island, shortly after noon April 30, to rejoin their companions. They rescued a few of the records and food rations from the debris and started on a long tramp down the mountain side toward the north Pacific ocean shore line.

After many hardships, they finally reached a trapper's cabin, situated on the southern tip of Port Moller bay, last Wednesday morning, where they obtained food and a warm place to sleep. They were utterly exhausted after a seven day tramp under severe weather conditions and they rested two days in the cabin. Saturday the fliers feeling refreshed in mind and body, walked to the beach and were able to flash the first message of their safety to the world, after being reported missing ten days.

The trials and privations were excruciating, but they plodded on persistently and won a gigantic battle with the elements against great odds. The brief radio note stated they would remain at Port Moller until receipt of further orders from headquarters in Washington.

The discovery of Major Martin's location has ended an intensive search by every agency at the command of the government. Two United States guard cutters, the Algvonquin and Haid, plowed through turbulent gale lashed waters of the north Pacific, day and night, in search of the two aviators. Every bay and inlet was carefully combed, small boats being dispatched from the cutters in bodies of shallow water where it was thought the men might be concealed behind small jetties of land. At night, the search lights of the vessels swept the shore lines. The United States bureau of fisheries vessel Elder, also aided in the hunt, together with numerous cannery boats located within 400 mile stretch between Chignik and Dutch Harbor.

On receiving information from the trapper on Lake Chignik, twenty-seven miles north of Chignik, that he was "almost certain" he saw Major Martin flying 400 feet above the frozen water a half an hour after leaving the last scheduled point on Alaska peninsula in the direction of the Bering sea, the cutter Algonquin rushed to Dutch Harbor to refuel and started patrolling the Bering Sea coastline until she was stopped by ice floes, many miles southwest of the Bristol bay district.

No word had been received up to an early hour this morning from Attu island, where the rest of the air squadron is awating favorable weather for a hop-off across Bering sea to Paramashiru island, in the Kuriles, at the north end of the Japanese empire. In this jump the aviators will cover a distance of 878 miles, the longest in the 27,000 miles on thei flying schedule.

In an affidavit separately filed, Attorney Dressler recited a long distance telephone conversation which he had Saturday with Chairman Browne of the state railway commission, in which he said the latter admitted he know of no objection by any patron regarding the proposed curtailment of service, but that Browne "did not like the way the Northwestern had gone about the matter." The chairman, he said, declined his proposal to come before the commission on Saturday with an application to approve the changes, effective Sunday.

The Nebraska commission, Dressler's affidavit alleged, is the only one among those of eight states in which the road operates, claiming the power and right to determine service regulations before allowing changes to be made. This is not done, he said, in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, or Wyoming.

Bates Gives Up Place On Board

W. L. BATES

The resignation of Mr. Bates as a member of the board of regents of the state university was placed in the hands of Governor Bryan Monday morning. The governor will appoint a successor.

SENATE URGES RATE CHANGE

(Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 12. — The senate today adopted a joint resolution declaring agriculture to be a basic industry of the United States which it is the intention of the government to foster, and calling on the interstate commerce commission to re-arrange with the least possible delay rates on agricultural products so as to promote their easy movement.

Mothers of Lost Fliers Made Happy When Word Sent

CONNERSVILLE, Ind., May 12—"It has certainly been a wonderful Mother's day for me," said Mrs. Nancy K .Martin, mother of Maj. Frederick L. Martin, when informed the aviator is safe at Port Moller, Alaska.

Mrs. Martin, who was overjoyed at receipt of the news, said she had given up all hope of her son ever being found alive.

"My hopes died when no word was received after he had been missing for three days," she said. Mrs. Martin, whose home is in Richmond, Ind., has been visiting her sister near here.

Never Lost Hope.

CLEBURNE, Tex, May 12—Mrs. Luther Harvey, was overcome with emotion for a short time yesterday when she was informed that her son, Sgt. Alva Lee Harvey, mechanician in the round-the-world flight with Major Frederick L. Martin, was safe in Alaska. Her husband likewise was overjoyed.

"We prayed constantly," Mrs. Harvey said. "Not for a moment did we lose hope."

Dollar Mounts After Election

PARIS, May 12.—The dollar went up today as a result of the election. Before the opening of the bourse the dollar was quoted on the curb at 16 francs, 95 centimes. In less than tawo francs, 95 centimes. In less than two francs.

REGENT BATES QUITS HIS JOB

No Reason Given for Severing Connection With Governing Body of the State's Big School.

BRYAN NOT TO FILL POSITION AT ONCE.

Official Who Resigns Elected From State At Large While Present Law Provides For Election By Districts.

W. L. Bates of Lincoln, formerly of Lodgepole, has resigned from the board of regents for the University of Nebraska, and a vacancy has thereby been created which Governor Bryan will fill by appointment after he has had time to canvass the field for a suitable man or woman.

A letter of resignation from Mr. Bates, dated April 24, reached Chancellor Avery of the university last Friday. It was addressed to the board of regents, and members of that body considered it, in conjunction with Dean Seavey of the university law college, who is the boards legal adviser. It was decided that, inasmuch as the governor makes all appointments to fill vacancies in state offices, the resignation should be turned over to him. This Chancellor Avery did Monday forenoon, calling on Governor Bryan and delivering it in person.

Regent Bates was elected in 1920 for a term of six years beginning in January, 1921. His term, therefore, had more than two and a half years still to run. He was elected from the state at large, but the constitution has since been changed to provide for election of the six regents, one from each congressional district. At present, the board of regents has no members from the Fifth and Sixth districts. It has two each from the Second and Third and one each from the First and Fourth.

District Appointment Likely.

Governor Bryan will probably name somebody to succeed Bates, from one of the districts now unrepresented on the board, although he is not required to do so, in view of the fact that Bates was not elected from any district. The retiring member lived in the Sixth district at the time of his election, but is now a resident of the First. His retirement

Somebody Invent Asbestos Specs; Here's One Sale

Flaming spectacles have no attraction for W. W. Towle, Lincoln attorney, especially when hooked about a person's ears. The fire department wasn't called though Mr. Towle suffered several blisters and scorched eyebrows and lashes, before the flames were subdued.

The whole thing was the result of too close proximity of a match and a pair of shell-rimmed glasses. While Mr. Towle was scanning over a newspaper and puffing at an unlighted cigar the imp of ill luck entered the office.

As he lighted his cigar the flame of the match accidentally touched the rim of the glasses. They weren't tortoise shell at all, or at least not the salt water kind. In an instant they burst into flame. The result was several blisters and other slight damage to the attorney's countenance.

Mr. Towle was able to jerk the spectacles off and throw them to the floor, before more serious injury resulted.

Now he is using the fire test in his search for a new pair of glasses.

'Battling' Siki Hurt In Omaha Motor Crash

(Associated Press.)

OMAHA, May 12—Battling Siki, the Senegalese fightsr ,here for a ten round bout Wednesday night with Nick Newman of Kansas City, was injured today when the automobile in which he was riding, and an oil truck collided.

Siki was taken to a hospital for an X-ray examination. A police surgeon said he was suffering from a bruised shoulder, a wrenched back, and possibly internal injuries.

Later, George Yaeger, Omaha promoter of the fight, announced Siki had a fractured rib and would be unable to fight Newman Wednesday night. Siki will be laid up for a couple of weeks, Yaeger said.

As he lay on a cot at a police emergency hospital, where he received first aid attention, the conqueror of Georges Carpentier wept as he bemoaned the fact he would not be able to meet Newman. Later he was taken to a private institution for the X-ray.

Siki was enroute to his training headquarters when the accident occurred. He was hurled against the side of the automobile but was not thrown out.

ORDER MARTIN TO RETURN TO WASHINGTON

Ill-Fated Fliers To Be Instructed to Proceed to Capital—May Be Sent Later Across Atlantic to Lead Aviators Home From Europe.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Major Frederick L. Martin and his mechanic, Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, will be ordered to Washington diect from Port Moller, Alaska, where they arrived safely after their airplane had been wrecked and they had been missing for eleven days in the wilds of Alaska.

The two aviators will be assigned to duty in the army air service headquarters temporarily, but their names will be kept on the list of the aound-the-world fliers, in compliment to the men and in recognition of the hardships they endured in valiantly attempting to lead the squadron in the globe-encircling flight.

Meanwhile the three other planes will continue their way around the world under command of Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, senior officer in the absence of Major Martin.

The plans of the air service also will permit Major Martin to keep the designation of commanding officer of the flight, Lieutenant Smith's title being that of acting officer in charge.

It is intended to send Major Martin and Sergeant Harvey across the Atlantic in time to greet the flyers and lead them on the way home from Europe, in that way giving the commander the post of honor which he lost by hard luck in Alaska.

TO ABANDON PLANS.

LONDON, May 12.—(A. P.)—Plans for the meeting of Prime Minister MacDonald with Premier Poincare of France, at Chequerscourt, May 19, will probably be abandoned as a result of the French election upset, it was intimated in official circles today.

HEAVY BLOW FOR POINCARE IN ELECTIONS

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, May 12.—Nearly complete returns compiled at official headquarters today show that France in yesterday's elections decided on a considerable change in domestic policies and on at least important modifications in the method of handling her foreign affairs.

Premier Poincare's majority in the chamber of deputies was swept away in a violent swing of the political pendulum toward the left, and the bloc national, which formed the nucleus of that majority, was reduced to second rank in the party groups.

Official figures, with sixteen districts missing, show the chamber divided as follows:

Opposition 341; Poincare parties 227; opposition majority 114.

The government claims that forty-nine out of the 186 radicals elected are dissident, and will vote with the government in matters of foreign policy. Even if this is correct, however, the government will still remain in the minority.

This, however, does not necessarily mean that M. Herriot, the radical leader, will be the next premier.

Face Many Difficulties.

There are many difficulties to be surmounted. Before an arrangement can ebe made between the unified socialists and the radical socialists, the former must agree to support M. Herriot, unqualifiedly.

On questions of foreign policy, political experts look for 133 of these deputies to vote in favor of Premier Poincare and 168 against him.

Political observers pointed out that a swing in the balance of the chamber, bringing into power a "premier of the left" might affect the tenure of office of President Millerand, who was a great proponent of the bloc national in 1919 and its first premier.

Those claiming to be in his confidence declared he would prefer to resign rather than become a "rubber stamp" for a majority with which he was not in sympathy.

War records no longer are a preponderant factor in French politics. Former Minister of the Interior Malvy, who was banished during the war for five years, is returned to the chamber, carrying his ticket with him, while General De Castelnau, victor of Grand Couronne and the savior of Nancy in 1914, was beaten.

Andre Marty Elected.

Andre Marty, communist, imprisoned for surrendering his ship to the Bolsheviks in the Black sea, is elected for Seine-Et Oise, while Jean Longuet, grandson of Karl Marx, also was returned.

Andrew Lefevre, former minister of war, one of those who had warned against the renaissance of German revenge, was successful.

Of the Poincare cabinet, the Ruhr ministers, M. Maginot and Le Trocquer were returned, as were M. Du Prey, minister of justice, and Louis Marin, minister of liberated regions.

Raoul Peret, president of the chamber, was re-elected. eLon Daudet, the royalist leader, was defeated

Poincare May Quit His Post

Raymond Poincare.

FLOOD WATERS MOUNT IN EAST

Business District of Cumberland, Maryland, Partially Inundated.

(Associated Press.)

CUMBERLAND, Md., May 12. — For the second time within less than two months, flood waters were lapping menacingly at the heart of the Cumberland business district this morning.

Wills creek, taking its course through the downtown section, has left its banks. Water in Mechanic street, one of the principal business thoroughfares, has reached a depth of eighteen inches.

The Potomac river and its tributaries reached flood stage early today forcing hundreds of families at Keysey and Piedmont, W. Va., to flee from their homes. At Piermont a general fire alarm was sounded at midnight to warn the residents of the impending danger.

In Cumberland streets the waters were rising early today at the rate of eight inches an hour. No loss of life has been reported.

BISHOP PASSES ON.

PORTLAND, Me., May 12.—Right Rev. Louis Sebastian Walsh, Roman Catholic bishop of Portland, died today of cerebral hemorrhage.

Rescue Workers Are Nearing Five Entrapped Men

GILMAN, Col., May 12—Five men, cut off by a cave-in on the 1,900 foot level of the Black Iron mine of the Empire Zinc company here Saturday, will be brought out safely before noon, A. H. Buck superintendent of the mine predicted early today.

Communication was established with the men last night when a diamond drill was driven through the twenty-five feet of debris blocking the passage to the imprisoned men. Food and water were passed in.

Superintendent Buck talked to the men through the opening at 6 o'clock this morning and found them to be in good health, he stated.

Wife Of Martin Is Overjoyed With The Word Of His Safety

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 12.—Out of the frozen Arctic wastes the buzz and sputter of the United States navy radio yesterday brought the news of Maj. Frederick L. Martin's safety to his wife here. Her joy at the tidings of suspense brought as many tears as smiles.

"I am going to ask Fred to promise me never to fly again," Mrs. Martin declared. "God bless the little messenger boy who delivered that telegram," she said. "He came up to my sister's house, where I have been staying since the major left on the flight, with his face all radiant with smiles. Instinctively I knew he had brought me good news."

Thinking of the hardships and dangers which she believes her husband and his mechanic must have endured, Mrs. Martin said:

"I am going to ask Fred to make the greatest sacrifice he ever made in his life. I want him to promise me he will never fly again. I realize it will be the hardest decision he ever made in his life, for his heart and soul are wrapped up in flying."

The message to Mrs. Martin was from the navy radio station at Cordova, Alaska, and read:

Text of Message.

"Information received from Port Moller at 1:15 a. m. that Major Martin nad Serkeant Harvey are both safe. Their plane crashed against a mountain at 12:30 p. m., April 30. Total wreck. Neither was hurt. Walked seven days to trapper's cabin, Port Moller bay. Exhausted. Found food, rested three days, walked back to Port Moller, arriving there today (Saturday.)"

Mrs. Martin received the telegram early Sunday from Lieut. Earle Tonkin of the Ninety-first squadron, who is in Seattle, where he was preparing to start on a search by air for Major Martin. Lieutenant Tonkin assured Mrs. Martin he would do everything in his power to ascertain the fate of the commander.

Mrs. Frederick L. Martin.

In the knowledge that her husbnad is now safe, Mrs. Martin awaits the war department's announcement of its plans for his future.

Mrs. Martin Saturday made public a letter she recently received from the major describing his experiences before and during the time he was lost in one other occasion, in order that the public might know more of the trials and obstacles incident to the world flight.

Bergdoll Admits $270,000 Gold Hidden In United States

(Associated Press).

EBERBACH, Baden, May 12.—"Finders keepers," says Grover Bergdoll, American draft dodger, with reference to the gold he buried in 1917 when his game of hide and seek with the United States authorities began.

All told, he says, there was exactly $270,000, in nice, shiny ten dollar gold pieces. He declares the gold is buried in the United States but that is about all he will say about it.

"If I should die," he remarked, "the gold will never be found.

"That's how securely it is hidden. No one was with me when I put it away and no one will ever find it until I go for it myself."

He realized that he has lost a fortune in interest, but he added "it's worth a great deal—especially to me—to have a lot of cash which I can put my hands on when I want to, if I ever get back to the states."

Works All Night Hunting Hooch; Misses By Inches

Some man in Lincoln is today nursing a gnawing secret and cursing bitter, bitter luck. And here's the reason for it all:

Shortly before 3 a. m. Monday police headquarters received a call to the effect that a man was doing some mysterious digging near the Missouri Pacific tracks at Twentieth and X streets. He had seemed reluctant to state what he was digging for, so the police informant said, and had merely replied that he was "diggin' for sumpin' another fellow buried."

When the officers arrived at the spot they found a scene, which, when the portent was fully realized, would move to tears hearts not so hardened.

A trench about 150 long, two feet wide and two and one-half feet deep had been dug, with pick and shovel Kicking about in the dirt Motorcycle Officer Forest Schappaugh found a gallon keg of "hooch" to which a long rope was attached. The digger hadn't gone quite deep enough—missing by a matter of inches. But he was gone when the officers got there.

Police are holding the keg and liquor, believing it possible that either the man who buried the keg or the man who looked for it unsuccessfully all night, may call and claim the property. This, of course, is mere supposition, they say.

ORNITHOLOGISTS UNION IN ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

Many members of the Bruner Bird club joined in the annual field day of the Nebraska Ornithologists' union on Saturday in groups of from two to twenty-five. These bird students made trips to the various localities in the vicinity of Lincoln: Capitol Beach, double trestle, pen woods, Arbor, Wyuka cemetery and the like, and made the largest composite list of different species ever observed in the twenty-five years' history of the N. O. U.—123 in one day!

Some of the Bruner Bird club members had been out scouting for days previously, and had made "dates" with certain of the rarer birds. For the most part these were "at home" when called upon Saturday. A complete list of the birds observed will doubtless be published soon.

The department of agriculture has kindly loaned the Bruner Bird club five motion picture films on bird and outdoor subjects: National Bird Refuges, Anne's Aigrette, A Sportsman's paradise—in the National Forests, Life in the Open—Camping out in the Colorado National Parks, and Foresting the Sandhills, a film showing the work done at the Forest Reserve in northern Nebraska. These will be shown next Thursday at 8 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Twenty-third and Garfield streets.

The public is most cordially invited to attend, and there will be no charge for admission. Seats will be reserved, however, for all present and former members of the Bruner Bird club.

WILL TRY BUTLER ON THEFT CHARGE

Man Accused of Stealing Bonds From Mail to Face a Jury.

The May term of federal court was scheduled to open this afternoon with the trial of Estel "Foot-and-a-Half" Butler, on an indictment charging him and John W. Blair, with stealing from the mail letters to the Otoe County National bank and Merchants National bank of Nebraska City containing liberty bonds amounting to $1000.

Blair will not be tried as he is now serving twenty-five years on another mail robbery charge. He was brought to Lincoln Monday from Leavenworth to be used in this trial as a witness.

Butler and Blair are alleged to have stolen a mail sack directed to the Nebraska City postoffice. The offense was committe in October, 1920.

Blair was committed to Leavenworth about a year ago when he was convicted of a mail robbery in Missouri, Assistant District Attorney Stewart said.

Ask Kentuckians To Return Home

Mayor Frank C. Zehrung has received a copy of a proclamation issued by Governor Kent of Kentucky, in which the governor calls upon all natives of the blue grass state to return for a homecoming June 1 to 24 at Harrodsburg and Danville. The homecoming is being held as a celebration of the hundred fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Harrodsburg.

OFFICIALS WILL REVIEW PARADE

Invite Mayor and Councilmen to Sit With Generals and Governor.

Downtown Streets to be Decorated for Big Military Demonstration.

At least three general officers of the United States army are expected to be in Lincoln during the military demonstration here May 23, according to a communication to the city council Monday, asking permission to use the space in front of the city hall for a reviewing stand during the parade. The letter was written by Lieut. Colonel C. J. Frankforter of the University of Nebraska, and asks that Mayor Zehrung and the members of the council be in the reviewing party along with the generals and Governor Charles W. Bryan. The mayor and commissioners were also asked to attend the banquet at the chamber of commerce at 6:15 p. m., May 22.

According to Mayor Zehrung Monday morning, the council will grant the request for the erection of the reviewing stand at the city hall and accept the invitation to occupy seats there with the other officials. He also said that he intends to issue a proclamation requesting that the entire downtown district be decorated with the national colors and in other ways appropriate to the Missouri Valley conference meet which will be held at the university stadium Saturday, May 23.

The general officers who will be in the reviewing stand are Generals Duncan, commander of the Seventh corp area, Fort Crook; King, commander of the cavalry school at Fort Riley, and Dore of Fort Crook.

Colonel Frankforter said in his letter that the riding by the cavalry units and the demonstrations by the artillery batteries on the fair grounds, will be some of the finest that will ever be seen here. He stressed the work which will be done by the cavalry jumpers.

Works All Night Hunting Hooch; Misses By Inches

Some man in Lincoln is today nursing a gnawing secret and cursing bitter, bitter luck. And here's the reason for it all:

Shortly before 3 a. m. Monday police headquarters received a call to the effect that a man was doing some mysterious digging near the Missouri Pacific tracks at Twentieth and X streets. He had seemed reluctant to state what he was digging for, so the police informant said, and had merely replied that he was "diggin' for sumpin' another fellow buried."

When the officers arrived at the spot they found a scene, which, when the portent was fully realized, would move to tears hearts not so hardened.

A trench about 150 long, two feet wide and two and one-half feet deep had been dug, with pick and shovel. Kicking about in the dirt Motorcycle Officer Forest Schappaugh found a gallon keg of "hooch" to which a long rope was attached. The digger hadn't gone quite deep enough—missing by a matter of inches. But he was gone when the officers got there.

Police are holding the keg and liquor, believing it possible that either the man who buried the keg or the man who looked for it unsuccessfully all night, may call and claim the property. This, of course, is mere supposition, they say.

ORNITHOLOGISTS UNION IN ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

Many members of the Bruner Bird club joined in the annual field day of the Nebraska Ornithologists' union on Saturday in groups of from two to twenty-five. These bird students made trips to the various localities in the vicinity of Lincoln; Capitol Beach, double trestle, pen woods, Arbor, Wyuka cemetery and the like, and made the largest composite list of different species ever observed in the twenty-five years' history of the N. O. U.—123 in one day!

Some of the Bruner Bird club members had been out scouting for days previously, and had made "dates" with certain of the rarer birds. For the most part these were "at home" when called upon Saturday. A complete list of the birds observed will doubtless be published soon.

The department of agriculture has kindly loaned the Bruner Bird club five motion picture films on bird and outdoor subjects: National Bird Refuges, Anne's Aigrette, A Sportsman's paradise—in the National Forests, Life in the Open—Camping out in the Colorado National Parks, and Foresting the Sandhills, a film showing the work done at the Forest Reserve in northern Nebraska. These will be shown next Thursday at 8 o'clock at the Westminster Presbyterian church, Twenty-third and Garfield streets.

WILL TRY BUTLER ON THEFT CHARGE

Man Accused of Stealing Bonds From Mail to Face a Jury.

The May term of federal court was scheduled to open this afternoon with the trial of Estel "Foot-and-a-Half" Butler, on an indictment charging him and John W. Blair, with stealing from the mail letters to the Otoe County National bank and Merchants National bank of Nebraska City containing liberty bonds amounting to $1000.

Blair will not be tried as he is now serving twenty-five years on another mail robbery charge. He was brought to Lincoln Monday from Leavenworth to be used in this trial as a witness.

Butler and Blair are alleged to have stolen a mail sack directed to the Nebraska City postoffice. The offense was committe in October, 1920.

Blair was committed to Leavenworth about a year ago when he was convicted of a mail robbery in Missouri, Assistant District Attorney Stewart said.

Ask Kentuckians To Return Home

BEAVER CITY, Neb., May 12.—Mrs. Mary Banning, 83, died at her home after a long illness. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon. She is survived by her husband, Samuel Banning, 88, who homesteaded in Furnas county in 1879.

OFFICIALS WILL REVIEW PARADE

Invite Mayor and Councilmen to Sit With Generals and Governor.

Downtown Streets to be Decorated for Big Military Demonstration.

At least three general officers of the United States army are expected to be in Lincoln during the military demonstration here May 23, according to a communication to the city council Monday, asking permission to use the space in front of the city hall for a reviewing stand during the parade. The letter was written by Lieut. Colonel C. J. Frankforter of the University of Nebraska, and asks that Mayor Zehrung and the members of the council be in the reviewing party along with the generals and Governor Charles W. Bryan. The mayor and commissioners were also asked to attend the banquet at the chamber of commerce at 6:15 p. m., May 22.

According to Mayor Zehrung Monday morning, the council will grant the request for the erection of the reviewing stand at the city hall and accept the invitation to occupy seats there with the other officials. He also said that he intends to issue a proclamation requesting that the entire downtown district be decorated with the national colors and in other ways appropriate to the Missouri Valley conference meet which will be held at the university stadium Saturday, May 23.

The general officers who will be in the reviewing stand are Generals Duncan, commander of the Seventh corp area, Fort Crook; King, commander of the cavalry school at Fort Riley, and Dore of Fort Crook.

Colonel Frankforter said in his letter that the riding by the cavalry units and the demonstrations by the artillery batteries on the fair grounds, will be some of the finest that will ever be seen here. He stressed the work which will be done by the cavalry jumpers.

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles to Minerva.

The Self-Conscious Age.

Dear Minerva: I am going to high school and am a freshman. I have a girl friend in the same grade and the same age. She and I have been friends ever since we started to school. She is different than I am. She can talk to all the boys and can find something to say while I talk to only those with which I am more acquainted.

Now there is one boy going to the same school and I love him dearly. He is a junior. I got to liking him when school first started and all my classmates tease me about him and him about me. Once one of my girl friends met him and said "Hello Jane" and he answered "She's all right." Do you think by this he cares for me? I hardly ever get to talk to him only when we have some sort of an amusement in school at night. Then he talks to me and acts very nice. I don't go to dances now because my father died in June. Many times he goes in front or behind me to school but we cannot bring ourselves to exchange a few words only when we are alone.

If this girl friend of mine is along she seems to be able to think of something to say. In school time I turn around and notice him looking at me, but I can't bring myself to smile. But my girl friend always can. Why? I can smile at other boys but I can't smile at him only when he smiles first. He talks to my girl friend and she talks to him. My girl friend is a loud girl. She talks slang and says words that I would not let escape my tongue. Does he talk to her because she talks and acts bad? Does beauty make a difference? I have a clear, white, smooth face but also a few freckles but they do not show bad. It seems sometimes I try to forget about him but when I have him nearly out of my thoughts something puts him back and my love starts afresh.

Now Minerva I love him and I think he knows I do because they all tease him about me. Tell me Minerva should I keep on acting as I do, or should I smile at him first and always talk with him? Tell me what I should do.—JANE.

A. I can tell you how you should act with this boy who gives you such a special thrill and I can also tell you how you will probably continue to act, which is much as you act now.

It is queer how we can be our very best selves before persons we have no special desire to please. And before the chosen one that we wish to charm we are likely to become stiff-kneed and thick-tongued, awkward and speechless, at least in our extreme youth.

I can remember quite distinctly many of my painful self-conscious moments when a young girl, how I would walk the length of a school corridor directly in front of a boy I admired very much saying not a word, and of all the clever things I would dash off to the freckle-faced boy that sat in front of me and for whom I didn't give a thought. Such are the agonies of youth.

Your girl friend is either ofe of the fortunate sort who is free of sensitiveness, or else she has no particular liking for this particular boy and thus is free and easy with him. Girls who have brothers at home are likely to be free from idealizing any of the boys and much more natural acting with them nevertheless. Naturally this boy chats to your girl friend, for she makes it easy for him to do so. He might like you a lot better if you could control your embarrassment and be just a natural friend to him.

Keep on trying. For in trying there is strength. Some day you may rid yourself of that wretched self-consciousness. Certainly you will by the time you reach my age—which is, oh so very far away.

THE CALF PATH

(Requested.)

A calf walked home, as good calves should:
"One day through the primeval wood,
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail, as all calves do,
Since then three hundred years have fled,
And, I infer, the calf is dead.
"But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs a moral tale,
The trail was taken up next day,
By a lone dog that passed that way,
And then the wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flocks behind him too,
As good bellwethers always do,
And from that day o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made.
"And many men wound in and out,
And turned and dodged and bent about,
And uttered words of righteous wrath,
Because 'twas such a crooked path:
But still they followed—do not laugh,
The first ingration of that calf,
And through this winding woodway stalked,
Because he wabbled when he walked.
"This forest path became a lane,
That bent and turned and turned again;
This crooked path became a road,
Where man ya poor horse, with his load,
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled some three miles in one.
And thus a century and a half,
They trod the footsteps of that calf.
"The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The road became a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis.
And men two centuries and a half,
Trod in the footsteps of that calf!
"Each day a hundred thousand rout,
Followed the zigzag calf about;
And o'er his crooked journey went,
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led,
By a calf near three centuries dead.
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
For thus such reverence is lent,
To well-established precedent,
"A moral lesson this might teach,
Were I ordained and called to preach:
For men are prone to go it blind,
Along the calf paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun,
To do what other men have done.
They follow in the beaten track,
And out and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
To keep the path that others do,
But how the wise wood-gods must laugh,
Who saw the first primeval calf;
Ah, many things this tale might teach,
But I am not ordained to preach."

FIX NEBRASKA'S TRAINING QUOTA

Seven Hundred From This State May Attend Citizens Military Camp.

The citizens military training camps for 1924 will be held at Fort Des Moines, Ia.; Fort Snelling, Minn.; and Fort Leavenworth, Kan., during August, according to O. J. Junge, Lincoln representative of the Military Training Camp association. The camps will continue for a month and Nebraska's quota, based on population, will be approximately 700.

Men between the ages of 17 and 24, of good moral character, and who are physically fit are eligible to take the training. Food, lodging, uniforms, medical attention, and travel allowance of 5 cents a mile to and from the camp, as well as shelter, laundry, and dental attendance, are provided. Boys from the same town or locality will be assigned to the same company whenever desired, thus permitting them to be together while taking training.

The purpose of the military training camp, of which President Theodore Roosevelt was the originator, according to Mr. Junge, is to develop closer national and social unity by bringing together all classes of young men, both native and foreign born; to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship; to stimulate the interest of the youth in America, and the importance of military training as a benefit to the individual taking the training.

A young man can go to one of these training camps with the expectation of finding the best ideals of the true American community. Chaplains and hostesses of the army will be detailed especially for work in the camps. Voluntary religious exercises will be held, and fathers, mothers, and friends of the men can visit them while they are taking the training. There will be ample opportunity for visiting, and the visitors will be welcome.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from O. J. Junge, 729 Q street, or Captain K. M. Still, 416 postoffice building, Lincoln, Neb.

NEW ANTI-GERMAN DEMONSTRATIONS

Russians Show Protest Against Recent Soviet Trade Mission Raid.

(Associated Press.)

MOSCOW, May 12.—Anti-German demonstrations were held throughout Russia yesterday. Workmen, students and government employes paraded in Moscow with banners bearing anti-German legends.

Groups of demonstrants marched toward the German embassy singing revolutionary songs and shouting protests against the recent German raid on the soviet trade mission in Berlin. The crowds were prevented from approaching the embassy by a mounted detachment of troops

Lincoln Man Says Quarantine Still Hampering Tourists

Eastbound trams from California are still well loaded with returning tourists, but Ralph E. Johnson, who has just returned from the west coast, found himself in quite a large company of foreigners, who were making their way to the Atlantic coast by easy and sightseeing stages

A large per cent were from Australia and New Zealand, and therefore spoke English with that interesting brogue, which made conversation with them all the more entertaining

For the benefit of those planning a spring or summer trip to California, Mr. Johnson states that all planning to go on the trains need not hesitate on account of the prevalence of the "foot and mouth disease." But automobile tourists have been greatly hampered and inconvenienced even between counties in California, as well as at the state borders. While quarantine and embargo restrictions were easing up, according to press reports, before Mr. Johnson left the state, he would not recommend automobile trips with California as the destination until present restrictions are removed.

Bank of Sioux Falls Suspends Business

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 12—The Dakota Trust and Savings bank of Sioux Falls, suspended business today and was placed in the hands of the state superintendent of banking.

No cause was given for the closing, in a statement posted on the door, but bank officials intimated that the suspension was made necessary by depleted reserves caused by withdrawals in the last six weeks.

Many Visit Auto Club Park Sunday

The Lincoln Automobile club park, which opened Sunday for the summer season, was visited by 1,200 Lincoln people, during the day. Many took lunches for picnic dinners. The park grounds will remain open to the public, for a week free of charge.

The day was spent in playing horseshoes, baseball and other sport provided by the club. Amusement was provided all day for children on the swings, slides and other devices

Many improvements have been made this year and plans are now being made to add fifteen acres more to the present park grounds.

Fretful crying babies

There's always a reason for their fretting.

Physicians say that when a baby cries it is often just because his diaper is scratchy from washing with harsh soap, or his little hand has shrunk and hurts him.

Keep all the clothes that touch your baby's tender skin soft and comfortable. Wash them with Lux. Lux is mild and absolutely pure.

It won't cause diaper rash. It won't shrink or stiffen little woolen shirts and bands. Use Lux always for all your baby's clothes. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

GERMAN RADICALS INVADE RED HALLE

Monarchists Swarm to Communism Center for Unveiling of von Moltke Shaft.

(Associated Press)

HALLE, Germany, May 12.—"Red Halle," nominally the citadel of German communism and the incubator of insurrections, was Sunday invaded by a German fascist army led by General Ludendorff and a score of ex-army and navy leaders, behind whom trailed 25,000 swastika knights and troops of whom the heaviest contingent hailed from Bavaria.

While Sunday's gathering of nationalistic klans was ostensibly devoted to unveiling the restored monument to von Moltke which was overthrown during communistic riots, the muster of German communists was primarily intended to remain political opponents throughout Germany of the nationalistic renaissance, the fruits of which were reflected in last Sunday's reichstag elections. Not since the world war has Germany witnessed an equally resplendent gathering of generals, admirals and militant nationalists uner the old monarchical colors.

The house of Hohenzollern was represente by Prince Oscar, who was the counter piece of a bevy of generals and admirals of the old regime.

The only disturbance reported up to 3 o'clock occurred in the outskirts of the city, where forty-six patriots engaged in dispersing communist units were forced to use their firearms.

Lincoln Council of Churchs to Hear J. S. Durham

The annual spring meeting of the Council of Churches will be held at the Grand hotel Monday at 6:15 p. m. Since an extra meeting was held a few weeks ago when Dr. Roy B. Guild was in the city, little time will be spent upon department reports except that of the survey and comity committee which has had an interesting bit of work to do in the interim.

The speaker of the evening will be J. Shreve Durham, superintendent of home visitation for the International Council of Religious Education.

Rivers Given Bench Parole

"Love laughs at locksmiths" is an old saw, but Leonard Rivers, negro youth, demonstrated to Judge Shepherd that age has not dimmed its truth.

Leonard broke into the J. & R. Motor Supply Co., but he did it only to make a more prosperous showing before his lady love, whom he planned to marry in June, he told District Judge Shepherd.

After hearing Rivers' story and reading letters signed by A. T. Hegstrom, manager of the store Rivers burglarized, and others, Judge Shepherd paroled the young man from the bench.

Rivers pleaded guilty, in District court, although he had stoutly maintained his innocence before.

Serve Summons On Warden In Simmons Case

Warden W. T. Fenton of the state penitentiary was served today with a summons notifying him that an appeal had been taken to the District court of Boyd county from the decision of County Judge Robert Ford sustaining the state's objections to the habeas corpus action filed in Boyd county by attorneys for Walter L Simmons.

The summons was made returnable June 20, nearly a month after the date set for the execution of Simmons. Simmons will go to the electric chair May 23, according to the death warrant issued by the state supreme court.

Use Lemons to Whiten Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also to soothe red, rough or chapped hands and face. You must mix this remarkable bleach yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

This Test is Free

No Jewels

Compare with pearly teeth

Combat that dingy film

There is a way to whiter teeth, to cleaner, safer teeth. Millions of homes have adopted it.

It means new beauty, new protection. This test will prove that to you. Make it now, watch the results, then decide if your folks should use it.

Teeth are clouded by a film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their great enemy—the cause of most tooth troubles. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, forming dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Few escape such troubles who do not fight the film.

Modern science has found ways to fight it. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved very effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and the use quickly spread the world over.

No question when you see it act

Pepsodent results are quick and conspicuous. They leave no doubt.

It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined results give one a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will always be glad that you made this test. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

She is different than I am. She can talk to all the boys and can find something to say while I talk to only those with which I am more acquainted.

Now there is one boy going to the same school and I love him dearly. He is a junior. I got to liking him when school first started and all my classmates tease me about him and him about me. Once one of my girl friends met him and said "Hello Jane" and he answered "She's all right." Do you think by this he cares for me? I hardly ever get to talk to him only when we have some sort of an amusement in school at night. Then he talks to me and acts very nice. I don't go to dances now because my father died in June. Many times he goes in front or behind me to school but we cannot bring ourselves to exchange a few words only when we are alone.

If this girl friend of mine is along she seems to be able to think of something to say. In school time I turn around and notice him looking at me, but I can't bring myself to smile. But my girl friend always can. Why? I can smile at other boys but I can't smile at him only when he smiles first. He talks to my girl friend and she talks to him. My girl friend is a loud girl. She talks slang and says words that I would not let escape my tongue. Does he talk to her because she talks and acts bad? Does beauty make a difference? I have a clear, white, smooth face but also a few freckles, but they do not show bad. It seems sometimes I try to forget about him but when I have him nearly out of my thoughts something puts him back and my love starts afresh.

Now Minerva I love him and I think he knows I do because they all tease him about me. Tell me Minerva should I keep on acting as I do, or should I smile at him first and always talk with him? Tell me what I should do.—JANE.

A. I can tell you how you should act with this boy who gives you such a special thrill, and I can also tell you how you will probably continue to act, which is much as you act now.

It is queer how we can be our very best selves before persons we have no special desire to please. And before the chosen one that we wish to charm we are likely to become stiff-kneed and thick-tongued, awkward and speechless, at least in our extreme youth.

I can remember quite distinctly many of my painful self-conscious moments when a young girl, how I would walk the length of a school corridor directly in front of a boy I admired very much saying not a word, and of all the clever things I would dash off to the freckle-faced boy that sat in front of me and for whom I didn't give a thought. Such are the agonies of youth.

Your girl friend is either ofe of the fortunate sort who is free of sensitiveness, or else she has no particular liking for this particular boy and thus is free and easy with him. Girls who have brothers at home are likely to be free from idealizing any of the boys and much more natural acting with them nevertheless. Naturally this boy chats to your girl friend, for she makes it easy for him to do so. He might like you a lot better if you could control your embarrassment and be just a natural friend to him.

Keep on trying. For in trying there is strength. Some day you may rid yourself of that wretched self-consciousness. Certainly you will by the time you reach my age—which is, oh so very far away.

THE CALF PATH

(Requested.)

A calf walked home, as good calves should;
"One day through the primeval wood,
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail, as all calves do,
Since then three hundred years have fled,
And, I infer, the calf is dead.
"But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs a moral tale,
The trail was taken up next day,
By a lone dog that passed that way,
And then the wise bell-wether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew hte flocks behind him too,
As good bellwethers always do,
And from that day o'er hill and glade,
Through those old woods a path was made.
"And many men wound in and out,
And turned and dodged and bent about,
And uttered words of righteous wrath,
Because 'twas such a crooked path;
But still they followed—do not laugh,
The first imgration of that calf,
And through this winding woodway stalked,
Because he wabbled when he walked.
"This forest path became a lane,
That bent and turned and turned again;
This crooked path became a road,
Where man ya poor horse, with his load,
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled some three miles in one.
And thus a century and a half,
They trod the footsteps of that calf.
"The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The road became a village street;
And this ,before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare.
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis.
And men two centuries and a half,
Trod in the footsteps of that calf!
"Each day a hundred thousand rout,
Followed the zigzag calf about;
And o'er his crooked journey went,
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led,
By a calf near three centuries dead.
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
For thus such reverence is lent,
To well-established precedent,
"A moral lesson this might teach,
Were I ordained and called to preach:
For men are prone to go it blind,
Along the calf paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun,
To do what other men have done.
They follow in the beaten track,
And out and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
To keep the path that others do,
But how the wise wood-gods must laugh,
Who saw the first primeval calf;
Ah, many things this tale might teach,

Seven Hundred From This State May Attend Citizens Military Camp.

The citizens military training camps for 1924 will be held at Fort Des Moines, Ia.; Fort Snelling, Minn.; and Fort Leavenworth, Kan., during August, according to O. J. Junge, Lincoln representative of the Military Training Camp association. The camps will continue for a month and Nebraska's quota, based on population, will be approximately 700.

Men between the ages of 17 and 24, of good moral character, and who are physically fit are eligible to take the training. Food, lodging, uniforms, medical attention, and travel allowance of 5 cents a mile to and from the camp, as well as shelter, laundry, and dental attendance, are provided. Boys from the same town or locality will be assigned to the same company whenever desired, thus permitting them to be together while taking training.

The purpose of the military training camp, of which President Theodore Roosevelt was the originator, according to Mr. Junge, is to develop closer national and social unity by bringing together all classes of young men, both native and foreign born; to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship; to stimulate the interest of the youth in America, and the importance of military training as a benefit to the individual taking the training.

A young man can go to one of these training camps withthe epectation of finding the best ideals of the true American community. Chaplains and hostesses of the army will be detailed especially for work in the camps. Voluntary religious exercises will be held, and fathers, mothers, and friends of the men can visit them while they are taking the training. There will be ample opportunity for visiting, and the visitors will be welcome.

Full information and application blanks may be abtained from O. J. Junge, 729 Q street, or Captain K. M. Still, 416 postoffice building, Lincoln, Neb.

Alton Bandits Escape With A Large Amount

ALTON, Ill., May 12.—The Alton postoffice safe was blown open and robbed early today and Assistant Postmaster Sam Findley reported that between $50,000 and $60,000 of stamps were taken.

NEW ANTI-GERMAN DEMONSTRATIONS

Russians Show Protest Against Recent Soviet Trade Mission Raid.

(Associated Press.)

MOSCOW, May 12.—Anti-German demonstrations were held throughout Russia yesterday. Workmen, students and government employes paraded in Moscow with banners bearing anti-German legends.

Groups of demonstrants marched toward the German embassy singing revolutionary songs and shouting protests against the recent German raid on the soviet trade mission in Berlin. The crowds were prevented from approaching the embassy by a mounted detachment of troops.

Lincoln Man Says Quarantine Still Hampering Tourists

Eastbound trains from California are still well loaded with returning tourists, but Ralph E. Johnson, who has just returned from the west coast, found himself in quite a large company of foreigners, who were making their way to the Atlantic coast by easy and sightseeing stages.

A large per cent were from Australia and New Zealand, and therefore spoke English with that interesting brogue, which made conversation with them all the more entertaining.

For the benefit of those planning a spring or summer trip to California, Mr. Johnson states that all planning to go on the trains need not hesitate on account of the prevalence of the "foot and mouth disease." But automobile tourists have been greatly hampered and inconvenienced, even between counties in California, as well as at the state borders. While quarantine and embargo restricitons were easing up, according to press reports, before Mr. Johnson left the state, he would not recommend automobile trips with California as the destination until present restrictions are removed.

Bank of Sioux Falls Suspends Business

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 12—The Dakota Trust and Savings bank of Sioux Falls, suspended business today and was placed in the hands of the state superintendent of banking.

No cause was given for the closing, in a statement posted on the door, but bank officials intimated that the suspenston was made necessary by depleted reserves caused by withdrawals in the last six weeks.

Many Visit Auto Club Park Sunday

The Lincoln Automobile club park, which opened Sunday for the summer season, was visited by 1,200 Lincoln people, during the day. Many took lunches for picnic dinners. The park grounds will remain open to the public, for a week free of charge.

The day was spent in playing horseshoes, baseball and other sport provided by the club. Amusement was provided all day for children on the swings, slides and other devices.

Many improvements have been made this year and plans are now being made to add fifteen acres more to the present park grounds.

Fretful crying babies

There's always a reason for their fretting.

Physicians say that when a baby cries it is often just because his diaper sare scratchy from washing with harsh soap, or his little band has shrunk and hurts him.

Keep all the clothes that touch your baby's tender skin soft and comfortable. Wash them with Lux. Lux is mild and absolutely pure.

It won't cause diaper rash. It won't shrink or stiffen little woolen shirts and bands. Use Lux always for all your baby's clothes. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

GERMAN RADICALS INVADE RED HALLE

Monarchists Swarm to Communism Center for Unveiling of von Moltke Shaft.

(Associated Press)

HALLE, Germany, May 12.—"Red Halle," nominally the citadel of German communism and the incubator of insurrections, was Sunday invaded by a German fascist army led by General Ludendorff and a score of ex-army and navy leaders, behind whom trailed 25,000 swastika knights and troops of whom the heaviest contingent hailed from Bavaria.

While Sunday's gathering of nationalistic klans was ostensibly devoted to unveiling the restored monument to von Moltke which was overthrown during communistic riots, the muster of German communists was primarily intended to remain political opponents throughout Germany of the nationalistic renaissance, the fruits of which were reflected in last Sunday's reichstag elections. Not since the world war has Germany witnessed an equally resplendent gathering of generals, admirals and militant nationalists uner the old monarchical colors.

The house of Hohenzollern was represente by Prince Oscar, who was the counter piece of a bevy of generals and admirals of the old regime.

The only disturbance reported up to 3 o'clock occurred in the outskirts of the city, where forty-six patriots engaged in dispersing communist units were forced to use their firearms.

Lincoln Council of Churchs to Hear J. S. Durham

The annual spring meeting of the Council of Churches will be held at the Grand hotel Monday at 6:15 p. m. Since an extra meeting was held a few weeks ago when Dr. Roy B. Guild was in the city, little time will be spent upon department reports except that of the survey and comity committee which has had an interesting bit of work to do in the interim.

The speaker of the evening will be J. Shreve Durham, superintendent of home visitation for the International Council of Religious Education.

Rivers Given Bench Parole

"Love laughs at locksmiths" is an old saw, but Leonard Rivers, negro youth, demonstrated to Judge Shepherd that age has not dimmed its truth.

Leonard broke into the J. & R. Motor Supply Co., but he did it only to make a more prosperous showing before his lady love, whom he planned to marry in June, he told District Judge Shepherd.

After hearing Rivers' story and reading letters signed by A. T. Hegstrom, manager of the store Rivers burglarized, and others, Judge Shepherd paroled the young man from the bench.

Rivers pleaded guilty in District court, although he had stoutly maintained his innocence before.

Use Lemons to Whiten Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also to soothe red, rough or chapped hands and face. You must mix this remarkable bleach yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement.

This Test is Free

No Jewels

Compare with pearly teeth

Combat that dingy film

There is a way to whiter teeth, to cleaner, safer teeth. Millions of homes have adopted it.

It means new beauty, new protection. This test will prove that to you. Make it now, watch the results, then decide if your folks should use it.

Teeth are clouded by a film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their great enemy—the cause of most tooth troubles. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, forming dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Few escape such troubles who do not fight the film.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Modern science has found ways to fight it. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

These methods have proved very effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to advise it, and the use quickly spread the world over.

No question when you see it act

Pepsodent results are quick and conspicuous. They leave no doubt.

It does more than fight film. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

These combined results give one a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will always be glad that you made this test. Cut out coupon now.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

Premier Poincare, who but a few weeks ago scored a triumph when his tenure of office was threatened by an adverse vote on an insignificant question in the chamber of deputies, has apparently suffered defeat in the French elections. Early reports indicate the French premier's opponents have gained a majority of fifty seats, which, in the event that a working agreement can be effected between the various groups known to be in opposition to the government, would force Poincare to resign.

The most significant feature is the strength shown by the socialistic groups. Although lacking a decisive majority in the chamber, the various wings of the socialist party have won more seats than any other group. The national bloc, which developed so much strength after the war, seems to have suffered most severely.

America is primarily interested in the result of the French election because of the relation which it bears to the adoption of the Dawes' expert commission plan for the settlement of the reparations problem—the key to stabilizing conditions in Europe, and bringing about a fair measure of order and progress. Apparently this issue did not play a major role in the elections. The premier and his opponents all conceded that further economies in the administration of French affairs were necessary; that although very notable reductions had been made in French expenditures in the last few months there must be still deeper cuts; and finally, that France cannot look to Germany in the payment of reparations to work out the destiny of France. I was freely admitted by all parties that France must work out her own salvation. That must be made the basis for French action if the Dawes' report is finally worked out.

In other words, the situation which has apparently toppled the Poincare government, is purely domestic. Months ago the premier began to make drastic reductions in expenditures. Thousands of officials were lopped from the payroll, and the entire government service reorganized. The plans had not been carried out completely and it was proposed to further restrict the number of jobholders. The vote against Poincare was in a large measure a revenge vote, in which those who had been removed from lucrative positions at public expense, voiced their displeasure.

Poincare has lasted longer than was to be expected, under the peculiar practice in vogue in European countries. If America had the same system, the adverse votes against President Coolidge in congress would have forced his withdrawal weeks ago for the president has met with nothing but defeat in all of the measures he has placed before congress for its consideration.

Time's softening influence with respect to issues arising out of the war is shown for the first time in this election. Some of the famous military heroes in France went down to defeat, while in at least two instances, men who had been banished from the country for the sentiments they entertained during the war were elected. Poincare's defeat can mean nothing more than a slight temporary delay in clearing up the problems connected with the reparations matter, upon which such an auspicious start has been made as a result of the Dawes report.

PICTURE WRITING, PAST AND PRESENT.

A clever cartoonist in "Life" depicts existing conditions in the United States, with respect to the foreign immigration question, by means of a trolley car with Uncle Sam in front as motorman and congress in the role of conductor, at the rear, all loaded up with a motley assortment of passengers crowded together like sardines inside and hanging on to the platforms and steps, besides swarming on the roof and even clinging to the trolley pole. The car is just starting off on its trip, leaving behind a lot of other would-be passengers, among them an old lady labeled "The rest of the world," surrounded by a flock of rather dirty children.

Uncle Sam wears a worried look as though he wasn't dead sure the car could pull the load it already has aboard. The old woman is shaking her umbrella defiantly at the conductor, who responds only with an uplifted hand, gesturing the disappointed ones back. Underneath the illustration appears the descriptive phrase "Enough's enough."

Columns could be written and published on the immigration situation without getting as close to the meat of the matter as the artist has done with this drawing. He has "said it with pictures" so effectively the nobody could add very much thereto, and in such a concise and effective way that nobody could fail to catch the point.

Modern cartoons are a very effective vehicle for conveying ideas to the public and influencing public sentiment. The art has been developed during the past quarter of a century to such an extent that it has become one of the most powerful factors in our twentieth century life and in shaping the policies of governments. During the world war, it was employed by all the belligerent countries to arouse the fighting spirit of their peoples and keep them imbued with confidence in final victory.

In its essence, the cartoon of today is an evolution from the crude hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt, the stone carvings of Babylon, and the picture writings of the American Indians. Those devises were employed first for the purpose of conveying information between human beings and preserving records for posterity. Vainglorious rulers in the lands of the Nile and the Euphrates adopted the system to engrave their boasted accomplishments upon the imposing edifices they erected and the tombs which they had prepared for themselves. In this country, the savage redskins communicated with each other by carving rude pictures on trees and sandstone cliffs.

Just as man has progressed from traveling on the backs of horses, donkeys and camels to railroad trains, steamships, automobiles and areroplanes, so has he developed his aptitude for expressing his thoughts in pictorial fashion, until nowadays a bright cartoonist can preach a sermon with a few dashes of his pen, which the multitude comprehends without difficulty.

The humorous instinct in our makeup responds more readily, perhaps, to the picture appeal than does any other. We can instantly appreciate and laugh at a witty caricature of something that has fallen within the scope of our own experience and notice. But cartoons on serious subjects also furnish a very forceful method of conveying argument; as witness the use of them for propaganda purposes when a "drive" is to be made, or in carrying on political campaigns.

What is called "the power of the press" lies in these modern days, not alone with the printed news and the editorial appeals, but also in the comic strips and other pictures. Who, for instance, does not follow the domestic experiences of the Gumps, or of Jiggs, from day to day. Many a pearl of truth and wisdom lies in these drawings and others of their kind.

CHANGES IN COURT PROCEDURE.

The County Attorneys' association of Nebraska has started a campaign for a number of changes in the criminal law of the state to speed up justice and to insure certainty of punishment.

Two of the most important changes suggested are: to allow district judges to comment on the evidence in criminal trials and to repeal that section of the statute by which criminals charged wih the same offense may demand separate trials.

Both are greatly to be desired.

Judges are trained for many years for their positions. They are familiar with the artifices of lawyers to distract the attention of jurymen from the real issues in cases to some irrelevent point. They are trained observers of witnesses and are better able than the somewhat bewildered jurymen to judge the credibility of those witnesses.

Any business concern takes advantage of the training of its employes. But the state refuses to allow its highly trained servants to do anything else than merely act as referees to decide points as to introduction of testimony.

Many ludicrous situations have arisen because of the statute allowing men charged with the same offense separate trials. Recently in Lancaster county, two men, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony, were given separate trials. One was acquitted; the other convicted. The convicted man then, was held to have conspired, with himself or to have conspired with the other man without the other's knowledge. This is absurd. Either both were guilty or both innocent.

In federal court, recognized by most students as the most efficient in the world, both of these state court reforms have been adopted for many years.

Federal judges comment on the evidence, and the separate trials of criminals charged with the same offense is unknown.

Recently, when Judge Anderson was commenting on the conviction in federal court of Governor McCray of Indiana, he severely criticized the state courts for failing to convict a man guilty of so many crimes.

But it is not the fault of these courts, but the old restrictions still imposed upon them.

Success to the county attorneys' drive for sensible laws might lift at least Nebraska's courts out of the low regard in which they are now held.

GRABBING AT STRAWS.

The board of managers of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture is the latest organization of this state to grab at a straw. The board of managers follows the example of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce in endorsing the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, which is now pending in congress. All members of the Nebraska delegation are urged to give it their support.

Economically unsound because it calls upon the government to provide stilts for industry, the McNary-Haugen bill receives the approval of the board of managers as an emergency measure. Thus it is proposed to add to the vicious system of creating artificial values through governmental intervention. Congress has it within its power to improve the conditions of agriculture without repeating the sin it committed in the enactment of the "robber tariff" measure. Repeal of the excessive tariff schedules will go a long way towards reestablishing the parity which should exist between the farmers' dollars, and the dollar of the manufacturing baron. Then, by taking steps to stabilize conditions in Europe, congress will aid very materially in reviving the foreign market, which primarily is responsible for the decline in prices of the products of the farm.

Agriculture in Nebraska is not in such desperate straits as to justify desperately grabbing at straws.

Nebraska's revival in the last two years has been substantial. It has exceeded that of other neighboring states. No one can claim credit for improved conditions but the farmer himself. He has settled himself to the task of paying off his obligations, and of saving his money. He has worked hard and faithfully at his task of farming. The farmer probably represents the only class who fully and adequately realizes that the big spree is over; that the big money is not to be made in the same fashion that it was made during the boom days of war; and that only by the closest application and the utmost ingenuity can he hope to succeed.

The farmer is giving more thought to crop diversification. He is devoting more time to his dairy herd and his flocks of chickens; he is selling his eggs, his cream and his butter.

The greatest misfortune which the farmer might suffer in the next few months is to have fool legislators messing in his affairs again.

More Truth Than Poetry

Uncle Daniel Dobkins finds it mighty hard to wait
For the national conventions, though he's not a delegate.
"I ain't missed one," he announces, "not since 1884,
And I'm hopin' I'll be able to get into many more,
For I think that every voter has a duty to be done,
Which is nothin' less than watchin' how the government is run."
Uncle Daniel rises nobly, with a conscience that is clear,
And puts on his party's button in each presidential year;
When the platform is adopted he approves it—every time—
And he hails the banner-bearer as a man who is sublime;
He will get a ticket somehow that will let him through the gate,
And his yell will be terrific when they name the candidate.
Uncle Daniel will turn homeward when the big thing has been done,
And announce that the election is as good, by gash, as won;
He will not concede the other party any chance at all,
Blissful confidence will fill him till the leaves begin to fall;
He will wear his party's button, and feel proudly confident
Through the summer that he's helping to maintain the government.

A BIT OF HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

GIVE YOUR HONEST OPINION WHEN ASKED.

Do not try to make such a good fellow of yourself that you always agree with everyone rather than to stand for an opinion, even if it involves a heated argument.

Have some individuality and stand by it, not to the point where you fail to carry out orders of your superior, that would not do, of course; but you need not be afraid to tell your ideas to the man above, if he asks for them.

Be honest with him and with yourself, even if it is not in line with what you know he believes.

Also, do not enter half-heartedly into any duty your superior sets you to do because you may not favor the way he wants a thing done.

Remember you are hired to do as your employer wishes.

A man who is an employer and has been for some years said: "I can tell you people when I think you are going wrong and can check you up, but I have none to check me up, and I wish I had."

This man would have welcomed suggestions from his men, from those who had really good and practical suggestions to make.

Many bosses and employers are this sort, especially the successful ones.

Do not be afraid to give your honest opinion when you are asked.

Corsets.

Moralists and doctors who once scolded women because they wore corsets are now scolding because they don't. And the women, realizing that they cannot please everybody, continue, as they always have, to please themselves.

Corsets are quite unnecessary to the well formed woman with good muscles. But few women live the kind of life that produces a beautiful figure and good muscles. The rest really need corsets, for artificial support.

The corset is a useful appliance in mechanical therapeutics. However, if it is to do more good than harm it must be properly designed and properly fitted. Just as badly fitting shoes will ruin the feet, so will badly fitting corsets throw the body out of shape to a degree that is actually dangerous to life.

Recently I saw a number of pictures made with a reflecting camera which reproduced the actual body outline in relation to the corset worn by the subject. Those pictures showed fat women looking fatter because tight structures across the back squeezed the flesh up over the top of the corset; they showed how corsets could push the stomach out of place, and exert so much pressure on the diaphragm that breathing was difficult. They showed how one poor old lady, wearing a corset supposed to render helpful support after an operation for rupture, was wearing a design that shoved the abdomen into a position which made another rupture almost inevitable.

Unless you are willing to eat and exercise and sleep your body into a natural corset made from bones and muscles, you will find a corset to be healthful as well as an aid to beauty. But don't invest in a model because some other woman wears it, or because its lines are the lines you'd like to have. Place yourself in the hands of an expert fitter and be guided by the fitter's skill and judgment. If your vanity and your health are at variance in the selection of a model, sacrifice the vanity.

Questions and Answers.

Your questions on health topics will be answered by Dr. Dorothy Becker if you address her in care of this newspaper.

L. D. C.—Dish washing makes my hands very rough. Can you suggest any way to keep them smooth?

(Copyright by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction prohibited.)

L. E. M.—I am a young man in college and healthy except for a bilious attack once a year. My skin is muddy and oily, also I have pimples and it is because of the bad skin that I am writing you for advice. I do not use tobacco nor drink coffee to excess, however, I am very fond of sweets.

ANSWER.—You must not allow yourself to become constipated and you must stop eating all candy, rich deserts, ice cream, soda water, etc. Don't use soap on your face but cleanse it with cold cream. After shaving apply a little medicated alcohol to the face.

CHAPTER LXXXIX.

(Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

When Richard called the next evening, Winifred introduced several of the subjects of which Donald had spoken.

First of all, with an effort, she asked him if he still desired to repay the loan she had made him. He looked at her sharply, almost suspiciously.

Why do you ask that now?" he questioned. "Have you changed your mind about leaving it with me?"

"No—no!" she disclaimed. "Only—I thought that perhaps I might have made you uncomfortable—humiliated you—or something like that—by insisting on your keeping the money till—"

"Until we are married, you mean?" That was not what she meant, but she did not say so.

"Did Muir advise you to ask me for the money?" he demanded.

"He certainly did not!" she answered sharply. "Dick, what is the matter with you these days? You are so much more abrupt, so much more suspicious than you used to be. I do not like it."

She was surprised to hear herself uttering these words. She almost regretted them as she listened to her lover's apology.

"Darling," he said: "I did not know that I had been cross—or different from what I have always been. Forgive me. It must be that I am nervous about starting this new business. Then, too, I want to be with you, and cannot, always. But, see, here"—drawing her to him—"this is going to make you mine more than ever."

Taking a ring from his vest pocket, he slipped it on the third finger of her left hand.

"Dick!" she gasped. "Oh, Dick, I did not suppose you were going to get that—yet!"

"You like it, don't you, sweetheart?" he asked eagerly.

"It is beautiful!" she replied truthfully. Yet even as she spoke she wished she could make her voice sound more enthusiastic.

The ring was gorgeous enough to compel her admiration—a cluster of diamonds and sapphires set in platinum.

"I know that the conventional engagement ring is a solitaire," Rankin said. "But I had a notion that I wanted yours a bit different. The diamonds stand for the light you have brought into my life, the sapphires, for our love for each other."

She smiled at his romantic imagery. "That is just like you, Dick! I never thought of having such a beautiful engagement ring."

"And it does not proclaim to all the world that you are engaged, as a solitaire would," he said. "For I suppose you do not want that fact known just yet, do you?"

"Do you?" she parried.

"I would want it known if we were to be married at once. As it is, suppose we keep it a little secret—unsuspected except by your nearest until just before our wedding?"

"I have no nearest except you—and Donald—and perhaps Mrs. Bates," the girl reminded him. "And Donald and Mrs. Bates will not tell anything until we give them permission."

So that matter was settled, Winifred thought. Another of the questions that Muir had put to her was answered.

"As to the matter of the loan," Richard said abruptly. "Of course, if you wish that five thousand, I can let you have it at once. If not—it is perfectly safe with me—drawing interest, of course—and we might let it stay where it is."

"Certainly!" she agreed. A slightly anxious expression in his eyes made her reply promptly. Perhaps he was afraid that she doubted his business ability. Of course, he would invest her money as well as she could—or as Donald could, for that matter.

He was very gentle for the rest of the evening. The slight captiousness that she had occasionally noted lately was gone. She was glad she had spoken of his increasing irritability. He loved her too much to wound her knowingly. And it was a proof of her love for him that she had called his attention to this little failing.

She was also glad that she had decided to let him invest that money for her. He was so generous, and so fond of her.

She looked down again at her ring. "You really like it, Winifred?" Rankin asked.

"It is stunning," she replied. "Who could help liking it?" There was yet another matter that Donald had spoken of in connection with Rankin. That was Paine's proposed call.

"You have told Rankin that Paine is coming to see you?" Donald had asked, then had impulsively forbidden her to answer his question, declaring that it was none of his business.

And it wasn't. Neither, for that matter, was it any of Richard's business—yet. When they were married—or their engagement was announced—it would be different. Anyway, she was not going to mention Paine's call, now. That was settled.

"What are you thinking of?" Richard asked.

"Several things," she replied. "Among others, that I am glad we decided not to have our engagement announced just yet."

Bureau Report Shows Winter Wheat Abandonment In Nebraska Light.

Winter wheat abandonment in Nebraska is light and the average condition of the crop is high, says the May report of the bureau of crops and livestock estimates. The report also shows condition of rye, hay and pastures to be "very favorable; and swine losses during the past year "very heavy while other livestock losses were about as usual."

The report follows in part:

"About 3 per cent of the winter wheat will be abandoned. The area planted last summer and autumn has been revised to 2,998,000 acres, and after deducting the abandonment, leaves a total of 2,908,000 acres for harvest. Last year 2,822,000 acres were harvested and 3,942,000 acres in 1922. The 1918-22 average is 3,554,000 acres.

"The condition of winter wheat is 89 per cent as compared to 91 per cent last month, and 67 per cent a year ago. This indicates a crop of 47,476,000 bushels against 28, 220,000 bushels last year. The 1918-22 average is 52,244,000 bushels.

"The condition of rye is 93 per cent of normal as compared to 77 per cent last year. On the basis of 132,000 acres left for harvest and the present condition, the forecasted crop is 1,927 bushels.

"The condition of all tame hay is 92 per cent; wild hay 92 per cent. Stocks of old hay are estimated at 14 per ccent of the crop, or 893,000 tons as against 820,000 tons on hand a year ago. The condition of pastures is 89 per cent of normal.

"Losses of hogs have been above normal, while losses of other livestock have been about as usual. The average number lost per thousand during the past year is sa follows: Horses and mules, 13 head; cattle, from disease, 17 head; from exposure, 6 head; sheep, from disease, 22 head, from expsureo, 8 head; lambs, from disease and exposure, 27 head; swine, from disease, 80 head.

"The condition of health of livestock is reported as follows: Horses nad mules, 95 per cent of normal, cattle, 9 per cent; sheep 96 per cent; hogs, 88 per cent. The condition of health of hogs is below the usual, while that of livestock is about normal.

"The present farm labor supply is 94 per cent of normal, and the demand also 94 per cent of normal. Labor supply and demand are therefore balanced."

The Great Need.

(Fairbury Journal.)

The great need of the day is more intelligent people preaching and advocating democracy. There is much opposition to government opposed to the democratic form but the remedies offered are not based on true democratic principles but are the product of some inventor who has a new system or scheme which will bring the millenium. The best government on earth is the simplest, that which merely guarantees the people justice, which lets them alone, recognizing that the people are the final source of authority, that the people are more capable of ruling themselves than any number who are self-selected are capable of ruling them, that the people are more intelligent than their rulers and more moral and honest.

We have altogether too much government and there are so few who scheme or invention for making life better that there are few advocates of the old-fashioned democracy which is the only kind of government by the people.

A complicated, intricate, paternalistic form of government will break down under its own weight. It cannot be administered by the people, only by tyrants, dictators or the military.

It is unnecessary to go into detail but we would that those who see the evils of the present day would not offer a remedy by substitution of other schemes but would offer the remedy of democracy, simplified government based on justice between man and man.

Deflation.

(Nebraska City Press.)

The East is beginning to take the deflation which came to the western farmer.

There is apprehension among organized business and organized labor in the east that production has been too large in some basic industries; that there is no proper method by which this over-production can be absorbed.

This paper predicted more than a year ago, basing its statements on an article in the sensible and conservative Wall Street Journal, that the east would eventually come to a period of water-squeezing which was so painfully administered to the western farmer.

It is our further opinion that commodity prices will be radically reduced in this country within the next few months; that labor which has been arrogant and adamant in many large industrial centers will realize the necessity for accepting less or face the prospect of unemployment.

The Midwestern farmer deflated when the props were knocked out from under the prices he had been receiving for his products during the period of the war and the years immediately following that war. He deflated more rapidly than his manufacturing brother because he has not been organized so efficiently as Big Business and the deflation has done him good, generally speaking. Now it is time for the manufacturer to deflate, and he is about ready to see the necessity for doing it.

There is a perceptible slowing up in all fields of industry in the east. Factories have learned that they require the assistance of the food producing population if they are to continue in business. This help cannot be offered on the basis of the present commodity prices. If the east desires to sell its goods it must reduce this disparity which exists, the great gulf between what the farmer is able to pay and what the manufacturer insists must be paid.

There is just one thing for the Nebraska farmer to keep in mind: he must avoid any recurrence of speculation or inflation. His prosperity—and that prosperity will be apparent within another year—must be based on common sense. He must keep his feet on the ground. No governmental aids will provide him any relief for the laws of economics overrule any effort on the part of the human race to provide false or artificial stimulations. He will work out his difficulties easily and quickly if he remembers that paternalism has no part in his life. It cannot do him any good and political demagogues who say it can are merely lying to him.

Agriculture is coming into its own and as long as men and women eat food the middle west will be the bread-basket of the world. The farmer has seen his own castles in the air dissipated into the circumambient atmosphere; now is the time for him to help knock the props out from under the artificiality which has bolstered up false values in other fields of endeavor. He can do this if he will discourage speculation and keep his head.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

Premier Poincare, who but a few weeks ago scored a triumph when his tenure of office was threatened by an adverse vote on an insignificant question in the chamber of deputies, has apparently suffered defeat in the French elections. Early reports indicate the French premier's opponents have gained a majority of fifty seats, which, in the event that a working agreement can be effected between the various groups known to be in opposition to the government, would force Poincare to resign.

The most significant feature is the strength shown by the socialistic groups. Although lacking a decisive majority in the chamber, the various wings of the socialist party have won more seats than any other group. The national bloc, which developed so much strength after the war, seems to have suffered most severely.

America is primarily interested in the result of the French election because of the relation which it bears to the adoption of the Dawes' expert commission plan for the settlement of the reparations problem—the key to stabilizing conditions in Europe, and bringing about a fair measure of order and progress. Apparently this issue did not play a major role in the elections. The premier and his opponents all conceded that further economies in the administration of French affairs were necessary; that although very notable reductions had been made in French expenditures in the last few months there must be still deeper cuts; and finally, that France cannot look to Germany in the payment of reparations to work out the destiny of France. I was freely admitted by all parties that France must work out her own salvation. That must be made the basis for French action if the Dawes' report is finally worked out.

In other words, the situation which has apparently toppled the Poincare government, is purely domestic. Months ago the premier began to make drastic reductions in expenditures. Thousands of officials were lopped from the payroll, and the entire government service reorganized. The plans had not been carried out completely and it was proposed to further restrict the number of jobholders. The vote against Poincare was in a large measure a revenge vote, in which those who had been removed from lucrative positions at public expense, voiced their displeasure.

Poincare has lasted longer than was to be expected, under the peculiar practice in vogue in European countries. If America had the same system, the adverse votes against President Coolidge in congress would have forced his withdrawal weeks ago for the president has met with nothing but defeat in all of the measures he has placd before congress for its consideration.

Time's softening influence with respect to issues arising out of the war is shown for the first time in this election. Some of the famous military heroes in France went down to defeat, while in at least two instances, men who had been banished from the country for the sentiments they entertained during the war were elected.

Poincare's defeat can mean nothing more than a slight temporary delay in clearing up the problems connected with the reparations matter, upon which such an auspicious start has been made as a result of the Dawes report.

PICTURE WRITING, PAST AND PRESENT.

A clever cartoonist in "Life" depicts existing conditions in the United States, with respect to the foreign immigration question, by means of a trolley car with Uncle Sam in front as motorman and congress in the role of conductor, at the rear, all loaded up with a motley assortment of passengers crowded together like sardines inside and hanging on to the platforms and steps, besides swarming on the roof and even clinging to the trolley pole. The car is just starting off on its trip, leaving behind a lot of other would-be passengers, among them an old lady labeled "The rest of the world," surrounded by a flock of rather dirty children.

Uncle Sam wears a worried look as though he wasn't dead sure the car could pull the load it already has aboard. The old woman is shaking her umbrella defiantly at the conductor, who responds only with an uplifted hand, gesturing the disappointed one back. Underneath the illustration appears the descriptive phrase "Enough's enough."

Columns could be written and published on the immigration situation without getting as close to the meat of the matter as the artist has done with this drawing. He has "said it with pictures" so effectively tha nobody could add very much thereto, and in such a concise and effective way that nobody could fail to catch the point.

Modern cartoons are a very effective vehicle for conveying ideas to the public and influencing public sentiment. The art has been developed during the past quarter of a century to such an extent that it has become one of the most powerful factors in our twentieth century life and in shaping the policies of governments. During the world war, it was employed by all the belligerent countries to arouse the fighting spirit of their peoples and keep them imbued with confidence in final victory.

In its essence, the cartoon of today is an evolution from the crude hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt, the stone carvings of Babylon, and the picture writings of the American Indians. Those devises were employed first for the purpose of conveying information between human beings and preserving records for posterity. Vainglorious rulers in the lands of the Nile and the Euphrates adopted the system to engrave their boasted accomplishments upon the imposing edifices they erected and the tombs which they had prepared for themselves. In this country, the savage redskins communicated with each other by carving rude pictures on trees and sandstone cliffs.

Just as man has progressed from traveling on the backs of horses, donkeys and camels to railroad trains, steamships, automobiles and areroplanes, so has he developed his aptitude for expressing his thoughts in pictorial fashion, until nowadays a bright cartoonist can preach a sermon with a few dashes of his pen, which the multitude comprehends without difficulty.

The humorous instinct in our makeup responds more readily, perhaps, to the picture appeal than does any other. We can instantly appreciate and laugh at a witty caricature of something that has fallen within the scope of our own experience and notice. But cartoons on serious subjects also furnish a very forceful method of conveying argument; as witness the use of them for propaganda purposes when a "drive" is to be made, or in carrying on political campaigns.

What is called 'the power of the press" lies in these modern days, not alone with the printed news and the editorial appeals, but also in the comic strips and other pictures. Who, for instance, does not follow the domestic experiences of the Gumps, or of Jiggs, from day to day Many a pearl of truth and wisdom lies in these drawings and others of their kind.

CHANGES IN COURT PROCEDURE.

The County Attorneys' association of Nebraska has started a campaign for a number of changes in the criminal law of the state to speed up justice and to insure certainty of punishment.

Two of the most important changes suggested are: to allow district judges to comment on the evidence in criminal trials and to repeal that section of the statute by which criminals charged wih the same offense may demand separate trials.

Both are greatly to be desired.

Judges are trained for many years for their positions. They are familiar with the artifices of lawyers to distract the attention of jurymen from the real issues in cases to some irrelevent point. They are trained observers of witnesses and are better able than the somewhat bewildered jurymen to judge the credibility of those witnesses.

Any business concern takes advantage of the training of its employes. But the state refuses to allow its highly trained servants to do anything else than merely act as referees to decide points as to introduction of testimony.

Many ludicrous situations have arisen because of the statute allowing men charged with the same offense separate trials. Recently in Lancaster county, two men, charged with conspiracy to commit a felony, were given separate trials. One was acquitted; the other convicted. The convicted man then, was held to have conspired, with himself or to have conspired with the other man without the other's knowledge. This is absurd. Either both were guilty or both innocent.

In federal court, recognized by most students as the most efficient in the world, both of these state court reforms have been adopted for many years.

Federal judges comment on the evidence, and the separate trials of criminals charged with the same offense is unknown.

Recently, when Judge Anderson was commenting on the conviction in federal court of Governor McCray of Indiana, he severely criticized the state courts for failing to convict a man guilty of so many crimes.

But it is not the fault of these courts, but the old restrictions still imposed upon them.

Success to the county attorneys' drive for sensible laws might lift at least Nebraska's courts out of the low regard in which they are now held.

GRABBING AT STRAWS.

The board of managers of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture is the latest organization of this state to grab at a straw. The board of managers follows the example of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce in endorsing the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, which is now pending in congress. All members of the Nebraska delegation are urged to give it their support.

Economically unsound because it calls upon the government to provide stilts for industry, the McNary-Haugen bill receives the approval of the board of managers as an emergency measure. Thus it is proposed to add to the vicious system of creating artificial values through governmental intervention. Congress has it within its power to improve the conditions of agriculture without repeating the sin it committed in the enactment of the "robber tariff" measure. Repeal of the excessive tariff schedules will go a long way towards reestablishing the parity which should exist between the farmers' dollars, and the dollar of the manufacturing baron. Then, by taking steps to stabilize conditions in Europe, congress will aid very materially in reviving the foreign market, which primarily is responsible for the decline in prices of the products of the farm.

Agriculture in Nebraska is not in such desperate straits as to justify desperately grabbing at straws.

Nebraska's revival in the last two years has been substantial. It has exceeded that of other neighboring states. No one can claim credit for improved conditions but the farmer himself. He has settled himself to the task of paying off his obligations, and of saving his money. He has worked hard and faithfully at his task of farming. The farmer probably represents the only class who fully and adequately realizes that the big spree is over; that the big money is not to be made in the same fasihon that it was made during the boom days of war; and that only by the closest application and the utmost ingenuity can he hope to succeed.

The farmer is giving more thought to crop diversification. He is devoting more time to his dairy herd and his flocks of chickens; he is selling his eggs, his cream and his butter.

The greatest misfortune which the farmer might suffer in the next few months is to have fool legislators messing in his affairs again.

More Truth Than Poetry

Uncle Daniel Dobkins finds it mighty hard to wait
For the national conventions, though he's not a delegate.
"I ain't missed one," he announces, "not since 1884,
And I'm hopin' I'll be able to get into many more,
For I think that every voter has a duty to be done,
Which is nothin' less than watchin' how the government is run."
Uncle Daniel rises nobly, with a conscience that is clear,
And puts on his party's button in each presidential year;
When the platform is adopted he approves
it—every time—
And he hails the banner-bearer as a man who is sublime;
He will get a ticket somehow that will let him through the gate,
And his yell will be terrific when they name
the candidate.
Uncle Daniel will turn homeward when the big thing has been done,
And announce that the election is as good,
by gash, as won;
He will not concede the other party any chance at all,
Blissful confidence will fill him till the leaves begin to fall;
He will wear his party's button, and feel proudly confident
Through the summer that he's helping to maintain the government.

A BIT OF HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

GIVE YOUR HONEST OPINION WHEN ASKED.

Do not try to make such a good fellow of yourself that you always agree with everyone rather than to stand for an opinion, even if it involves a heated argument.

Have some individuality and stand by it, not to the point where you fail to carry out orders of your superior, that would not do, of course; but you need not be afraid to tell your ideas to the man above, if he asks for them.

Be honest with him and with yourself, even if it is not in line with what you know he believes.

Also, no not enter half-heartedly into any duty your superior sets you to do because you may not favor the way he wants a thing done.

Remember you are hired to do as your employer wishes.

A man who is an employer and has been for some years said: "I can tell you people when I think you are going wrong and can check you up, but I have none to check me up, and I wish I had."

This man would have welcomed suggestions from his men, from those who had really good and practical suggestions to make.

Many bosses and employers are this sort, especially the successful ones.

Corsets.

Moralists and doctors who once scolded women because they wore corsets are now scolding because they don't. And the women, realizing that they cannot please everybody, continue, as they always have, to please themselves.

Corsets are quite unnecessary to the well formed woman with good muscles. But few women live the kind of life that produces a beautiful figure and good muscles. The rest really need corsets, for artificial support.

The corset is a useful appliance in mechanical therapeutics. However, if it is to do more good than harm it must be properly designed and properly fitted. Just as badly fitting shoes will ruin the feet, so will badly fitting corsets throw the body out of shape to a degree that is actually dangerous to life.

Recently I saw a number of pictures made with a reflecting camera which reproduced the actual body outline in relation to the corset worn by the subject. Those pictures showed fat women looking fatter because tight structures across the back squeezed the flesh up over the top of the corset; they showed how corsets could push the stomach out of place, and exert so much pressure on the diaphragm that breathing was difficult. They showed how one poor old lady, wearing a corset supposed to render helpful support after an operation for rupture, was wearing a design that shoved the abdomen into a position which made another rupture almost inevitable.

Unless you are willing to eat and exercise and sleep your body into a natural corset made from bones and muscles, you will find a corset to be healthful as well as an aid to beauty. But don't invest in a model because some other woman wears it, or because its lines are the lines you'd like to have. Place yourself in the hands of an expert fitter and be guided by the fitter's skill and judgment. If your vanity and your health are at variance in the selection of a model, sacrifice the vanity.

Questions and Answers.

Your questions on health topics will be answered by Dr. Dorothy Bocker if you address her in care of this newspaper.

L. D. C.—Dish washing makes my hands very rough. Can you suggest any way to keep them smooth?

(Copyright by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction prohibited.)

L. E. M.—I am a young man in college and healthy except for a bilious attack once a year. My skin is muddy and oily, also I have pimples and it is because of the bad skin that I am writing you for advice. I do not use tobacco nor drink coffee to excess, however, I am very fond of sweets.

ANSWER.—You must not allow yourself to become constiuated and you must stop eating all candy, rich deserts, ice cream, soda water, etc. Don't use soap on your face but cleanse it with cold cream. After shaving apply a little medicated alcohol to the face.

CHAPTER LXXXIX.

(Copyright, 1923, by Star Company.

When Richard called the next evening, Winifred introduced several of the subjects of which Donald had spoken.

First of all, with an effort, she asked him if he still desired to repay the loan she had made him. He looked at her sharply, almost suspiciously.

Why do you ask that now?" he questioned. "Have you changed your mind about leaving it with me?"

"No—no! she disclaimed. "Only—I thought that perhaps I might have made you uncomfortable—humiliated you—or something like that—by insisting on your keeping the money till——"

"Until we are married, you mean?" That was not what she meant, but she did not say so.

"Did Muir advise you to ask me for the money?" he demanded.

"He certainly did not!" she answered sharply. "Dick, what is the matter with you these days? You are so much more abrupt, so much more suspicious than you used to be. I do not like it."

She was surprised to hear herself uttering these words. She almost regretted them as she listened to her lover's opology.

"Darling," he said: "I did not know that I had been cross—or different from what I have always been. Forgive me. It must be that I am nervous about starting this new business. Then, too, I want to be with you, and cannot, always. But, see here"—drawing her to him—"this is going to make you mine more than ever."

Taking a ring from his vest pocket, he slipped it on the third finger of her left hand.

"Dick!" she gasped. "Oh, Dick, I did not suppose you were going to get that—yet!"

"You like it, don't you, sweetheart?" he asked eagerly.

"It is beautiful!" she replied truthfully. Yet even as she spoke she wished she could make her voice sound more enthusiastic.

The ring was gorgeous enough to compel her admiration—a cluster of diamonds and sapphires set in platinum.

"I know that the conventional engagement ring is a solitaire," Rankin said. "But I had a notion that I wanted yours a bit different. The diamonds stand for the light you have brought into my life, the sapphires, for our love for each other."

She smiled at his romantic imagery. "That is just like you, Dick! I never thought of having such a beautiful engagement ring."

"And it does not proclaim to all the world that you are engaged, as a solitaire would," he said. "For I suppose you do not want that fact known just yet, do you?"

"Do you?" she parried.

"I would want it known if we were to be married at once. As it is, suppose we keep it a little secret—unsuspected except by your nearest until just before our wedding?"

"I have no nearest except you—and Donald—and perhaps rs. Bates," the girl reminded him. "And Donald and Mrs. Bates will not tell anything until we give them permission."

So that matter was settled, Winifred thought. Another of the questions that Muir had put to her was answered.

"As to the matter of the loan," Richard said abruptly. "Of course, if you wish that five thousand, I can let you have it at once. If not—it is perfectly safe with me—drawing interest, of course—and we might let it stay where it is."

"Certainly!" she agreed. A slightly anxious expression in his eyes made her reply promptly. Perhaps he was afraid that she doubted his business ability. Of course, he would invest her money as well as she could—or as Donald could, for that matter.

He was very gentle for the rest of the evening. The slight captiousness that she had occasionally noted lately was gone. She was glad she had spoken of his increasing irritability. He loved her too much to wound her knowingly. And it was a proof of her love for him that she had called his attention to this little failing.

She was also glad that she had decided to let him invest that money for her. He was so generous, and so fond of her.

She looked down again at her ring. "You really like it, Winifred?" Rankin asked.

"It is stunning," she replied. "Who could help liking it?" There was yet another matter that Donald had spoken of in connection with Rankin. That was Paine's proposed call.

"You have told Rankin that Paine is coming to see you?" Donald had asked, then had impulsively forbidden her to answer his question, declaring that it was none of his business.

And it wasn't. Neither, for that matter, was it any of Richard's business—yet. When they were married—or their engagement was announced—it would be different. Anyway, she was not going to mention Paine's call, now. That was settled.

"What are you thinking of?" Richard asked.

"Several things," she replied. "Among others, that I am glad we decided not to have our engagement announced just yet."

HAY AND GRAIN PROSPECT GOOD

Bureau Report Shows Winter Wheat Abandonment In Nebraska Light.

Winter wheat abandonment in Nebraska is light and the average condition of the crop is high, says the May report of the bureau of crops and livestock estimates. The report also shows condition of rye, hay and pastures to be "very favorable; and swine losses during the past year "very heavy while other livestock losses were about as usual."

The report follows in part:

"About 3 per cent of the winter wheat will be abandoned. The area planted last summer and autumn has been revised to 2,998,000 acres, and after deducting the abandonment, leaves a total of 2,908,000 acres for harvest. Last year 2,822,000 acres were harvested and 3,942,000 acres in 1922. The 1918-22 average is 3,554,000 acres.

"The condition of winter wheat is 89 per cent as compared to 91 per cent last month, and 67 per cent a year ago. This indicates a crop of 47,476,000 bushels against 28, 220,000 bushels last year. The 1918-22 average is 52,244,000 bushels.

"The condition of rye is 93 per cent of normal as compared to 77 per cent last year. On the basis of 132,000 acres left for harvest and the present condition, the forecasted crop is 1,927 bushels.

"The condition of all tame hay is 92 per cent; wild hay 92 per cent. Stocks of old hay are estimated at 14 per ccent of the crop, or 893,000 tons as against 520,000 tons on hand a year ago. The condition of pastures is 89 per cent of normal.

"Losses of hogs have been above normal, while losses of other livestock have been about as usual. The average number lost per thousand during the past year is sa follows: Horses and mules, 13 head; cattle, from disease, 17 head; from exposure, 6 head; sheep, from disease, 22 head, from expsureo, 8 head; lambs, from disease and exposure, 27 head; swine, from disease, 80 head.

"The condition of health of livestcok is reported as follows: Horses nad mules, 95 per cent of normal; cattle, 9 per cent; sheep 96 per cent; hogs, 88 per cent. The condition of health of hogs is below the usual, while that of livestock is about normal.

"The present farm labor supply is 94 per cent of normal, and the demand also 94 per cent of normal. Labor supply and demand are therefore balanced."

The Great Need.

(Fairbury Journal.)

The great need of the day is more intelligent people preaching and advocating democracy. There is much opposition to government opposed to the democratic form but the remedies offered are not based on true democratic principles but are the product of some inventor who has a new system or scheme which will bring the millenium. The best government on earth is the simplest, that which merely guarantees the people justice, which lets them alone, recognizing that the people are the final source of authority, that the people are more capable of ruling themselves than any number who are self-selected are capable of ruling them, that the people are more intelligent than their rulers and more moral and honest.

We have altogether too much government and there are so few who scheme or invention for making life better that there are few advocates of the old-fashioned democracy which is the only kind of government by the people.

A complicated, intricate, paternalistic form of government will break down under its own weight. It cannot be administered by the people, only by tyrants, dictators or the military.

It is unnecessary to go into detail but we would that those who see the evils of the present day would not offer a remedy by substitution of other schemes but would offer the remedy of democracy, simplified government based on justice between man and man.

Deflation.

(Nebraska City Press.)

The East is beginning to take the deflation which came to the western farmer.

There is apprehension among organized business and organized labor in the east that production has been too large in some basic industries; that there is no proper method by which this over-production can be absorbed.

This paper predicted more than a year ago, basing its statements on an article in the sensible and conservative Wall Street Journal, that the east would eventually come to a period of water-squeezing which was so painfully administered to the western farmer.

It is our further opinion that commodity prices will be radically reduced in this country within the next few months; that labor which has been arrogant and adamant in many large industrial centers will realize the necessity for accepting less or face the prospect of unemployment.

The Midwestern farmer deflated when the props were knocked out from under the prices he had been receiving for his products during the period of the war and the years immediately following that war. He deflated more rapidly than his manufacturing brother because he has not been organized so efficiently as Big Business and the deflation has done him good, generally speaking. Now it is time for the manufacturer to deflate, and he is about ready to see the necessity for doing it.

There is a perceptible slowing up in all fields of industry in the east. Factories have learned that they require the assistance of the food producing population if they are to continue in business. This help cannot be offered on the basis of the present commodity prices. If the east desires to sell its goods it must reduce this disparity which exists, the great gulf between what the farmer is able to pay and what the manufacturer insists must be paid.

There is just one thing for the Nebraska farmer to keep in mind: he must avoid any recurrence of speculation or inflation. His prosperity—and that prosperity will be apparent within another year—must be based on common sense. He must keep his feet on the ground. No governmental aids will provide him any relief for the laws of economics overrule any effort on the part of the human race to provide false or artificial stimulations. He will work out his difficulties easily and quickly if he remembers that paternalism has no part in his life. It cannot do him any good and political demagogues who say it can are merely lying to him.

Agriculture is coming into its own and as long as men and women eat food the middle west will be the bread-basket of the world. The farmer has seen his own castles in the air dissipated into the circumambient atmosphere; now is the time for him to help knock the props out from under the artificiality which has bolstered up false values in other fields of endeavor. He can do this if he will discourage speculation and keep his head.

CHARGES MELLON IS DRY LAW FOE

Pinchot Flays Secretary and Butler at National Meeting of Methodists.

(Associated Press.)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 12.—Assailing President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, as a nullifier of the prohibition law, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, as an open defender of its violation, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, brought 3,000 Methodists to their feet in wild applause at the men's convention here Sunday night.

"The secretary has publicly defended conditions which our whole people know to be scandalous in the extreme," Governor Pinchot said. "He has publicly denounced the proposal to let in the light on the federal enforcement service."

Declaring law enforcement to be greatest moral issues now before the American people, Governor Pinchot asserted it was time for the moral forces of America to attack the foes of the prohibition law. The federal enforcement service has failed, he said. It should be taken out of politics and the law enforced through the liquor permit system.

"The failure of the enforcement service is some times claimed to mean that the Eighteenth amendment has failed," Governor Pinchot continued. "It means nothing of the sort. The law has not failed! Nicholas Murray Butler and other nullifiers of the law to the contrary notwithstanding."

Governor Pinchot then made his charge against Secretary Mellon.

"His opposition to the investigation of the enforcement," he said, "will direct public attention and the attention of the investigating committee to the fact that Mr. Mellon was part owner of many thousands barrels of Overholt whisky when the Eighteenth amendment went into effect; to the fact that late as March 31 of this year he was, on the authority of Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, still interested in the proceeds of this whisky when sold; to the illegal withdrawals of more than 42,000 barrels of whisky from the Overholt warehouse near Pittsburgh, which led to indictments, and to the fact that the indictments were quashed and the men responsible were never punished."

F. D. Coburn, Well Known Agricultural Expert, Passes Away

F. D. Coburn, father of Mrs. Frank D. Tomson of this city and secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture for more than twenty years, died Sunday morning at his home at Topeka, after an illness of three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Tomson left for Topeka immediately after receiving word of Mr. Coburn's death.

Mr. Coburn was a veteran of the Civil war. He went to Kansas when he was a young man and had lived there ever since. He was engaged in farming as a young man and at that time began contributing to newspapers on agricultural topics. Later he became editor of the Live Stock Indicator and held that position for six years.

Due to his interest in agriculture, he was appointed secretary of the state board of agriculture to fill an unexpired term and was subsequently elected to the position and held it for twenty years when he retired.

Mr. Coburn was an able writer and his annual reports of the agricultural department were written in such a fascinating style that many of the reports were soon used as text books in the United States and in foreign countries. Mr. Coburn is listed in "Who's Who," as the author of a book on alfalfa, "Swine in America," and author of thirty other volumes on agricultural subjects.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Tomson, Mr. Coburn is survived by his wife, a son, Dr. Clay E. Coburn of Kansas City, Kas., and another daughter, Mrs. Theodore Jessup of Chicago.

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD IN STREAM

Alfred Miller Not Seen Alive After Starting on Fishing Trip.

(Special to The Star)

HUBBELL, Neb., May 12.—Alfred Miller, about seventy-five years of age, was found dead in Rose creek, near here, Sunday afternoon. He had been last seen alive about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at that time was going fishing. It is supposed that he had an attack of heart trouble and fell into the stream.

As Mr. Miller lived alone his absence from home had not been noticed. He had been in Hebron Saturday afternoon and started on the fishing trip after his return.

His only child is Mrs. Vola Luce, who for a number of years has been a teacher in the schools of Thayer county. She is now in a serious condition.

Is Badly Iujured By Kick of Horse

(Special to The Star)

WAUSA, Neb., May 12. — Alfred Hendrickson, a farmer living near here, was kciked in the face by one of his horses and rendered unconscious while plowing in a field on his farm. Fred Case, a neighbor who was working in an adjoining field, looked toward the field where Mr. Hendrickson was at work and noticed that he was lying on the ground by the side of the plow. He started to uphitch, but seeing Mr. Hendrickson get up, walk around and climb on the plow, he started back to work, thinking nothing serious was the matter. When Mr. Case looked in that direction again he saw Mr. Hendrickson fall to the ground. Unhitching his team at once and crossing over to the field, he found Mr. Hendrickson unconscious and hurried with him to Wausa for medical aid. His face was badly bruised but no fractured bones were revealed.

Veteran Railroad Engineer Called

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., May 12. — Frank G. Hollenback, veteran railroad engineer who retired recently after half a century of service with the Union Pacific, died unexpectedly at his home, here yesterday.

With a record of 50 years with the one road, Mr. Hollenback was numbered among the oldest of the Union Pacific employes in point of continuous service, at the time he chose to retire upon a pension three months ago. He entered the employ of the Union Pacific in 1874 at Omaha and was an engineer the last 27 years.

Death came to Mr. Hollenback on the day following his 67th birthday anniversary. He was born in Pennsylvania, May 8, 1857. In 1873 he moved with his parents to Omaha and in 1874 he went to railroading for the Union Pacific.

FATAL BLAZE IN BEATRICE BLOCK

Aged Colored Man Dies As Result of Burns Received Saturday Night.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., May 12.—Frank Carter, aged colored Civil war veteran who was seriously burned Saturday night in his room in the Woodward block by the overturning of a lamp, died Sunday morning.

Firemen by hard work saved the building and removed Carter to a hospital where he passed away a few hours later.

Carter had been a familiar figure about town for more than forty years. He served as a slave before the war and was never able to tell his age, although it is thought he was somewhere in the nineties. He was never married. He drew a pension of $75 a month, and had saved a considerable sum of money by living economically.

Pioneer Columbus Business Man Dies

(Special to The Star.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., May 12.—G. A. Schroeder, 77, dean of Nebraska trap-shooters, veteran miller and pioneer of Columbus died today at his home, where for two months he had been critically ill with liver trouble.

A resident of Columbus and vicinity for 55 years, Mr. Schroeder's life was closely linked with many phases of civic activity and development. First, as a farmer, later for many years as proprietor of the Columbus Roller Mills and in more recent years as president of the Paxson-Davis wholesale grocery company.

He was also a great lover of outdoor sports. An ardent sportsman, he held to hunting and trapshooting as his hobbies and had the distinction of having organized the first gun club ever formed in Columbus. Known generally to all the older members among the trapshooting fraternity in the state and always popular among them, he served several terms as secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska State Trapshooters' association.

May Day Festival Is Great Success

(Special to The Star.)

TABLE ROCK, Neb., May 11.—The annual May day festival of the Table Rock public schools, was held in the city park here Saturday afternoon, and a very large crowd was present to witness it. The first part of the program included the pageant march, with maids of honor, flower girls and boys, May queen, pages and attendants; crowning the May queen and the May pole dance. Part two was a pageant of nations, as follows: America; patriotic drill, England, early English minuet; Turkey, Turkish dance; Sweden, milk maid's dance; Switzerland, shepherdess dance; Ireland, Irish lilt; Bohemia, polka; Holland, Dutch windmill dance, Japan Japanese dance; Scotland, highland fling. The costumes of each number were very elaborate, and the part of each pupil well carried out. The May day festival is an annual affair in Table Rock, and always calls out a large audience.

PRIZES AWARDED TO JOURNALISTS

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, announced Sunday the awards of the several Pulitzer prizes and traveling scholarships for 1924 made by the advisory board of the school of journalism.

A gold medal for "the most disinterested and meritorious public service," rendered by an American newspaper during the year, awarded to the New York World in connection with the "exposure of the Florida peonage evil."

The Boston Herald's editorial article "Who Made Coolidge," written by Frank W. Buxton, managing editor of the paper, was selected for the work which showed the greatest "clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning and power to influence public opinion in the right direction." The prize was $500.

In addition, a special prize of $1,000 was given to the widow of the late Frank I. Cobb of the New York World, in recognition of "the distinction and influence of her husband's editorial writing and service."

Magner White's story of an eclipse of the sun published in the San Diego Sun, San Diego, Cal., was chosen as the best example of a reporter's work during the year, the test being strict accuracy, terseness and the accomplishment of some public good. The prize was $1,000.

NEW CARDINAL IS BACK FROM ROME

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 12.—George, Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago and titular pastor of the church of Santa Maria del Popolo of Rome, returned Sunday to the see city of his episcopacy amid the welcome of impressive throngs.

Flanked by dignitaries of the church, officials of the community, the new cardinal passed through twelve miles of colorful greeting to his cathedral where he will be formally installed as the first cardinal archbishop west of the Allegheny mountains. Ceremonies ended with a pontifical benediction in the cathedral three hours after the special train which carried the cardinal's party arrived in the city.

American flags were everywhere along the line of the procession and military bands frequently struck up the "Star Spangled Banner."

Floral offerings from many churches of the diocese were banked high in the cardinal's car. Hundreds of school children robed in white and yellow, the papal colors, held aloft banners of greeting.

"My best wishes, my blessing, and my prayers go to all America, irrespective of race or creed," the cardinal said as he entered the city. He had been away from his charge since February when he was summoned to Rome for his elevation by Pope Pius XI to the cardinalate.

"Building up the church on the foundation of friendliness and neighborliness will be the task of the future," he continued. "We shall seek to inspire good feeling in every contact with new elements, and to develop citizenship of responsibility and integrity. Our first plan in the diocese will be to build up the seminaries, to carry on in the church the development of religious and civic leadership!"

Reports Philippines Adapted to Rubber

WASHINGTON, May 12. — Announcement of the location of a vast tract of land in the Philippines with soil well adapted for rubber plantations was made yesterday by Secretary Wallace.

Experts of the department of agriculture with those of the department of commerce, working under a $500,000 appropriation by congress, have been searching for the last year in the Philippines and in South and Central America for means of developing new sources of crude rubber to make the United States independent of British colonial and other foreign producers, who now furnish about 90 per cent of the world's supply.

MEMPHIS, May 12.—William A. "Billy" Sunday, for the first time in his thirty years as an evangelist, was forced yesterday to cancel his sermons because of illness. Last night he had a temperature of 103.

STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 12.—This has been the dullest week experienced on the steel exchange in many months, both as to volume of business and fluctuation in prices. Net change for the week, in the average quotations was significant and the dealings apparently were limited almost wholly to professional operations in an effort to get a quick profit out of small swings in the market, until today, when a cut in crude oil prices and a big decrease in unfilled steel orders caused a general slump in the industrials, which showed a net decline for the week of 1.29 on the averages. The railroad list, however, shows a small average net gain for the week.

Dullness After a Decline.

It is the experience in most speculation that when a market becomes dull and narrow after a prolonged movement in either direction, the time is near at hand for a renewal of the movement. This does not occur. Sometimes dull periods constitute only a temporary halt in the general movement.

The dullness in the market this week has been accompanied by a shifting of the opinions in some commission houses, from the bear to the bull side of the market. No one is advocating any rush to buy but there were a good man opinions that the business and trade recession that has been in progress has been largely discounted by the break that has occurred in the stock market.

With money abundant, interest rates showing a downward tendency and many stocks selling at "bargain counter" prices, considering the income derived from them on the basis of current prices and dividends, a broadening investment demand is predicted by some market observers, even though professional operators may continue to be bearishly influenced by the decreasing tendency of trade.

There is no question that many stocks are cheap, considering the dividends they pay in comparison with current low rates for money. The question, however, is whether the present dividends can be maintained through a period of dwindling business.

Big Drop In Steel Orders.

Additional signs of diminishing production and restricted demand were numerous this week, and most conspicuous in the steel industry. The United States Steel Corporation is said to be operating about 73 per cent of capacity and independent mills 65 to 70 per cent, and still reducing. The United States Steel Corporation today announced a reduction of 574,000 tons during April in unfilled orders on the books, following a reduction of 130,000 tons in March, with a total now of 4,208,000 tons, compared with 7,728,000 tons a year ago.

April production of pig iron was 239,000 tons less than in March, a decrease of only 3.8 per cent in the daily average, and the total output: 3,226,000 tons, was only 16 per cent below the maximum reached last May, but this month's production will show a still larger decrease.

Automobile Output Down.

April figures of the automobile industry show a total output of 337,000 cars, a decrease of 45,000, or 12 per cent from that of March, and practically the same decrease compared with a year ago. The decrease is not large, considering the enormous nummber of cars which have been sold for a year past, but it shows that the prediction early in the year that the 1924 production would exceed that of 1923, was excessively optimistic.

To Much Oil in Sight.

The constant accumulation of crude and refined oil products to new high levels monthly that has been going on for two years, such an increase in both of more than 8 million barrels in March, has finally brought a reaction in prices of eastern and mid-continent crude oil, announced today, with the natural result of a slump in the shares of the oil stocks.

For six moths past prominent oil men have been predicting that consumption would catch up with production, but supplies are still far in excess of normal. Daily production of crude oil reached a maximum of 2,276,000 barrels last August. There was a decrease to 1,885,000 barrels in the first week of January and and since then changes have been small new production slightly more than offset declining wells. The output last week was 1,949,000 barrels, slightly less than a year ago, but still, together with imports, in excess of consumption. Both the producing and refining companies are doing a big business, but they are confronted with excessive supplies that make it difficult to maintain prices on a profitable basis.

Trade Volume Still Large.

Trade reports continue to show a slow reduction of business activity throughout the country, with some decrease in employment and a lower tendency for average prices.

"The adjustment of production may later bring about a reversal of the downward trend of markets, but purchasing has been so conservative that the average of prices has reached the lowest levels in a year and a half," says Dun's review. "Despite this fact, however, bank clearings hold up remarkably well, and railroad traffic, if below record movement of a year ago exceed that of any other year. Hence, the conclusion is plain that, notwithstanding the extreme caution of buyers and their continued declination to make forward commitments, there is still a big business in the aggregate. The volume would be larger but for the influence of political uncertainties, which cause hesitation and check new enterprises."

Money Rates Decline.

Call money loaned all week at 3½ per cent, and time collateral loans for short periods dropped to 4 per cent. The abundance of banking funds and the declining interest rates reflect both the continued accumulation of gold from abroad and decrease in commercial industrial demand for loans."—Kansas City Star.

CHARGES MELLON IS DRY LAW FOE

Pinchot Flays Secretary and Butler at National Meeting of Methodists.

(Associated Press.)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 12.—Assailing President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, as a nullifier of the prohibition law, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, as an open defender of its violation, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, brought 3,000 Methodists to their feet in wild applause at the men's convention here Sunday night.

"The secretary has publicly defended conditions which our whole people know to be scandalous in the extreme," Governor Pinchot said. "He has publicly denounced the proposal to let in the light on the federal enforcement service."

Declaring law enforcement to be greatest moral issues now before the American people, Governor Pinchot asserted it was time for the moral forces of America to attack the foes of the prohibition law. The federal enforcement service has failed, he said. It should be taken out of politics and the law enforced through the liquor permit system.

"The failure of the enforcement service is some times claimed to mean that the Eighteenth amendment has failed," Governor Pinchot continued. "It means nothing of the sort. The law has not failed! Nicholas Murray Butler and other nullifiers of the law to the contrary notwithstanding."

Governor Pinchot then made his charge against Secretary Mellon.

"His opposition to the investigation of the enforcement," he said, "will direct public attention and the attention of the investigating committee to the fact that Mr. Mellon was part owner of many thousands barrels of Overholt whisky when the Eighteenth amendment went into effect; to the fact that late as March 31 of this year he was, on the authority of Senator Reed, Pennsylvania, still interested in the proceeds of this whisky when sold; to the i llegal withdrawals of more than 42,000 barrels of whisky from the Overholt warehouse near Pittsburgh, which led to indictments, and to the fact that the indictments were quashed and the men responsible were never punished."

F. D. Coburn, Well Known Agricultural Expert, Passes Away

F. D. Coburn, father of Mrs. Frank D. Tomson of this city and secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture for more than twenty years, died Sunday morning at his home at Topeka, after an illness of three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Tomson left for Topeka immediately after receiving word of Mr. Coburn's death.

Mr. Coburn was a veteran of the Civil war. He went to Kansas when he was a young man and had lived there ever since. He was engaged in farming as a young man and at that time began contributing to newspapers on agricultural topics. Later he became editor of the Live Stock Indicator and held that position for six years.

Due to his interest in agriculture, he was appointed secretary of the state board of agriculture to fill an unexpired term and was subsequently elected to the position and held it for twenty years when he retired.

Mr. Coburn was an able writer and his annual reports of the agricultural department were written in such a fascinating style that many of the reports were soon used as text books in the United States and in foreign countries. Mr. Coburn is listed in "Who's Who," as the author of a book on alfalfa, "Swine in America," and author of thirty other volumes on agricultural subjects.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. Tomson, Mr. Coburn is survived by his wife, a son, Dr. Clay E. Coburn of Kansas City, Kas., and another daughter, Mrs. Theodore Jessup of Chicago.

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD IN STREAM

Alfred Miller Not Seen Alive After Starting on Fishing Trip.

(Special to The Star)

HUBBELL, Neb., May 12.—Alfred Miller, about seventy-five years of age, was found dead in Rose creek, near here, Sunday afternoon. He had been last seen alive about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at that time was going fishing. It is supposed that he had an attack of heart trouble and fell into the stream.

As Mr. Miller lived alone his absence from home had not been noticed. He had been in Hebron Saturday afternoon and started on the fishing trip after his return.

His only child is Mrs. Vola Luce, who for a number of years has been a teacher in the schools of Thayer county. She is now in a serious condition.

Is Badly Iujured By Kick of Horse

(Special to The Star.)

WAUSA, Neb., May 12. — Alfred Hendrickson, a farmer living near here, was kciked in the face by one of his horses and rendered unconscious while plowing in a field on his farm. Fred Case, a neighbor who was working in an adjoining field, looked toward the field where Mr. Hendrickson was at work and noticed that he was lying on the ground by the side of the plow. He started to unhitch, but seeing Mr. Hendrickson get up, walk around and climb on the plow, he started back to work, thinking nothing serious was the matter. When Mr. Case looked in that direction again he saw Mr. Hendrickson fall to the ground. Unhitching his team at once and crossing over to the field, he found Mr. Hendrickson unconscious and hurried with him to Wausa for medical aid. His face was badly bruised but no fractured bones were revealed.

PRIZES AWARDED TO JOURNALISTS

(Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, announced Sunday the awards of the several Pulitzer prizes and traveling scholarships for 1924 made by the advisory board of the school of journalism.

A gold medal for "the most disinterested and meritorious public service," rendered by an American newspaper during the year, awarded to the New York World in connection with the "exposure of the Florida peonage evil."

The Boston Herald's editorial article "Who Made Coolidge," written by Frank W. Buxton, managing editor of the paper, was selected for the work which showed the greatest "clearness of style, moral purpose, sound reasoning and power to influence public opinion in the right direction." The prize was $500.

In addition, a special prize of $1,000 was given to the widow of the late Frank I. Cobb of the New York World, in recognition of "the distinction and influence of her husband's editorial writing and service."

Magner White's story of an eclipse of the sun published in the San Diego Sun, San Diego, Cal., was chosen as the best example of a reporter's work during the year, the test being strict accuracy, terseness and the accomplishment of some public good. The prize was $1,000.

NEW CARDINAL IS BACK FROM ROME

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 12.—George, Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago and titular pastor of the church of Santa Maria del Popolo of Rome, returned Sunday to the see city of his episcopacy amid the welcome of impressive throngs.

Flanked by dignitaries of the church, officials of the community, the new cardinal passed through twelve miles of colorful greeting to his cathedral where he will be formally installed as the first cardinal archbishop west of the Allegheny mountains. Ceremonies ended with a pontifical benediction in the cathedral three hours after the special train which carried the cardinal's party arrived in the city.

American flags were everywhere along the line of the procession and military bands frequently struck up the "Star Spangled Banner."

Floral offerings from many churches of the diocese were banked high in the cardinal's car. Hundreds of school children robed in white and yellow, the papal colors, held aloft banners of greeting.

"My best wishes, my blessing, and my prayers go to all America, irrespective of race or creed," the cardinal said as he entered the city. He had been away from his charge since February when he was summoned to Rome for his elevation by Pope Pius XI to the cardinalate.

"Building up the church on the foundation of friendliness and neighborliness will be the task of the future," he continued. "We shall seek to inspire good feeling in every contact with new elements, and to develop citizenship of responsibility and integrity. Our first plan in the diocese will be to build up the seminaries, to carry on in the church the development of religious and civic leadership."

Reports Philippines Adapted to Rubber

WASHINGTON, May 12. — Announcement of the location of a vast tract of land in the Philippines with soil well adapted for rubber plantations was made yesterday by Secretary Wallace.

Experts of the department of agriculture with those of the department of commerce, working under a $500,000 appropriation by congress, have been searching for the last year in the Philippines and in South and Central America for means of developing new sources of crude rubber to make the United States independent of British colonial and other foreign producers, who now furnish about 90 per cent of the world's supply.

STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, May 12.—This has been the dullest week experienced on the steel exchange in many months, both as to volume of business and fluctuation in prices. Net change for the week, in the average quotations was significant and the dealings apparently were limited almost wholly to professional operations in an effort to get a quick profit out of small swings in the market, until today, when a cut in crude oil prices and a big decrease in unfilled steel orders caused a general slump in the industrials, which showed a net decline for the week of 1.29 on the averages. The railroad list, however, shows a small average net gain for the week.

Dullness After a Decline.

It is the experience in most speculation that when a market becomes dull and narrow after a prolonged movement in either direction, the time is near at hand for a renewal of the movement. This does not occur. Sometimes dull periods constitute only a temporary halt in the general movement.

The dullness in the market this week has been accompanied by a shifting of the opinions in some commission houses, from the bear to the bull side of the market. No one is advocating any rush to buy but there were a good man opinions that the business and trade recession that has been in progress has been largely discounted by the break that has occurred in the stock market.

With money abundant, interest rates showing a downward tendency and many stocks selling at "bargain counter" prices, considering the income derived from them on the basis of current prices and dividends, a broadening investment demand is predicted by some market observers, even though professional operators may continue to be bearishly influenced by the decreasing tendency of trade.

There is no question that many stocks are cheap, considering the dividends they pay in comparison with current low rates for money. The question ,however, is whether the present dividends can be maintained through a period of dwindling business.

Big Drop In Steel Orders.

Additional signs of diminishing production and restricted demand were numerous this week, and most conspicuous in the steel industry. The United States Steel Corporation is said to be operating about 73 per cent of capacity and independent mills 65 to 70 per cent, and still reducing. The United States Steel Corporation today announced a reduction of 574,000 tons during April in unfilled orders on the books, following a reduction of 130,000 tons in March, with a total now of 4,208,000 tons, compared with 7,728,000 tons a year ago.

April production of pig iron was 239,000 tons less than in March, a decrease of only 3.8 per cent in the daily average, and the total output: 3,226,000 tons, was only 16 per cent below the maximum reached last May, but this month's production will show a still larger decrease.

Automobile Output Down.

April figures of the automobile industry show a total output of 337,000 cars, a decrease of 45,000, or 12 per cent from that of March, and practically the same decrease compared with a year ago. The decrease is not large, considering the enormous nummber of cars which have been sold for a year past, but it shows that the prediction early in the year that the 1924 production would exceed that of 1923, was excessively optimistic.

To Much Oil in Sight.

The constant accumulation of crude and refined oil products to new high levels monthly that has been going on for two years, such an increase in both of more than 8 million barrels in March, has finally brought a reduction in prices of eastern and mid-continent crude oil, announced today, with the natural result of a slump in the shares of the oil stocks.

For six moths past prominent oil men have been predicting that consumption would catch up with production, but supplies are still far in excess of normal. Daily production of crude oil reached a maximum of 2,276,000 barrels last August. There was a decrease to 1,885,000 barrels in the first week of Jauuary and and since then changes have been small new production slightly more than offset declining wells. The output last week was 1,949,000 barrels, slightly less than a year ago, but still, together with imports, in excess of consumption. Both the producing and refining companies are doing a big business, but they are confronted with excessive supplies that make it difficult to maintain prices on a profitable basis.

Trade Volume Still Large.

Trade reports continue to show a slow reduction of business activity throughout the country, with some decrease in employment and a lower tendency for average prices.

"The adjustment of production may later bring about a reversal of the downward trend of markets, but purchasing has been so conservative that the average of prices has reached the lowest levels in a year and a half," says Dun's review. "Despite this fact, however, bank clearings hold up remarkably well, and railroad traffic, if below record movement of a year ago exceed that of any other year. Hence, the conclusion is plain that, notwithstanding the extreme caution of buyers and their continued declination to make forward commitments, there is still a big business in the aggregate. The volume would be larger but for the influence of political uncertainties, which cause hesitation and check new enterprises."

Money Rates Decline.

Call money loaned all week at 3½ per cent, and time collateral loans for short periods dropped to 4 per cent. The abundance of banking funds and the declining interest rates reflect both the continued accumulation of gold from abroad and decrease in commercial industrial demand for loans."—Kansas City Star.

Wakefield Crew Splits Doubleheader With League Leaders

LINKS AND OILERS DIVIDE TWIN BILL

Home Clan Grabs Off First Game In Easy Fashion; Score, 7 to 1.

Defense Breaks Down In the Second Game and Tulsa Wins In Ninth.

WESTERN LEAGUE WEATHER.
Tulsa at Wichita; clear.
Oklahoma City at St. Joseph; clear.
Lincoln at Denver; clear.
Des Moines at Omaha; clear.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Links and Oilers side-stepped the weather jinx Sunday and collided in a twin attraction, the home clan breezing through, 7 to 1, in the curtain-hoister and the Oilers luckily nosing ahead in the second encounter, 5 to 2, in a feverish ninth-inning finish.

Manager Jack Lelivelt of Tulsa introduced three flingers in the opening game before figuring out a combination equal to the task of halting a Lincoln scoring spree. Pence started, but issued three passes, mixed in with a two-sacker by McDaniels, and was waved off the mound.

Wiltsie came next and promptly issued another pass. A muff by Crosby of the pitcher's toss to the plate and a safe blow by Gunther added to the rout and before the Oilers could make it three out the Links had swarmed in with five runs.

A renewed assault on Wiltsie in the third netted the Links another pair of markers, after which Foster was sent to the slab and hurled shut-out ball the remainder of the fray.

Bugs Had Enemy Guessing.

Bugs Grover, although touched for ten hits, was invincible with runners on the paths and the Oilers' only credit mark in the run column was contributed in the seventh frame, when Austin smashed the ball over the center field fence for a ride around the bases.

A dazzling bare-hand catch by Lyman Lamb, former Lincoln boy, was the fielding feature of the opening game. Lamb stabbed Gunther's line drive, after a long run, and then hurled to the infield fora double play on Henry.

Rasmussen and Tesar clashed in a thrilling pitching duel in the final game, Tesar getting the verdict when Rasmussen and the Lincoln defense collapsed, three Oilers runners crossing the plate without the ball once being batted as far as the baselines.

Lyman Registered Run.

Lamb inaugurated the second inning with a line punch to left for two bases. Washburn bunted and was out at first, Snyder to McDaniels, but Rasmussen failed to cover the plate and Lamb rode all the way from second to the home disc while Washburn was being expunged on his sacrifice.

The Links were baffled by Tesar's sharp-breaking curves for five frames, but broke loose in the sixth and assumed the lead. With two men down, Kinsella walked and romped to third on McDonald's single to right. Henry followed with a line drive to the same field for two bases, Kinsella and McDonald swarming to the plate.

Tulsa tied it up in the eighth by virtue of Austin's two-sacker to right, a sacrifice by Washburn and Lamb's clean smack to center for one base.

Links Wasted Three Hits.

Lincoln wasted three hits in the eighth without putting over a run, and the Oilers came through in the ninth with the three deciding markers.

Lelivelt led off with a pass and was safe at second when Hamilton juggled Flippin's bouncer for the home clan's first fielding foozle of the afternoon. Hamilton recovered in ample time to heave to second for a forceout of Lelivelt. Although the ball was at the base ahead of the runner, Umpire Collins perpetrated a distressing decision in ruling that Lelivelt was safe. His decree made it compulsory to charge the Links' shortstop with an error. Incidentally, the arbiter's verdict opened the gate to disaster and, in reality, gave the Oilers an unmerited victory.

Wild Heave Was Expensive.

Stuart's subsequent grounder in front of the plate was fielded to third for a forceout on Lelivelt, but Rasmussen threw wild to third, after fielding Crosby's roller, and Flippin and Stuart scored. Gunther then booted Tesar's grounder and Crosby registered the Oilers' third run of the final inning.

The Links put two runners on in their slice of the ninth, after two were down, but Snyder hoisted to Lelivelt for the final out. The official statistics:

Paris Hoodlums Hoot U. S. Team

PARIS, May 12.—The rugby experts of the Paris newspapers all protest today again the hooting of the American team by the spectators in their Olympic game at the Colombes stadium yesterday in which they defeated Rumania, 37 to 0, thus winning the right to meet France in the finals next Sunday. The writers unite in praising the perfect sport manners of the winners.

WELCH A DAZZLER IN HIGH CLASSIC

Gothenburg Youth Smashed Mile Record; Won Points In Five Events.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Howard Welch, Gothenburg high athlete, who shattered the state interscholastic record for the mile run at the Nebraska championships last Saturday, may run at the invitation interscholastic meet to be held at Chicago late this month.

Coach Harry McCandless of Gothenburg high, following the lad's record-breaking performance, announced that citizens of Gothenburg probably would provide a fund to send the crack miler to the Chicago meet.

Welch is one of the best all-around athletes in Nebraska interscholastic circles this year. He is a football and basketball man, as well as track athlete. In the moleskins he performed as a halfback and was responsible for considerable yardage made by the "fighting Swedes" last fall.

In basketball togs, he was stationed at center and showed up exceptionally well in last March's state tournament.

Versatile Performer.

On the cinders and in the field Welch's efforts are not centered merely on the distance runs, although he won the group two 880-yard run in 2 minutes 4 4-5 seconds and an hour later broke the state record for the mile run.

A glance at the Saturday score sheet shows that he heaved the 12-lb. shot 37 feet, 2½ inches for a second place in the shot put and broad jumped his way to second place. In the relay, Welch was running anchor and in his 220-yard lap cinched the group two relay banner for Gothenburg.

Welch's work is not just a flash in the pan. He is a clean-limbed, clear-eyed, well-muscled youngster, who has developed through the past three seasons.

Last year, wearing the colors of Berwyn, a small Custer county town, his work first attracted attention in the 1923 annual Custer county meet. After running everything from hurdles to the 880-yard grind and competing in a majority of the field events, he turned in a 4:54 2-5 mile performance.

Showed Off Last Year.

Berwyn fans were enthusiastic over his showing and arranged to send the team to the 1923 state meet at Lincoln. On the fair grounds oval his work in the distance runs will long be remembered by the crowd which witnessed the meet.

In the half-mile he was pitted against Franck of Tobias. The pair fought stubbornly until the last 50 yards, when Franck broke into a sprint and snapped the yarn a few feet ahead of the Berwyn boy—establishing a new record for the half mile.

The mile run was a different story. Here it was Welch that set the pace and in a thrilling finish nosed out Franck on the home stretch—just one second slower than the record mark. He would have lowered the mile record in 1923 but he misjudged the distance and started his sprint too late, finishing with plenty of surplus gasoline.

Trained to Break Record.

"The boy trained faithfully since basketball season, with the one intention of lowering the state record for the mile," Coach McCandless of Gothenburg said Saturday.

A rather loose track and a chilly wind seemed to stack the cards against a record performance, but the Gothenburg boy was not to be discouraged.

"The half-mile is not exactly my distance and I am going to save all my efforts for the mile," Welch declared a few minutes before the announcer called the group two half-milers to the mark.

He did just that very thing, winning the half mile, more or less under wraps in 2:04 4-5, and lowered the mile record to 4:35 9-10.

HI TRACK NOTES.

Herbert Hann, seventeen-year-old sophomore of Grand Island high school, won individual honors in group three. Hann scored twelve points, winning the 440-yard and 220-yard dashes and placing fourth in the 100-yard dash and 120-yard high hurdles.

Art Easter of Cambridge and Howard Welch of Gothenburg tied for group two honors. Easter won the the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and broad jump. Welch won the 880-yard run, mile run, placed second in the broad jump and third in the shot put.

Val Hrabak of Dodge and Rex Watkins of Callaway were high point men in group one. Watkins won the high hurdles, high jump and broad jump. Hrabak won the 100-yard, 220-yard and 440-yard dashes.

Hastings and Beatrice will receive banners for placing second and third, respectively, in group three. Other banners will be awarded Wilber and Cambridge in group two, Arnold and Dodge tied for third honors in group one.

HERE and THERE in BASEBALL

Howard Wakefield's Links, hurried from Landis Field to the Burlington station Sunday night, following the double bill with the Oilers, and headed for Denver, where they will collide with the Bears in a four-game series. Getting the Grizzlies off their hands, the Links will come back home next Friday to inaugurate a stay at Landis Field which will bring the three northern teams to Lincoln. Dates of the next home stop follow:

Des Moines—May 16, 17, 18 and 19.
Omaha—May 20, 21, 22 and 23.
Denver—May 24, 25, 26 and 27.

The string includes two Sunday bookings —May 18 and May 25 — with the Des Moines Boosters and Denver Bears as opponents of the Links.

Attendance at the Lincoln yard undoubtedly will pick up during the next home stay. Weather pranks managed to knock a hole in the local receipts during the first trip by the southern teams to the local camp. After four successive postponements, the weather jinx relented slightly Sunday, permitting the doubleheader but sending along a chilly day which kept the crowd a thousand or more below the expected mark. The fans who braved the elements were treated to a pair of thrilling combats. The quality of baseball on display merited a larger turnout. Sunday fans must be loyal, above all others, if Western league ball in Lincoln is to be a success.

Fred Gunther, Lincoln's new second baseman, broke into harness Sunday and got away to a bouncing start. In the first game, Gunther smacked two hits in three times up and accepted every one of his four fielding chances. On his last time at bat, Gunther poled a liner to left center which had a two-base label, but Lyman Lamb speared the ball with his bare hand and robbed the batter of a third safe blow. In the windup combat, Gunther peeled off two hits in four times up and foozled one of eight opportunities in the field.

Young, whose place in the Lincoln infield was taken by Gunther, was not in uniform Sunday. He pulled away Sunday night to report to the Bartlesville, Okla., club of the Southwestern league. Young's baseball services belong to the Kansas City A. A. club, which has farmed him for the season to the Oklahoma aggregation. Young's failure to stick with the Links resulted from a batting weakness which may keep him in the lower class leagues during his entire career, although it is no cinch that he may not improve in his stickwork. Eddie Roush once played the game for a Lincoln club and was razzed off the team because of inability to hit. The next year found him in the Federal circuit, hitting like a fiend, and ever since he has been a swatting star for the Cincinnati Reds.

Denver razzers, years ago, did the same thing to Joe Tinker. Bleacher critics rode the youngster mercilessly and Tinker, then a rookie, kicked so many plays at short that the management sent him elsewhere. Within two years, Tinker was in the big leagues and rated as one of the great shortstops in the history of the pastime.

Bugs Grover poker-faced the Oilers out of countenance in the Sunday opener. When Tulsa had runners on the paths, Bugs calmly proceeded to put the hobbles on the Oiler sluggers, side-arming or lobbing his benders over the corners of the plate, and putting the ball just where the Tulsa clouters couldn't connect for hits. Grover's performance was unique—the Oilers compiled ten safe blows, but counted only one run, the latter going over the plate when Austin hoisted the ball over the center field fence for a homer.

Tesar, Tulsa pitcher and victor in the second Sunday fray, tops the Western league flingers with a run of six straight wins. Tesar displayed a puzzling curve ball, but the Links warmed him up for nine hits. His performance, from a pitching standpoint, did not grade with Rasmussen's hurling, yet Rasmussen lost because of faltering fielding.

The Wichita Eagle credits Tulsa with leading the Tearney loop in attnedance. The Eagle must have referred to last year, as Denver is miles ahead of all the other cities in clicking the turnstiles this season. Another capacity mob packed the Denver yard Sunday and many hundreds had to be turned back at the gates, despite the erection of special bleachers.

Reply to query by Lincoln fan: Henry was out at second Sunday because he ran from first beyond second and returned to first, after the batter's fly had been caught by Lamb, without retouching second on the way back to first. The rule requires that a runner compelled to return to a base shall touch all bases in reverse order. As Henry failed to touch second on the return journey, the Oilers fielded the ball to the keystone bag and Henry was correctly called out.

Tulsa World: The case of Carl East presents a new angle to the question of player participation in his sale price.

Under terms of the contract the former Wichita slugger signed with Minneapolis, he was to be given a portion of whatever money should be received in case he were sold to the majors.

Now he has been traded to Washington for another player, with no cash figuring in the deal.

Because he thus has been eased out of money he had expected to get for his transfer, he has refused to report to Washington, but has announced that he will play with the Fairbanks Scales company of Beloit, Wis., which has given him a $1,000 bonus for signing his contract with them and more money than Washington offered him as salary.

The bumper attendance at Denver this year is not a whit more than it might have been last season and two years ago, when the Colorado capital was represented by losing teams. The league heads lacked the foresight to help the Denver owners in assembling a team, just as they did this year in the case of Howard Wakefield, so for two campaigns Denver crowds were disappointing. Now that the 1924 Bears are in the race, the park is unable to accommodate the crowds.

Events have conspired to provide a worthy setting for the ceremonies at Yankee stadium Wednesday when Babe Ruth receives his diploma as the honor man of the National University of Swat in 1923. The champion Yankees sit at the top of the baseball world with a three-game lead achieved after a fight that began in seventh place and ended in first and Babe leads the Major league home run wallopers with seven circuit drives to his credit.

Valley Meet Ticket Sale Opens Friday

The ticket sale for the Missouri Valley track and field championships to be held in the Nebraska Memorial stadium May 23-24 will open Friday according to announcement made by John K. Selleck.

Reserved seats will be placed on sale at $1. Box seats will be priced at $1.50, while general admission will be 75 cents.

A special rate of fifty cents will be made Nebraska high schools students if purchased in advance of the meet over the signature of the high school superintendent.

WILLS-MADDEN IN NEW YORK ARENA

Black Boxer Must Produce Winning Goods to Qualify For Jack Dempsey.

POSTPONED TO FRIDAY.

NEW YORK, May 12—The Wills-Madden bout, scheduled to be held tonight at the Queensboro stadium, was postponed until next Friday evening, it was announced today by the promoters in charge. Threatening weather caused the postponement, which came at the suggestion of George E. Brower, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 12.—A matter of two hundred thousand trifling dollars and a shot at the heavyweight title hangs in the balance Friday upon the meeting of Harry Wills and Bartley Madden at the Queensboro stadium.

A postponement was necessary, and according to the good word, this will merely mean a temporary reprieve for Madden. They say he is to be knocked flatter than an eye glass of stale beer inside six rounds.

All the sure-thing boys declare that nothing else can happen.

Gossipers on the Job.

Wills is not only a better fighter, as a man-to-man proposition, but he happens to be matched to meet Jack Dempsey in the fall and it is whispered that nothing untoward will be allowed to happen that might interfere with or depreciate that meeting.

Much capital, however, has been made of the fact that Madden has never been knocked off his feet, least of all, knocked out, and the house has been a sell-out, in consequence, at the fancy price of $16.50 for ringside seats. The bout is scheduled to go fifteen rounds and it is fact, rather than fancy, that, if Madden stays the limit, the Dempsey business will suffer accordingly. If Wills cannot stop Madden, record or no record, he will be deemed unfit to frolic with our Mr. Dempsey.

Fighters in Fine Trim.

Students of physical training have looked over both men and pronounced them in wonderful condition. Just why Madden should take this trouble if he is not to be with us for a protracted period is a mystery to the writer. A man can fall with great skill and ability even when in poor condition. For this reason and the additional fact that Madden has ever been inclined to give his best, we look for a great fight as long as it lasts.

Its importance, whatever happens, cannot be laughed off for a moment. Dempsey himself was just sufficiently concerned over the affair to order his brother, Johnny, to view the proceedings from a point of vantage and report his findings. He will watch Wills closely for evidence of his inclination to hold and hit at one and the same time; his ability to shake off a punch; of how his hands stand the gaff, and other items of moment.

All in all, the bout is a big build-up for the bout in September, provided Wills wins impressively. We have been impressed by those who should kno wthat he will. We think the wisecrackers are merely guessing, however.

They know that Paddy Mullins, the brunette's man of business, is closely identified with Simon Flaherty, under whose auspices the fight will be held, and that Tex Rickard is not the kind of a mouth organ to announce a heavyweight championship— without immediate prospects of any kind.

Bears Clean Up In Series With Izzies

DENVER, May 12—The Bears got away with a clean sweep of the series with Wichita, winning yesterday, 6 to 2. Williams outpitched Hovlik and the Bears backed their slabman with perfect fielding. Knight, Denver first baseman, poled two singles, a double and a triple in four times at bat. The game pulled another capacity attendance. Hundreds were turned back at the gates. The score:

THE ? BOX

Q: Rule of the Wahoo Church league is that games shall go five innings, with an emergency provision that three innings shall constitute a legal game. In a game last week, play had proceeded to the first half of the fifth, when the umpire called the game on account of darkness. The score stood 3 to 3 at the end of the fourth inning, but in the first half of the fifth, at the time the game was called, the team at bat had a runner on second, with none out. Did the umpire have the right to call the game at the time he did, and what is your ruling as to such a game regarding team standings? Is such a game a tie, the score reverting to the end of the previous inning, when both teams had had an equal number of innings at bat? Please answer in The Star.—G. E. J., Wahoo, Neb.

A: Umpire is the sole judge of the field and all other playing conditions. It was his right, under Rule 22, to call the game on account of darkness in case he considered there was not sufficient light to continue the game. The score, of course, would revert to the end of the previous inning, being a tie at 3 to 3. A tie game could not count in the team standings. Being a tie, it should be played off on a date fixed by the league officials, although an effort should be made to name a date acceptable to the managers of the teams involved.

Q: Score at end of fifth inning is 6-2 in favor of the visiting club, which put in a new pitcher during the sixth. Mind you, the first pitcher and his team had an advantage of 6 to 2 when the first pitcher was retired. The home club did not score in the sixth, but tied it up in the seventh, after which the visiting club scored two runs in the ninth inning and won the game by a final count of 8 to 6. A claims first pitcher is entitled to credit for the victory. B protests that credit goes to second pitcher. Who is correct, under the rules? Your answer in The Star would be appreciated. This problem was submitted to an Omaha writer, but his reply did not appeal to B as being correct.—R. J., Omaha, Neb.

A: Credit for winning the game goes to the second pitcher. Even though the first pitcher was leading, 6 to 2, when he retired, the second pitcher gets credit for winning because the score was tied after he went into the game. Once the score was tied, the second pitcher could either win or lose in accordance with the final result. As his team won, the second pitcher also won. Had the visiting team stayed in the lead all the way to the end of the game, the victory credit would go to the first pitcher. B, therefore, wins the argument.

Omaha Knocks Off Pair of Victories

OMAHA, Neb., May 12—Nine home drives featured a doubleheader yesterday, the Buffaloes taking both games from the Indians, 8 to 3 and 8 to 7. Cullop, a pitcher, played left field for Omaha and appropriated the slugging laurels with a single, a double, a triple and two homers in eight times at bat. The scores:

KANSAS AGGIES COMING FRIDAY

Manhattan Farmers To Clash With Cornhuskers In Dual Track Meet.

Cornhusker track fans will have their first opportunity of the season to inspect Coach Schulte's University of Nebraska athletes in action when the Kansas Aggies journey to the Nebraska Memorial stadium for a Friday dual meet.

The meet will bring together Irwin of Kansas Aggies and Locke of Nebraska, leading Missouri Valley sprinters.

The Kansas Aggies lost a dual meet to the University of Missouri last week, 67 to 45. Irwin ran the 100-yards in 10 seconds and did the 220-yard dash in 21 9-10 seconds. Knouse of the Manhattan Farmers took the quarter mile in 52 2-10 seconds, while Kimport, another Aggie, won the mile in 4:36 6-10 and took the half mile in 2:04 5-10. Drunkau threw the javelin 155 feet 11 inches.

Enter Valley Meet.

Entry sheets to the annual Missouri Valley track and field championship have been received from Drake, Ames and Grinnell, it was announced by Herb Gish of the University of Nebraska athletic department Monday morning.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 31 Golf Champions, "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

One good rule by which the golfer can determine how far he should stoop during his swing is to determine this by the hang of the arms. Stoop over until the arms hang two or three inches forward of straight down. If this doesn't seem to fit your case try standing straighter from that position until you find your best position. Age and the condition of the waistline have a good deal to do with this. Young and supple takes a pronounced stoop without trouble. Age and a "cooperation" require a more upright position.

Too much stoop, especially for the great majority of average golfers, is bad. It interferes with the pivot. The more you stoop the more difficult it is to turn the body from right to left above the hips. Some of the finer players who are young stoop to a pronounced degree. Sweetser and Harrison Johnston stoop a great deal. Bobby Jones wears the Stewart Maiden position, and there is none better. Maiden, like most good teachers, urges a more upright position, knowing the average player hasn't the resiliency for a stoop.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

Any inning. Fast base runner on second. Two out. Batter singles to center field. Center field throws ball in to catch runner trying to score from second.

What infielder should cut the ball off when it is not possible to catch the runner coming home on the throwin?

The pitcher should stay in center of the diamond and take the throwin if there is no chance to catch the runner coming in from second. This is to prevent the batter continuing on to second base on the throwin, which he would make if the ball went on to home plate, but if the throwin is intercepted, the batter will be held on first base.

A great many pitchers make this play wrong as they will run in to back up home plate as soon as a ball is hit into center field under these conditions.

Players should remember that a fast man on second is almost certain to score at the plate unless the ball is hit on a line drive so that the center fielder gets it on the first or second hop coming in. Many a ball game is lost because the pitcher doesn't intercept a throwin from center field under these conditions. When he doesn't the batter easily reaches second and then has a good chance to score the deciding run on an ensuing hit.

LINKS AND OILERS DIVIDE TWIN BILL

Home Clan Grabs Off First Game In Easy Fashion; Score, 7 to 1.

WESTERN LEAGUE WEATHER.
Tulsa at Wichita; clear.
Oklahoma City at St. Joseph; clear.
Lincoln at Denver; clear.
Des Moines at Omaha; clear.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Links and Oilers side-stepped the weather jinx Sunday and collided in a twin attraction, the home clan breezing through, 7 to 1, in the curtain-hoister and the Oilers luckily enosing ahead in the second encounter, 5 to 2, in a feverish ninth-inning finish.

Manager Jack Lelivelt of Tulsa introduced three flingers in the opening game before figuring out a combination equal to the task of halting a Lincoln scoring spree. Pence started, but issued three passes, mixed in with a two-sacker by McDaniels, and was waved off the mound.

Wiltsie came next and promptly issued another pass. A muff by Crosby of the pitcher's toss to the plate and a safe blow by Gunther added to the rout and before the Oilers could make it three out the Links had swarmed in with five runs.

A renewed assault on Wiltsie in the third netted the Links another pair of markers, after which Foster was sent to the slab and hurled shut-out ball the remainder of the fray.

Bugs Had Enemy Guessing.

Bugs Grover, although touched for ten hits, was invincible with runners on the paths and the Oilers' only credit mark in the run column was contributed in the seventh frame, when Austin smashed the ball over the center field fence for a ride around the bases.

A dazzling bare-hand catch by Lyman Lamb, former Lincoln boy, was the fielding feature of the opening game. Lamb stabbed Gunther's line drive, after a long run, and then hurled to the infield fora double play on Henry.

Rasmussen and Tesar clashed in a thrilling pitching duel in the final game, Tesar getting the verdict when Rasmussen and the Lincoln defense collapsed, three Oilers runners crossing the plate without the ball once being batted as far as the baselines.

Lyman Registered Run.

Lamb inaugurated the second inning with a line punch to left for two bases. Washburn bunted and was out at first, Snyder to McDaniels, but Rasmussen failed to cover the plate and Lamb rode all the way from second to the home disc while Washburn was being expunged on his sacrifice.

The Links were baffled by Tesar's sharp-breaking curves for five frames, but broke loose in the sixth and assumed the lead. With two men down, Kinsella walked and romped to third on McDonald's single to right. Henry followed with a line drive to the same field for two bases, Kinsella and McDonald swarming to the plate.

Tulsa tied it up in the eighth by virtue of Austin's two-sacker to right, a sacrifice by Washburn and Lamb's clean smack to center for one base.

Links Wasted Three Hits.

Lincoln wasted three hits in the eighth without putting over a run, and the Oilers came through in the ninth with the three deciding markers.

Lelivelt led off with a pass and was safe at second when Hamilton juggled Flippin's bouncer for the home clan's first fielding foozle of the afternoon. Hamilton recovered in ample time to heave to second for a forceout of Lelivelt. Although the ball was at the base ahead of the runner, Umpire Collins perpetrated a distressing decision in ruling that Lelivelt was safe. His decree made it compulsory to charge the Links' shortstop with an error. Incidentally, the arbiter's verdict opened the gate to disaster and, in reality, gave the Oilers an unmerited victory.

Wild Heave Was Expensive.

Stuart's subsequent grounder in front of the plate was fielded to third for a forceout on Lelivelt, but Rasmussen threw wild to third, after fielding Crosby's roller, and Flippin and Stuart scored. Gunther then booted Tesar's grounder and Crosby registered the Oilers' third run of the final inning.

The Links put two runners on in their slice of the ninth, after two were down, but Snyder hoisted to Lelivelt for the final out. The official statistics:

PARIS, May 12.—The rugby experts of the Paris newspapers all protest today again the hooting of the American team by the spectators in their Olympic game at the Colombes stadium yesterday in which they defeated Rumania, 37 to 0, thus winning the right to meet France in the finals next Sunday. The writers unite in praising the perfect sport manners of the winners.

WELCH A DAZZLER IN HIGH CLASSIC

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Howard Welch, Gothenburg high athlete, who shattered the state interscholastic record for the mile run at the Nebraska championships last Saturday, may run at the invitation interscholastic meet to be held at Chicago late this month.

Coach Harry McCandless of Gothenburg high, following the lad's record-breaking performance, announced that citizens of Gothenburg probably would provide a fund to send the crack miler to the Chicago meet.

Welch is one of the best all-around athletes in Nebraska interscholastic circles this year. He is a football and basketball man, as well as track athlete. In the moleskins he performed as a halfback and was responsible for considerable yardage made by the "fighting Swedes" last fall.

In basketball togs, he was stationed at center and showed up exceptionally well in last March's state tournament.

Versatile Performer.

On the cinders and in the field Welch's efforts are not centered merely on the distance runs, although he won the group two 880-yard run in 2 minutes 4 4-5 seconds and an hour later broke the state record for the mile run.

A glance at the Saturday score sheet shows that he heaved the 12-lb. shot 37 feet 2½ inches for a second place in the shot put and broad jumped his way to second place. In the relay, Welch was running anchor and in his 220-yard lap cinched the group two relay banner for Gothenburg.

Welch's work is not just a flash in the pan. He is a clean-limbed, clear-eyed, well-muscled youngster, who has developed through the past three seasons.

Last year, wearing the colors of Berwyn, a small Custer county town, his work first attracted attention in the 1923 annual Custer county meet. After running everything from hurdles to the 880-yard grind and competing in a majority of the field events, he turned in a 4:54 2-5 mile performance.

Showed Off Last Year.

Berwyn fans were enthusiastic over his showing and arranged to send the team to the 1923 state meet at Lincoln. On the fair grounds oval his work in the distance runs will long be remembered by the crowd which witnessed the meet.

In the half-mile he was pitted against Franck of Tobias. The pair fought stubbornly until the last 50 yards, when Franck broke into a sprint and snapped the yarn a few feet ahead of the Berwyn boy—establishing a new record for the half mile.

The mile run was a different story. Here it was Welch that set the pace and in a thrilling finish nosed out Franck on the home stretch—just one second slower than the record mark. He would have lowered the mile record in 1923 but he misjudged the distance and started his sprint too late, finishing with plenty of surplus gasoline.

Trained to Break Record.

"The boy trained faithfully since basketball season, with the one intention of lowering the state record for the mile," Coach McCandless of Gothenburg said Saturday.

A rather loose track and a chilly wind seemed to stack the cards against a record performance, but the Gothenburg boy was not to be discouraged.

"The half-mile is not exactly my distance and I am going to save all my efforts for the mile," Welch declared a few minutes before the announcer called the group two half-milers to the mark.

He did just that very thing, winning the half mile, more or less under wraps in 2:04 4-5, and lowered the mile record to 4:35 9-10.

HI TRACK NOTES.

Herbert Hann, seventeen-year-old sophomore of Grand Island high school, won individual honors in group three. Hann scored twelve points, winning the 440-yard and 220-yard dashes and placing fourth in the 100-yard dash and 120-yard high hurdles.

Art Easter of Cambridge and Howard Welch of Gothenburg tied for group two honors. Easter won the the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and broad jump. Welch won the 880-yard run, mile run, placed second in the broad jump and third in the shot put.

Val Hrabak of Dodge and Rex Watkins of Callaway were high point men in group one. Watkins won the high hurdles, high jump and broad jump. Hrabak won the 100-yard, 220-yard and 440-yard dashes.

Hastings and Beatrice will receive banners for placing second and third, respectively, in group three. Other banners will be awarded Wilber and Cambridge in group two, Arnold and Dodge tied for third honors in group one.

HERE AND THERE IN BASEBALL

Howard Wakefield's Links hurried from Landis Field to the Burlington station Sunday night, following the double bill with the Oilers, and headed for Denver, where they will collide with the Bears in a four-game series. Getting the Grizzlies off their hands, the Links will come back home next Friday to inaugurate a stay at Landis Field which will bring the three northern teams to Lincoln. Dates of the next home stop follow:

Des Moines—May 16, 17, 18 and 19.
Omaha—May 20, 21, 22 and 23.
Denver—May 24, 25, 26 and 27.

The string includes two Sunday bookings —May 18 and May 25 — with the Des Moines Boosters and Denver Bears as opponents of the Links.

Attendance at the Lincoln yard undoubtedly will pick up during the next home stay. Weather pranks managed to knock a hole in the local receipts during the first trip by the southern teams to the local camp. After four successive postponements, the weather jinx relented slightly Sunday, permitting the doubleheader but sending along a chilly day which kept the crowd a thousand or more below the expected mark. The fans who braved the elements were treated to a pair of thrilling combats. The quality of baseball on display merited a larger turnout. Sunday fans must be loyal, above all others, if Western league ball in Lincoln is to be a success.

Fred Gunther, Lincoln's new second baseman, broke into harness Sunday and got away to a bouncing start. In the first game, Gunther smacked two hits in three times up and accepted every one of his four fielding chances. On his last time at bat, Gunther poled a liner to left center which had a two-base label, but Lyman Lamb speared the ball with his bare hand and robbed the batter of a third safe blow. In the windup combat, Gunther peeled off two hits in four times up and foozled one of eight opportunities in the field.

Young, whose place in the Lincoln infield was taken by Gunther, was not in uniform Sunday. He pulled away Sunday night to report to the Bartlesville, Okla., club of the Southwestern league. Young's baseball services belong to the Kansas City A. A. club, which has farmed him for the season to the Oklahoma aggregation. Young's failure to stick with the Links resulted from a batting weakness which may keep him in the lower class leagues during his entire career, although it is no cinch that he may not improve in his stick-work. Eddie Roush once played the game for a Lincoln club and was razzed off the team because of inability to hit. The next year found him in the Federal circuit, hitting like a fiend, and ever since he has been a swatting star for the Cincinnati Reds.

Denver razzers, years ago, did the same thing to Joe Tinker. Bleacher critics rode the youngster mercilessly and Tinker, then a rookie, kicked so many plays at short that the management sent him elsewhere. Within two years, Tinker was in the big leagues and rated as one of the great shortstops in the history of the pastime.

Bugs Grover poker-faced the Oilers out of countenance in the Sunday opener. When Tulsa had runners on the paths, Bugs calmly proceeded to put the hobbles on the Oiler sluggers, side-arming or lobbing his benders over the corners of the plate, and putting the ball just where the Tulsa clouters couldn't connect for hits. Grover's performance was unique—the Oilers compiled ten safe blows, but counted only one run, the latter going over the plate when Austin hoisted the ball over the center field fence for a homer.

Tesar, Tulsa pitcher and victor in the second Sunday fray, tops the Western league flingers with a run of six straight wins. Tesar displayed a puzzling curve ball, but the Links warmed him up for nine hits. His performance, from a pitching standpoint, did not grade with Rasmussen's hurling, yet Rasmussen lost because of faltering fielding.

The Wichita Eagle credits Tulsa with leading the Tearney loop in attnedance. The Eagle must have referred to last year, as Denver is miles ahead of all the other cities in clicking the turnstiles this season. Another capacity mob packed the Denver yard Sunday and many hundreds had to be turned back at the gates, despite the erection of special bleachers.

Reply to query by Lincoln fan: Henry was out at second Sunday because he ran from first beyond second and returned to first, after the batter's fly had been caught by Lamb, without retouching second on the way back to first. The rule requires that a runner compelled to return to a base shall touch all bases in reverse order. As Henry failed to touch second on the return journey, the Oilers fielded the ball to the keystone bag and Henry was correctly called out.

Tulsa World: The case of Carl East presents a new angle to the question of player participation in his sale price.

Under terms of the contract the former Wichita slugger signed with Minneapolis, he was to be given a portion of whatever money should be received in case he were sold to the majors.

Now he has been traded to Washington for another player, with no cash figuring in the deal.

Because he thus has been eased out of money he had expected to get for his transfer, he has refused to report to Washington, but has announced that he will play with the Fairbanks Scales company of Beloit, Wis., which has given him a $1,000 bonus for signing his contract with them and more money than Washington offered him as salary.

The bumper attendance at Denver this year is not a whit more than it might have been last season and two years ago, when the Colorado capital was represented by losing teams. The league heads lacked the foresight to help the Denver owners in assembling a team, just as they did this year in the case of Howard Wakefield, so for two campaigns Denver crowds were disappointing. Now that the 1924 Bears are in the race, the park is unable to accommodate the crowds.

Events have conspired to provide a worthy setting for the ceremonies at Yankee stadium Wednesday when Babe Ruth receives his diploma as the honor man of the National University of Swat in 1923. The champion Yankees sit at the top of the baseball world with a three-game lead achieved after a fight that began in seventh place and ended in first and Babe leads the Major league home run wallopers with seven circuit drives to his credit.

Valley Meet Ticket Sale Opens Friday

The ticket sale for the Missouri Valley track and field championships to be held in the Nebraska Memorial stadium May 23-24 will open Friday according to announcement made by John K. Selleck.

Reserved seats will be placed on sale at $1. Box seats will be priced at $1.50, while general admission will be 75 cents.

A special rate of fifty cents will be made Nebraska high schools students if purchased in advance of the meet over the signature of the high school superintendent.

WILLS-MADDEN IN NEW YORK ARENA

Black Boxer Must Produce Winning Goods to Qualify For Jack Dempsey.

POSTPONED TO FRIDAY.

NEW YORK, May 12—The Wills-Madden bout, scheduled to be held tonight at the Queensboro stadium, was postponed until next Friday evening, it was announced today by the promoters in charge. Threatening weather caused the postponement, which came at the suggestion of George E. Brower, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 12.—A matter of two hundred thousand trifling dollars and a shot at the heavyweight title hangs in the balance Friday upon the meeting of Harry Wills and Bartley Madden at the Queensboro stadium.

A postponement was necessary, and according to the good word, this will merely mean a temporary reprieve for Madden. They say he is to be knocked flatter than an eye glass of stale beer inside six rounds.

All the sure-thing boys declare that nothing else can happen.

Gossipers on the Job.

Wills is not only a better fighter, as a man-to-man proposition, but he happens to be matched to meet Jack Dempsey in the fall and it is whispered that nothing untoward will be allowed to happen that might interfere with or depreciate that meeting.

Much capital, however, has been made of the fact that Madden has never been knocked off his feet, least of all, knocked out, and the house has been a sell-out, in consequence, at the fancy price of $16.50 for ringside seats. The bout is scheduled to go fifteen rounds and it is fact, rather than fancy, that, if Madden stays the limit, the Dempsey business will suffer accordingly. If Wills cannot stop Madden, record or no record, he will be deemed unfit to frolic with our Mr. Dempsey.

Fighters in Fine Trim.

Students of physical training have looked over both men and pronounced them in wonderful condition. Just why Madden should take this trouble if he is not to be with us for a protracted period is a mystery to the writer. A man can fall with great skill and ability even when in poor condition. For this reason and the additional fact that Madden has ever been inclined to give his best, we look for a great fight as long as it lasts.

Its importance, whatever happens, cannot be laughed off for a moment. Dempsey himself was just sufficiently concerned over the affair to order his brother, Johnny, to view the proceedings from a point of vantage and report his findings. He will watch Wills closely for evidence of his inclination to hold and hit at one and the same time; his ability to shake off a punch; of how his hands stand the gaff, and other items of moment.

All in all, the bout is a big build-up for the bout in September, provided Wills wins impressively. We have been impressed by those who should kno wthat he will. We think the wise-crackers are merely guessing, however.

They know that Paddy Mullins, the brunette's man of business, is closely identified with Simon Flaherty, under whose auspices the fight will be held, and that Tex Rickard is not the kind of a mouth organ to announce a heavyweight championship— without immediate prospects of any kind.

Bears Clean Up In Series With Izzies

DENVER, May 12—The Bears got away with a clean sweep of the series with Wichita, winning yesterday, 6 to 2. Williams outpitched Hovlik and the Bears backed their slabman with perfect fielding. Knight, Denver first baseman, poled two singles, a double and a triple in four times at bat. The game pulled another capacity attendance. Hundreds were turned back at the gates. The score:

THE ? BOX

Q: Rule of the Wahoo Church league is that games shall go five innings, with an emergency provision that three innings shall constitute a legal game. In a game last week, play had proceeded to the first half of the fifth, when the umpire called the game on account of darkness. The score stood 3 to 3 at the end of the fourth inning, but in the first half of the fifth, at the time the game was called, the team at bat had a runner on second, with none out. Did the umpire have the right to call the game at the time he did, and what is your ruling as to such a game regarding team standings? Is such a game a tie, the score reverting to the end of the previous inning, when both teams had had an equal number of innings at bat? Please answer in The Star.—G. E. J., Wahoo, Neb.

A: Umpire is the sole judge of the field and all other playing conditions. It was his right, under Rule 22, to call the game on account of darkness in case he considered there was not sufficient light to continue the game. The score, of course, would revert to the end of the previous inning, being a tie at 3 to 3. A tie game could not count in the team standings. Being a tie, it should be played off on a date fixed by the league officials, although an effort should be made to name a date acceptable to the managers of the teams involved.

Q: Score at end of fifth inning is 6-2 in favor of the visiting club, which put in a new pitcher during the sixth. Mind you, the first pitcher and his team had an advantage of 6 to 2 when the first pitcher was retired. The home club did not score in the sixth, but tied it up in the seventh, after which the visiting club scored two runs in the ninth inning and won the game by a final count of 8 to 6. A claims first pitcher is entitled to credit for the victory. B protests that credit goes to second pitcher. Who is correct, under the rules? Your answer in The Star would be appreciated. This problem was submitted to an Omaha writer, but his reply did not appeal to B as being correct.—R. J., Omaha, Neb.

A: Credit for winning the game goes to the second pitcher. Even though the first pitcher was leading, 6 to 2, when he retired, the second pitcher gets credit for winning because the score was tied after he went into the game. Once the score was tied, the second pitcher could either win or lose in accordance with the final result. As his team won, the second pitcher also won. Had the visiting team stayed in the lead all the way to the end of the game, the victory credit would go to the first pitcher. B, therefore, wins the argument.

Omaha Knocks Off Pair of Victories

OMAHA, Neb., May 12—Nine home drives featured a doubleheader yesterday, the Buffaloes taking both games from the Indians, 8 to 3 and 8 to 7. Cullop, a pitcher, played left field for Omaha and appropriated the slugging laurels with a single, a double, a triple and two homers in eight times at bat. The scores:

KANSAS AGGIES COMING FRIDAY

Manhattan Farmers To Clash With Cornhuskers In Dual Track Meet.

Cornhusker track fans will have their first opportunity of the season to inspect Coach Schulte's University of Nebraska athletes in action when the Kansas Aggies journey to the Nebraska Memorial stadium for a Friday dual meet.

The meet will bring together Irwin of Kansas Aggies and Locke of Nebraska, leading Missouri Valley sprinters.

The Kansas Aggies lost a dual meet to the University of Missouri last week, 67 to 45. Irwin ran the 100-yards in 10 seconds and did the 220-yard dash in 21 9-10 seconds. Knouse of the Manhattan Farmers took the quarter mile in 52 2-10 seconds, while Kimport, another Aggie, won the mile in 4:36 6-10 and took the half mile in 2:04 5-10. Drunkau threw the javelin 155 feet 11 inches.

Enter Valley Meet.

Entry sheets to the annual Missouri Valley track and field championship have been received from Drake, Ames and Grinnell, it was announced by Herb Gish of the University of Nebraska athletic department Monday morning.

Ames last week romped away with the Michigan Aggies in a dual meet, 102 to 29. The Iowa State collegians have entered 49 men in the Valley meet.

Grinnell defeated Drake in a dual meet Saturday, 82 1-2 to 53 1-2, and has entered 38 men in the Valley meet while Drake has entered 35 athletes.

The Monday entry sheets:

Drake—Lingenfelter, Wahl, Morgan, Dustin, Elliott, Clements, Britton, Strong, Baxter, Young, Hunt, Sloan, Head, Voorhees, Wilson, Slaughter, Enright, Jones, Carpenter, Tipsord, Mitchell, Spears, Henry, Mahan, Boelter, Everett, Orebaugh, Perry, Peavis, Patterson, Omar, McLuen, Blanchard, Harley, Summe.

Grinnell—Boge, Breitenbach, Bryant, Budlong, Campbell, Critchett, Crone, Duke, Gillette, Green, Howard, E. Jones, L. Jones, M. Jones, June, Kitchen, McIlrath, Meyer, Mullen, Patton, Paull, Porter, Scharnweber, Seeland, Stock, Stotts, Taylor, Thomas, Wilson, Wing, Greene, Jacobson, King, Kingery, Miller, Woodruff, Winter, Jenkins.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

One good rule by which the golfer can determine how far he should stoop during his swing is to determine this by the hang of the arms. Stoop over until the arms hang two or three inches forward of straight down. If this doesn't seem to fit your case try standing straighter from that position until you find your best position. Age and the condition of the waistline have a good deal to do with this. Young and supple takes a pronounced stoop without trouble. Age and a "cooperation" require a more upright position.

Too much stoop, especially for the great majority of average golfers, is bad. It interferes with the pivot. The more you stoop the more difficult it is to turn the body from right to left above the hips. Some of the finer players who are young stoop to a pronounced degree. Sweetser and Harrison Johnston stoop a great deal. Bobby Jones wears the Stewart Maiden position, and there is none better. Maiden, like most good teachers, urges a more upright position, knowing the average player hasn't the resiliency for a stoop.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch, Captain New York Giants

Any inning. Fast base runner on second. Two out. Batter singles to center field. Center field throws ball in to catch runner trying to score from second.

What infielder should cut the ball off when it is not possible to catch the runner coming home on the throwin?

The pitcher should stay in center of the diamond and take the throwin if there is no chance to catch the runner coming in from second. This is to prevent the batter continuing on to second base on the throwin, which he would make if the ball went on to home plate, but if the throwin is intercepted, the batter will be held on first base.

A great many pitchers make this play wrong as they will run in to back up home plate as soon as a ball is hit into center field under these conditions.

Players should remember that a fast man on second is almost certain to score at the plate unless the ball is hit on a line drive so that the center fielder gets it on the first or second hop coming in. Many a ball game is lost because the pitcher doesn't intercept a throwin from center field under these conditions. When he doesn't the batter easily reaches second and then has a good chance to score the deciding run on an ensuing hit.

Cubs Nose Out Dodgers.

CHICAGO, May 12.—Daring base running by Adams and Grantham, coupled with free hitting off Dutch Ruether's offerings, enabled Chicago to make it two straight from Brooklyn, 5 to 4. Elmer Jacobs allowed only two hits, both of which were made by Wheat, up to the seventh inning, when Wheat smashed his third blow and started a rally. Score by innings:

Chicago	1	0	2	0	1	0	1	0	*	—5	15	1

Many Millions Do Not Vote For Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, May 12—Nearly one-half of the American citizens of legal age to vote do not exercise their right to vote for the president of the United States.

More than 25,000,000 constitute a great "stay-at-home" army that never marches to the polls.

In some states the number of stay-at-homes is six and seven times as great as the number who vote and in no state is more than 75 per cent of the vote ever cast.

Simon Michelet, statistician, is authority for the figures, which he made public today.

Would Exclude All Papers Advertising Sale of Small Arms

WASHINGTOS, May 12.—Exclusion from the mails of newspapers, magazines and pamplets carrying advertisements for the sale of small firearms was proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Congressman Rubey, democrat of Maryland.

The legislation was prompted by the recent shooting of Senator Greene of Vermont, on the streets of Washington, and by the prevalence of the use of violence throughout the country due to the wide distribution of firearms.

DECLARE TILDEN VICTIM OF SNOBS

Friends of Tennis Champion Set Up Pins For Fight On Parent Body.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Reports were in circulation today of a new lawn tennis organization thta may be formed to combat the United States Lawn Tennis association on the player-writer issue. The new body, if formed, will be known as the American amateur association of tennis players, it is said, and will be made up of men in the present association who disagree violently with the existing administration in its efforts to bar William T. Tilden.

It is said that these men claim that Tilden has been made the victim of "snobbery" and internal politics and that unless the player-writer rule is rescinded they will launch the new movement immediately by inviting Tilden and other player-writers to join their association.

Helen Halts In Gotham.

NEW YORK, May 12—Helen Wills, 18-year-old national champion in lawn tennis, was compelled to forego her plan to get a workout this afternoon in preparation for her matches abroad, owing to a heavy rain Miss Wills completed the first half of her trip from Berkeley, Calif, to Wimbledon, England, yesterday, and will sail on the Berengaria Wednesday. She is going abroad several weeks in advance of the American team, with which she will play at the international matches at Wimbledon and at the Olympic games at Paris

In both events Miss Wills is expected to try conclusions with Mlle. Lengien of France, the world's champion

In order to keep in condition during the voyage, the California star will work out on a special court, built aboard ship for her benefit.

Touching The Bases.

The Giants again finished second to the Cardinals, 3 to 2 Stuart had the edge on Gearin in a pitchers' vendetta. Cooney, the new Cardinal shortstop, doubled in the seventh, scoring Friegau with what proved to be the winning run.

Ruether was given the rough dry treatment by the Cubs for a matter of fifteen hits, the Dodgers losing, 5 to 4.

Habit being stronger than desire, the Athletics romped off with their eleventh straight defeat the Cleveland Indians being the beneficiaries Score, 8 to 5. It was Coveleskfe's infant victory of the season.

Carlson shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 0, the Phillies getting to Luque for tallies in the sixth and seventh

MARKET QUOTATIONS

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

OMAHA, Neb., May 12.

CATTLE—Receipts, 12,000. Monday's liberal run of cattle was something of a surprise to the trade as it was expected corn planting would keep many shippers at home. The market reflected the expected supply of beef at all points, and bids and sales ranged from 10 to 25c lower than the close of last week, the good heavy cattle getting the brunt of the decline. Some of the best yearlings and cows were not far from steady. Stockers and feeders were very dull and 15 to 25c lower all around.

Beef steers and yearlings, $7.75@10.50; top steers, $11.35.

HOGS—Receipts, 14,000. Excessive supplies at Chicago and lower trend at that point, gave local trade a weak undertone this morning, and initial sales to shippers were on a fully 10c [illegible] basis. Packers made an effort to get their droves at 10 to 20c lower prices, but up to a late hour had met with little success. Bulk of sales was at $6.75@6.95, with top for the day $7.00.

Bulk 210 to 300 pound butchers $6.85@6.95; desirable 160 to 210 pound weights $6.60@6.85.

Monday's Representative Sales.

SHEEP—Receipts, 4,600. Rather liberal receipts elsewhere had a tendency to slow the market at the start today, and it was not until a late hour that enough stuff began to move to make comparisons. The few lambs sold looked around steady to possibly a trifle easier than Saturday. Shearers and aged sheep ruled steady on scant supplies.

Wooled lambs $17.00; clipped lambs $14.85@14.90.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 12.

Stock prices slipped off steadily today in response to unfavorable foreign and domestic political news and further recessions in commodity prices. Many steels, oils and motor shares, including U. S. Steel, sold at new low levels for the year. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

Stock prices displayed a reactionary tone at the opening of today's market, in reflection of speculative disappointment over the form of the tax bill, passed by the senate, and the defeat of the Poincare ministry in the French elections.

New 1924 lows were established by Bethlehem, Gulf States and Republic Steels, Cosden, Chicago Yellow Cab and Studebaker (new) stock, the declines ranging from 1 to 3¼ points.

Foreign exchanges opened weak, French francs breaking nearly 50 points on the defeat of the Poincare ministry.

The drastic decline in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation and a cut in crude oil prices also were contributing factors to the morning selling. Additional new low records for the year were established by United States Steel common at 95¼, off 1½; Baldwin at 107¾, off 2¼, and by Stewart-Warner and Marland, Invincible and Skelly oils, the losses ranging from large fractions to nearly 4 points. Woolworth broke 6¾ points and American Beet Sugar 2¼. Prices steadied around noon when a brisk demand developed for investment rails.

With bear speculators hammering individual shares to intimidate buyers in the early afternoon, the market showed little recuperative power, although General Electric came up 3 points from its early low level. Stewart-Warner was forced down 5⅝ to 56⅝, a new low price for the year, and other motor accessory issues were also under presure.

The closing was heavy.

Numerous specialties were subjected to severe selling pressure in the late dealings, but most of the customary leaders hardened a trifle when short covering began.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 12.

CORN—All grain, especially corn, declined in price today during the early dealings. Ideal weather for corn planting was largely responsible, together with weakness in the New York stock market. In corn, there was general commission house selling, as well as a good deal of liquidation, numerous automatic orders to stop ownership losses being brought into play. Corn opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ⅝c lower, with July 76⅜@76c, were followed by a decided drop all around.

Rallies which ensued failed to last. The close was heavy, ¾ to 1⅜c net lower, July 75¼@⅜c to 75⅝c.

WHEAT—Trade in wheat was relatively small, and price changes were much influenced by the action of corn. After opening ⅛ to ⅛c down, May $1.03½ and July $1.05@1.05¼, the wheat market underwent a moderate general sag anr tse prallied somewhat.

Subsequently, news of the defeat of Poincare was in some quarters construed as a bullish factory. The close was unsettled at ⅜c lower to ¼c advance, May $1.04 and July $1.05⅛.

OATS—Oats started unchanged to ¼c lower, July 44c. Later, all deliveries showed a loss.

Bryan indicated indirectly that he was not pleased with the action of Judge Frost in the district court of Lancaster county in enjoining the state trade and commerce department from interfering with operations of the Investors' Syndicate, a Minneapolis concern, in the state of Nebraska, notwithstanding that it has not been granted a license for the year 1924.

The Minneapolis concern is the only one of its kind which has been permitted to do business in Nebraska during the past fifteen or twenty years. It was licensed and relicensed for four years during the McKelvie administration by J. E. Hart, then trade and commerce secretary. When K. C. Knudson took charge of the department, as Governor Bryan's appointee, he refused to renew the license. Thereupon the company, through its attorneys, Peterson & Devoe of Lincoln, brought the injunction suit.

Judge Frost, who issued the injunction, was appointed by Governor Bryan about two months ago, to fill the vacancy caused by Judge W. M. Morning's assassination. He affiliates with the republican party.

"It is just such uncertainties, delays, expense to the public, duplications and contradictions of authority, and interference by courts and lawyers with the administrative duties of public officers which is causing unrest among the people and contributes to the making of I. W. W's., bolshevists and anarchists," the governor asserted.

Roasts "Accidental" Judges.

"I would like to know," he continued, "whether some lawyer who accidentally gets a place on the bench can say: 'I will set aside the laws of Nebraska and their enforcement, by issuing a judicial order.' We need a showdown in this state as to where official authority begins and where it ends, and whether inferior courts can supersede and set-aside all other constitutional authority, including that of the supreme court.

"As one interested in devising and procuring legislation and administrative reforms to relieve the public of some of its burdens and to give better service at less expense, as well as to remove the twilight zone which seems to exist in legal opinions and precedent, I believe we need to have these things more clearly outlined than they are now.

"I have been led to wonder in my own mind, from the time of the Cole and Grammer cases to the present, whether the authority of the courts is graduated in progressive ratio from the bottom up, or whether it goes the other way, from the supreme court down to police and justice courts.

"It would seem that nothing is conclusive, even after the supreme court has heard and passed upon it, and that some intermediate tribunal between the justice court and the supreme court may disregard such decision and start all over again, on its own motion, to try the case anew.

Discusses Habeas Corpus.

"This matter of habeas corpus which we hear about so much is such an uncertain and complicated term that I find it difficult to fathom. Under our present judicial system, one can apparently go before some inferior court, stop the wheels of justice, and open up the matters in controversy all over again, regardless of the high court's findings.

"It would also appear, from the standpoint of some attorneys and judges, that any court of any rank from a justice of the peace up feels that it has authority and is competent to override the acts of public officials, and to assume or usurp the administrative and executive duties conferred by law upon the chief executive of the state, who is responsible to the people for their performance."

In answer to a direct question about the Simmons request for a reprieve, Mr. Bryan said it had just come into his hands and he would do nothing with it until after consulting Attorney General Spillman on the legal phase and also with Spillman and Secretary of State Pool, the other members of the pardon board, as to the other aspects of the case.

The attorney general was at Hastings to make a couple of speeches Monday. The board of pardons will hold its monthly session Tuesday at the penitentiary.

Jurisdiction Is Question.

Assistant Attorney General Dort has mailed to District Judge R. R. Dickson of ONeill a formal objection to his taking jurisdiction of the habeas corpus suit and has asked to have the matter set down for immediate hearing, so as to dispose of it before the date set for the execution. This objection is along the same line as that made in the proceedings last week before County Judge Ford at Butte, who dismissed the suit.

A summons issued from the district court of Boyd county has been received by Warden Fenton of the penitentiary, directing that Simmons be produced at the hearing there; but it will be disregarded, upon advice of the attorney general's office.

will leave that district also without representation.

In the First district, two candidates have been nominated for regent—Earl Cline and Mrs. Alice Towne Deweese, both of Lincoln. If one of them should be named to fill the vacancy, the appointment would run only till the November election, at which time the candidate receiving the higher vote would be elected in the First.

Should the governor's choice go elsewhere, it is an open question whether the tenure of the appointee would nd in Novmber or continue for the rest of the regular tesm. There is no proviso for the election of a regent this year in any other district than the First and Second, and the vacancy to be filled is not a district vacancy.

Nominations might be made for the state at large, by filing a 10 per cent nominating petition as provided by law, but this procedure would not conform strictly to the provisions of the Nebraska constitution, which provides for election by districts and in no other way.

Reasons for Regent Bates' retirement were not given in his letter, but his friends understand that it is on account of his being obliged to devote his attention to private business affairs.

In the late primary campaign, an attack was made on Mr. Bates by persons at Scottsbluff interested in the candidacy of A. L. Mathers for governor. Mr. Bates was the regent who went to Scottsbluff two years ago and closed the school of irrigation there, which had been tentatively established but had no students, and was a serious drain on the financial resources of the university.

Governor Bryan will accept the resignation but will take some time to study the situation before appointing a new regent.

In acknowledging receipt of the resignation, Chancellor Avery complimented Mr. Bates for his services to the university, particularly in helping to manage the successful campaign of the Nebraska memorial association for the new stadium, and for assistance given to the university interests, before he became a regent, while serving in the legislatures of1915 and 1917.

Twenty Thousand Papers Examined In Single Month

In just one month's time, State Superintendent Matzen's office has graded approximately 20,000 papers sent in from the examinations for teachers' certificates held in all counties on April 12, and the grades of each applicant have been transcribed and forwarded to the ninety-three county superintendents. This is a record never before approached in the history of the state educational department.

About 10,000 applicants took the examinations, averaging two papers each among the 19 subjects included for county certificates. There were also 400 papers submitted from applicants who were examined in one or more of the 10 life certificate subjects.

All papers were marked by twelve special readers whom the state superintendent employs on the piecework basis, and who do their work at home. His office force handled the clerical details.

Milk Shipped Out of State Must Be Standard Quality

Milk shipped from points in western Nebraska to supply consumers at Cheyenne and other points in eastern Wyoming should conform to the sam requirements as if it were sold in this state, according to the view taken by Agriculture Secretary Shumway, after returning from a visit to Cheyenne, where he conferred with local officials regarding the matter.

The Wyoming people were threatening to take action excluding milk from Nebraska unless steps were taken by authorities here to see that none was shipped out except from cows that had been inspected and found to be free from disease. Mr. Shumway considers this an entirely proper demand, and his department will endeavor to shut off on any doubtful milk.

"Cheyenne ice cream manufacturers are shipping their product into Nebraska, although it contains only 1 2per cent butterfat, where out state law calls for 14 per cent," Secretary Shumway commented. "We might get even with them by letting milk from uninspected cows go across the state line as interstate commerce, but we shall not pursue that policy."

It is within the power of the agriculture department to prevent the sale of any ice cream within the state which does not confom to the Nebraska standard, no matter where it comes from. Retail dealers selling any such product are subject to prosecution if the department sees fit to enforce the law.

Girls' Reserve Corner

Student club of Lincoln high school held its annual dinner at the Y. W. C. A. last Tuesday evening. The club room where the dinner was served was attractively decorated with large bowls of lilacs and the room was lighted by yellow candles in brass candelabra. The tables were decorated in keeping with the theme of the toast list, "The Student Club Ship." Smal sail boats were used and spring flowers, at each place was a paper boat filled with candy. The toast lists were in the form of sail boats. Julia Rider, president of the club presided as toastmistress. The toasts were given on membership, by Della Byrd Tastham, leadership by Lucile Wright, friendship, by Virginia Raymond, worship by Mrs. Bernice Tebbets. Dorothy Mercer gave a violin solo. Miss Olivia Pound and Mrs. J. F. Stevens were guests of the club. The girls sang club songs and closed the program by singing "Follow the Gleam" Hazel Beuchner, Christine Weefer, Dorothy Kimmel and Annette Matson of the Freshman club assisted in serving.

The Teachers college high school girls held a mass meeting Thursday morning. The meeting waos to feature the week end which the girls are planning to have May 30-June 1, at Oakwood lodge, Crete. Irene Moore presided and, Miss Grace Stuff and Miss Eleanor Lourey spoke on the plans for camp. The club held an indoor picnic Friday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. The girls enjoyed games and roller skating and a real feed at the close of the aftrenoon.

NEBRASKA SCHOOL OF BUSINESS.

The N. S. B. baseball team met the Lincoln high school nine on the latter's field Wednesday afternoon. The final score was 8 to 5 in favor of the high school.

Miss Laura Cowan of the Albion high school faculty was a caller at the school office Saturday of last week. Miss Cowan was a normal student in the school in 1921.

William Suchsland, of the class of 1914, was a caller at the colleeg Saturday, while in Lincoln taking a civic service examination. His home is at Sterling, Neb.

Leo Schaf of the First National bang, Hartington, Neb., was renewing acquaintances at teh school Friday. Mr. Schaf was a banking student at Nebraska School of Business in 1920.

The annual commencement exercises of the school will be held in the social science auditorium at the state university Thursday evening, May 29. The graduating class is the largest in the history of the school.

Miss Eva Thompson has been elected commercial instructor in the high school at Centerville, Ia. The two preceding commercial teachers in that school, Miss Ethel McClain Charlotte Buck, are also products of the normal training department of N. S. B.

PARIS—Entriesin the target shooting competition of the Olympic games closed last night with twelve countries represented. MARKET QUOTATIONS

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

OMAHA, Neb., May 12.

CATTLE—Receipts, 12,000. Monday's liberal run of cattle was something of a surprise to the trade as it was expected corn planting would keep many shippers at home. The market reflected the expected supply of beef at all points, and bids and sales ranged from 10 to 25c lower than the close of last week, the good heavy cattle getting the brunt of the decline. Some of the best yearlings and cows were not far from steady. Stockers and feeders were very dull and 15 to 25c lower all around.

Beef steers and yearlings, $7.75@10.50; top steers, $11.35.

HOGS—Receipts, 14,000. Excessive supplies at Chicago and lower trend at that point, gave local trade a weak undertone this morning, and initial sales to shippers were on a fully 15c lower basis. Packers made an effort to get their droves at 10 to 20c lower prices, but up to a late hour had met with little success. Bulk of sales was at $6.75@6.95, with top for the day $7.00.

Bulk 210 to 300 pound butchers $6.85@6.95; desirable 160 to 210 pound weights $6.60@6.85.

SHEEP—Receipts, 4,600. Rather liberal receipts elsewhere had a tendency to slow the market at the start today, and it was not until a late hour that enough stuff began to move to make comparisons. The few lambs sold looked around steady to possibly a trifle easier than Saturday. Shearers and aged sheep ruled steady on scant supplies.

Wooled lambs $17.00; clipped lambs $14.85@14.90.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 12.

Stock prices slipped off steadily today in response to unfavorable foreign and domestic political news and further recessions in commodity prices. Many steels, oils and motor shares, including U. S. Steel, sold at new low levels for the year. Sales approximated 750,000 shares.

Stock prices displayed a reactionary tone at the opening of today's market, in reflection of speculative disappointment over the form of the tax bill, passed by the senate, and the defeat of the Poincare ministry in the French elections.

New 1924 lows were established by Bethlehem, Gulf States' and Republic Steels, Cosden, Chicago Yellow Cab and Studebaker (new) stock, the declines ranging from 1 to 3½ points.

Foreign exchanges opened weak, French francs breaking nearly 50 points on the defeat of the Poincare ministry.

The drastic decline in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation and a cut in crude oil prices also were contributing factors to the morning selling. Additional new low records for the year were established by United States Steel common at 95¼, off 1½; Baldwin at 107⅝, off 2⅛, and by Stewart-Warner and Marland, Invincible and Skelly oils, the losses ranging from large fractions to nearly 4 points. Woolworth broke 6¾ points and American Beet Sugar 2¼. Prices steadied around noon when a brisk demand developed for investment rails.

With bear speculators hammering individual shares to intimidate buyers in the early afternoon, the market showed little recuperative power, although General Electric came up 3 points from its early low level. Stewart-Warner was forced down 5⅝ to 56⅝, a new low price for the year, and other motor accessory isues were also under presure.

The closing was heavy.

Numerous specialties were subjected to severe selling pressure in the late dealings, but most of the customary leaders hardened a trifle when short covering began.

ROSIN—Savannah, $4.30; New York, $5.50.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 12.

CORN—All grain, especially corn, declined in price today during the early dealings. Ideal weather for corn planting was largely responsible, together with weakness in the New York stock market. In corn, there was general commission house selling as well as a good deal of liquidation, numerous automatic orders to stop ownership losses being brought into play. Corn opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to ⅝c lower, with July 76⅝@76c, were followed by a decided drop all around.

Rallies which ensued failed to last. The close was heavy, ⅞ to 1¼c net lower, July 75½@⅝c to 75⅝c.

WHEAT—Trade in wheat was relatively small ,and price changes were much influenced by the action of corn. After opening ⅛ to ½c down, May $1.03½ and July $1.05@1.05¼, the wheat market underwent a moderate general sag anr tse nrallied somewhat.

Subsequently, news of the defeat of Poincare was in some quarters construed as a bullish factory. The close was unsettled at ⅜c lower to ¼c advance, May $1.04 and July $1.05⅛.

OATS—Oats started unchanged to ¼c lower, July 44c. Later, all deliveries showed a loss.

Bryan indicated indirectly that he was not pleased with the action of Judge Frost in the district court of Lancaster county in enjoining the state trade and commerce department from interfering with operations of the Investors' Syndicate, a Minneapolis concern, in the state of Nebraska, notwithstanding that it has not been granted a license for the year 1924.

The Minneapolis concern is the only one of its kind which has been permitted to do business in Nebraska during the past fifteen or twenty years. It was licensed and relicensed for four years during the McKelvie administration by J. E. Hart, then trade and commerce secretary. When K. C. Knudson took charge of the department, as Governor Bryan's appointee, he refused to renew the license. Thereupon the company, through its attorneys, Peterson & Devoe of Lincoln, brought the injunction suit.

Judge Frost, who issued the injunction, was appointed by Governor Bryan about two months ago, to fill the vacancy caused by Judge W. M. Morning's assassination. He affiliates with the republican party.

"It is just such uncertainties, delays, expense to the public, duplications and contradictions of authority, and interference by courts and lawyers with the administrative duties of public officers which is causing unrest among the people and contributes to the making of I. W. W's., bolshevists and anarchists," the governor asserted.

Roasts "Accidental" Judges.

"I would like to know," he continued, "whether some lawyer who accidentally gets a place on the bench can say: 'I will set aside the laws of Nebraska and their enforcement, by issuing a judicial order.' We need a showdown in this state as to where official authority begins and where it ends, and whether inferior courts can supersede and set aside all other constitutional authority, including that of the supreme court.

"As one interested in devising and procuring legislation and administrative reforms to relieve the public of some of its burdens and to give better service at less expense, as well as to remove the twilight zone which seems to exist in legal opinions and precedent, I believe we need to have these things more clearly outlined than they are now.

"I have been led to wonder in my own mind, from the time of the Cole and Grammer cases to the present, whether the authority of the courts is graduated in progressive ratio from the bottom up, or whether it goes the other way, from the supreme court down to police and justice courts.

"It would seem that nothing is conclusive, even after the supreme court has heard and passed upon it, and that some intermediate tribunal between the justice court and the supreme court may disregard such decision and start all over again, on its own motion, to try the case anew.

Discusses Habeas Corpus.

"This matter of habeas corpus which we hear about so much is such an uncertain and complicated term that I find it difficult to fathom. Under our present judicial system, one can apparently go before some inferior court, stop the wheels of justice, and open up the matters in controversy all over again, regardless of the high court's findings.

"It would also appear, from the standpoint of some attorneys and judges, that any court of any rank from a justice of the peace up feels that it has authority and is competent to override the acts of public officials, and to assume or usurp the administrative and executive duties conferred by law upon the chief executive of the state, who is responsible to the people for their performance."

In answer to a direct question about the Simmons request for a reprieve, Mr. Bryan said it had just come into his hands and he would do nothing with it until after consulting Attorney General Spillman on the legal phase and also with Spillman and Secretary of State Pool, the other members of the pardon board, as to the other aspects of the case.

The attorney general was at Hastings to make a couple of speeches Monday. The board of pardons will hold its monthly session Tuesday at the penitentiary.

Jurisdiction Is Question.

Assistant Attorney General Dort has mailed to District Judge R. R. Dickson of ONeill a formal objection to his taking jurisdiction of the habeas corpus suit and has asked to have the matter set down for immediate hearing, so as to dispose of it before the date set for the execution. This objection is along the same line as that made in the proceedings last week before County Judge Ford at Butte, who dismissed the suit.

A summons issued from the district court of Boyd county has been received by Warden Fenton of the penitentiary, directing that Simmons be produced at the hearing there; but it will be disregarded, upon advice of the attorney general's office.

REGENT BATES QUITS HIS JOB

will leave that district also without representation.

In the First district, two candidates have been nominated for regent—Earl Cline and Mrs. Alice Towne Deweese, both of Lincoln. If one of them should be named to fill the vacancy, the appointment would run only till the November election, at which time the candidate receiving the higher vote would be elected in the First.

Should the governor's choice go elsewhere, it is an open question whether the tenure of the appointee would nd in Novmber or continue for the rest of the regular term. There is no proviso for the election of a regent this year in any other district than the First and Second, and the vacancy to be filled is not a district vacancy.

Nominations might be made for the state at large by filing a 10 per cent nominating petition as provided by law, but this procedure would not conform strictly to the provisions of the Nebraska constitution, which provides for election by districts and in no other way.

Reasons for Regent Bates' retirement were not given in his letter, but his friends understand that it is on account of his being obliged to devote his attention to private business affairs.

In the late primary campaign, an attack was made on Mr. Bates by persons at Scottsbluff interested in the candidacy of A. L. Mathers for governor. Mr. Bates was the regent who went to Scottsbluff two years ago and closed the school of irrigation there, which had been tentatively established but had no students, and was a serious drain on the financial resources of the university.

Governor Bryan will accept the resignation but will take some time to study the situation before appointing a new regent.

In acknowledging receipt of the resignation, Chancellor Avery complimented Mr. Bates for his services to the university, particularly in helping to manage the successful campaign of the Nebraska memorial association for the new stadium, and for assistance given to the university interests, before he became a regent, while serving in the legislatures of 1915 and 1917.

Twenty Thousand Papers Examined In Single Month

In just one month's time, State Superintendent Matzen's office has graded approximately 20,000 papers sent in from the examinations for teachers' certificates held in all counties on April 12, and the grades of each applicant have been transcribed and forwarded to the ninety-three county superintendents. This is a record never before approached in the history of the state educational department.

About 10,000 applicants took the examinations, averaging two papers each among the 19 subjects included for county certificates. There were also 400 papers submitted from applicants who were examined in one or more of the 10 life certificate subjects.

All papers were marked by twelve special readers whom the state superintendent employs on the piecework basis, and who do their work at home. His office force handled the clerical details.

Milk Shipped Out of State Must Be Standard Quality

Milk shipped from points in western Nebraska to supply consumers at Cheyenne and other points in eastern Wyoming should conform to the sam requirements as if it were sold in this state, according to the view taken by Agriculture Secretary Shumway, after returning from a visit to Cheyenne, where he conferred with local officials regarding the matter.

The Wyoming people were threatening to take action excluding milk from Nebraska unless steps were taken by authorities here to see that none was shipped out except from cows that had been inspected and found to be free from disease. Mr. Shumway considers this an entirely proper demand, and his department will endeavor to shut off on any doubtful milk.

"Cheyenne ice cream manufacturers are shipping their product into Nebraska, although it contains only 1 2per cent butterfat, where out state law calls for 14 per cent," Secretary Shumway commented. "We might get even with them by letting milk from uninspected cows go across the state line as interstate commerce, but we shall not pursue that policy."

It is within the power of the agriculture department to prevent the sale of any ice cream within the state which does not conform to the Nebraska standard, no matter where it comes from. Retail dealers selling any such product are subject to prosecution if the department sees fit to enforce the law.

Girls' Reserve Corner

Student club of Lincoln high school held its annual dinner at the Y. W. C. A. last Tuesday evening. The club room where the dinner was served was attractively decorated with large bowls of lilacs and the room was lighted by yellow candles in brass candelabra. The tables were decorated in keeping with the theme of the toast list, "The Student Club Ship." Smal sail boats were used and spring flowers, at each place was a paper boat filled with candy. The toast lists were in the form of sail boats. Julia Rider, president of the club presided as toastmistress. The toasts were given on membership, by Della Byrd Tastham, leadership by Lucile Wright, friendship, by Virginia Raymond, worship by Mrs. Bernice Tebbets. Dorothy Mercer gave a violin solo. Miss Olivia Pound and Mrs. J. F. Stevens were guests of the club. The girls sang club songs and closed the program by singing "Follow the Gleam," Hazel Beuchner, Christine Weefer, Dorothy Kimmel and Annette Matson of the Freshman club assisted in serving.

The Teachers college high school girls held a mass meeting Thursday morning. The meeting waos to feature the week end which the girls are planning to have May 30-June 1, at Oakwood lodge, Crete. Irene Moore presided and, Miss Grace Stuff and Miss Eleanor Lourey spoke on the plans for camp. The club held an indoor picnic Friday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. The girls enjoyed games and roller skating and a real feed at the close of the aftrenoon.

NEBRASKA SCHOOL OF BUSINESS.

The N. S. B. baseball team met the Lincoln high school nine on the latter's field Wednesday afternoon. The final score was 8 to 5 in favor of the high school.

Miss Laura Cowan of the Albion high school faculty was a caller at the school office Saturday of last week. Miss Cowan was a normal student in the school in 1921.

William Suchsland, of the class of 1914, was a caller at the colleeg Saturday, while in Lincoln taking a civic service examination. His home is at Sterling, Neb.

Leo Schaf of the First National bang, Hartington, Neb., was renewing acquaintances at teh school Friday. Mr. Schaf was a banking student at Nebraska School of Business in 1920.

The annual commencement exercises of the school will be held in the social science auditorium at the state university Thursday evening, May 29. The graduating class is the largest in the history of the school.

Miss Eva Thompson has been elected commercial instructor in the high school at Centerville, Ia. The two preceding commercial teachers in that school, Miss Ethel McClain Charlotte Buck, are also products of the normal training department of N. S. B.

AWARD CONTRACTS FOR $89,000 WORK

Many Paving Districts Approved by City Council at Meeting.

Cowgill's War on Free Air Stalls Appears Again in New Form.

Awarding of sewer and paving contracts aggregating $89,000, creation of more paving districts along with resurfacing and grading districts, and the starting of a number of new paving and grading districts, petitions for which have been filed, took up a greater part of the time of the city council at the meeting Monday afternoon

Among the new districts ordered paved Monday was the largest yet created by the council. It embraces the terrtiory from D street to Randolph street; A street to Randolph street on Thirty-fourth street; A street to Randolph street on Thirty-fifth street; D street to Randolph street on Thirty-sixth street, and D street, Thirty-third to Thirty-sixth street There is a mile and one-fourth of streets in the district. The creation of the district was requested by seventy-nine petitioners

Another district on which action was taken was that in Young's Highland park addition. It extends from Thirty-third to Thirty-seventh street on M street, and from M street to O street on Thirty-seventh street

Commissioner Cowgill's resolution doing away with the white line in front of tire shops appeared in a new form today. The resolution provides for the elimination of the white line after September 15, but leaves space for one stall to be used for free air purposes The stall is to be painted yellow.

The resolution does away with the white line as follows.

In front of all tire shops on Q street from Tenth to Thirteenth street; P street from Seventh to Fourteenth street; O street from Eighth to Twenty-second street; N street from Ninth to Sixteenth street; M street, Ninth to Fourteenth street; Tenth and Eleventh streets, R to L streets; Ninth street, Q to M street, and on all streets from Twelfth to Seventh street between Q and M streets inclusive.

Ordinances before the council for final reading and passage included one creating a sewer district between Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets, and E and F streets. Another eliminates Thirteenth street from O to P street from the program of widening Thirteenth street from J to P street. A third creates a paving district on Thirty-fourth street, O to R street; and Q street, Thirty-third to Thirty-fourth street.

The resurfacing and paving of two strips of South Ninth street, along with the estimates by the city engineer are also to come before the council.

A resolution by Cowgill authorizes the council to employ Van Boskirk and Remington, auditors, to check the different departments of the city government. The audit was authorized at a recent meeting and City Clerk Berg asked for bids. Six were submitted, one later being withdrawn. The five are all for the same amount, $1,650. The firm selected by Cowgill was designated in a drawing he directed.

Aged Woman Dies In Burning House

SPENCER, Neb., May 12.—Mrs. David Payton, 77, was found dead in the fiercely burning home of her daughter Mrs. Ed Locker, Saturday night. The Lockers, who live outside Spencer, discovered the blaze on their return home.

Locker rushed in to the burning structure and carried Mrs. Payton outside. She was dead when found, but it is thought that death came as a result of shock, rather than from burns she suffered.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that Mrs. Payton was attempting to start a fire in the kitchen range.

She is survived by her husband and several sons and daughters, all married. Funeral services will be held Monday.

Glass In Windpipe Fatal to Infant

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., May 12.—Death terminated the race to save the life of the infant son of Clyde Reynols of Ringold, Neb., here Sunday.

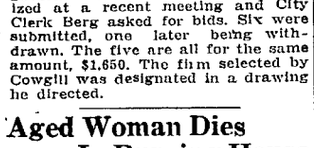

Reynolds was rushing the baby to Omaha for an operation to remove a piece of glass from the child's windpipe. Doctors had declared that the only possible chance to save the infant's life.

The child died of convulsions just as Union Pacific train No 12 reached Grand Island. Acting Coroner Palmer authorized immediate return of Reynolds to Ringold with the body of the baby late Sunday.

F. T. Jones To Be Socialist Candidate

NEW York, May 12 Delegates to the convention of the socialist labor party, which opened in a Broadway hotel today, announced they had selected Frank T Jones of Oregon, as their candidate for the presidency next November. Vern L Reynolds of Maryland, will be the vice presidential candidate.

Mother and Four Children Burn to Death at Home

BISMARCK, N. D., May 12—Mrs. Leonard Davenport and four small children burned to death in their country home fourteen miles northeast of here, according to a dispatch received by the Bismarck Tribune here today.

One child was saved from the flames by the father, but is seriously burned.

LINCOLN IN NEED OF OPEN SPACES

City Planners Urge Necessity of Additional Park Lands.

Nothing is needed more by the city of Lincoln than additional land for parks, declared Dr. B. F. Bailey, chairman of the park committee of the city planning sub-division of the chamber of commerce, in a talk before that group Monday noon.

Dr. Bailey asserted that Antelope park is badly crowded, on recreation days and that Capitol Beach is about the only other place left for people to go. He declared that every city owes to its people free parks, and urged that land be purchased for this purpose. A place for people to play on recreation days is just as important as their work he said.

There is much cheap land in the neighborhood of Lincoln which could be obtained for park purposes, said Dr. Bailey.

J. E. Miller, a member of the zoning committee emphasized the need of opening up Fifteenth street from O to R streets and declared that the accomplishment of this would do more than anything else to obtain from the legislature the amount needed for the completion of the new capitol He also urged that steps be taken toward obtaining more land for free parks

Chancellor Samuel Avery reviewed the enlargement and improvement of the university campus, adding that attempts are being made to beautify the campus near the railroad tracks, which, he said would serve as an advertisement to many people who pass through the city.

Accuracy In Phone Directory Stressed By Ad Club Speaker

Donald Bell, commercial manager of the Lincoln Telephone company addressed the members of the Lincoln Ad club at its weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce Monday noon, and asserted that it is the purpose of the telephone company to co-operate in any way possible with business men in their advertising.

He emphasized the importance of correct telephone numbers in successful advertising, asserting that it is the aim of the company to aid advertisers in this line by on extreme effort in acuracy in the telephone directory

He demonstrated with a mechanical device the manner in which connections are made through the local exchange.

Make Plans For State Meeting

The state executive committee of the Nebraska Christian Women's Missionary, society met Monday at the Grand hotel to complete plans for the state convention which will be held at Aurora, June 8 to 13 It was announced that among those who will speak at the convention will be H. B. McCormick of St. Louis, and Dr. C. Pickett of the Philippines, who will arrive in the United States May 15.

The part the state society will play in the golden jubilee of the organization was also considered. The jubilee period will continue until October 24.

MRS. BALDWIN DIES.

NO CHANCE FOR ROACH

A roach may not find a poison powder or liquid. But there is a way that leaves him no choice. Insects breathe through pores, and a whiff of El Vampiro kills them. There's no danger, no mess. Puff it into the crevices for roaches, into the air for flies, around beds for bed bugs. Free plants, chickens, pets and animals of insect life. El Vampiro is in the YELLOW bellows box, 10c and 30c sizes, at the nearest store. There's a big sifter-top can for $1.25—and Liquid El Vampiro, too, for flies. It's just as potent. DEFEAT PRESENT JAP GOVERNMENT

Newspapes Predict Early Resignation of Premier Kiyoura.

Early Election Returns Give Ruling Party Only 32 of of 162 Seats.

(Associated Press.)

TOKIO, May 12.—Resignation of the government of Premier Kiyoura at an early date is forecast by the morning papers today on the basis of official returns from Saturday's parliamentary elections.

Official incomplete returns today gave the Seiyouhonto, considered the Kiyoura party, only 32 of 163 seats decided.

Elections were held for 464 seats, with officials returns on 302 of them, yet to be received. Those reported on, it was announced, have been won by the different parties as follows:

Kenseikai, 66; Seiyuhonto, 33; Seiyukai, 29; Kakushin club, 12; Business men's party, 7; Independents, 26.

Five prefectural governors running as government candidates have been defeated.

The newspapers declared that the government had been defeated unmistakeably, proving that it did not have the confidence of the electorate. Resignation of the premier was asserted to be inevitable.

AN ADJOURNMENT DECISION SHORTLY

(Associatde Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 12—The ability of administration leaders to carry through their announced program of adjourning congress in the first week of June, is expected to be definitely determined this week.

With the revenue bill in conference, farm relief will take the center of the legislative stage

Looming in both the house and senate are various measures dealing with railroad legislation. Members of the insurgent republican group are being quoted as asserting that adjournment will not be taken until consideration has been given to proposals for modifying the rate making sections of the transportation act and the Barkley-Howell bill proposing abolition of the railroad labor board

American Legion Making Plans for Military Carnival

Lincoln Post No. 3 is assisting in the military carnival sponsored by the Reserve Officers' association, to be held at the state fair grounds, May 23. Units of artillery, cavalry and an air squadron will participate in this carnival, making the trip overland from Fort Riley, Kas. The Legion will have charge of the concessions at the fair grounds and Commander Kinsinger has appointed the following committee for this purpose: Glen Carrigan, chairman, Earl Ketcham, F. U. Guenzel, C B. Morey, Richard Oddie and Trev E Gillespie.

The proceeds will be used to give a free dance for all ex-service men at the Legion club rooms on the evening of May 23, and the troops participating in the fete day will be the guests of the Legion. The dance committee is composed of T. N. Blockwitz, chairman, Clifford Lind, D E Lindstrom, Lyman Fitch and Talmage Smith

Other business to be taken up at the post meeting this evening will be completion of plans for Memorial day, the report of the membership committee preparatory to a campaign for new members and the election of five members of the executive committee Retiring members of the committee are Geo. I. Craven, Dr Paul Royal, Fred Craig and Trev E Gillaspie.

ASKS CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, May 12—President Coolidge woul be authorized to call a conference here of all nations signing the Versailles treaty for the purpose of revising it in accordance with the fourteen points to which the central powers agreed, under a resolution Representative Berger, Wisconsin, the only socialist in congress, proposes to introduce today.

Prospect For More Open-Air Concerts If First Is Success

If the open-air concert of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra presenting Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" in Nebraska's Memorial stadium Wednesday evening, May 14, is properly patronized, the University will be encouraged to plan for even greater things in the future. This is the usbstance of a statement issued this morning by Chancellor Samuel Avery of the university.

"The Nebraska Memorial stadium offers for out-of-door programs possibilities unequalled elsewhere between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast The May festival given on the fourteenth is in a certain sense an experiment to determine whether the university the comunity and the state will appreciate the opportunity for out-of-door productions that the stadium affords

Chancellor Avery points out that complete amplifying apparatus cannot without propriety be purchased at the expense of the taxpayers. "If, however, the May festival, which does not require any elaborate sounding apparatus, is a great success," the chancellor continued, "the university will doubtless see its way to procure a complete modern system to be paid for out of future gate receipts After the first cost has been met, its use can be made free to the public with such charge only as will cover the expense of care and upkeep."

Workmen will start constructing a special stage to accommodate four hundred persons in front of the west section of the stadium the first of the week. Flood-lighting apparatus will be installed to assure perfect illumination. Arthur J. Gaines, associate manager of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, has pronounced the acoustic properties of the stadium to be excellent for such a concert. Henri Verbrugghen, director, and the eighty-six musicians of his organization will arrive in Lincoln Wednesday morning.

BIG YANK WORK SHIRT WEEK

For six years "Big Yank" has been known to a rapidly increasing multitude of wearers as the best buy in work shirts. The price at which you can now buy "Big Yank" only emphasizes its value.

If "Big Yank" Work Shirts were priced according to the present price of cotton they would have to sell much higher.

Eight Famous Features

1. Big, oversize, curved armholes.
2. Extra wide elbows.
3. Form fitting, sloped shoulders.
4. Cuffs wide and extra long.
5. Reinforced faced sleeves.
6. Reinforced front opening.
7. Wide, perfect fitting collar.
8. Big pockets, double cloth, reinforced.

The cost of making "Big Yanks" is reduced to a minimum by Reliance Manufacturing Company's highly standardized large volume production methods. Every wearer gets the benefit.

The man who wears work shirts will be wise to lay in a supply of "Big Yanks" during this week. Ask your dealers to show you "Big Yank".

Aged Woman Dies In Burning House

SPENCER, Neb., May 12.—Mrs. David Payton, 77, was found dead in the fiercely burninig home of her daughter Mrs. Ed Locker, Saturday night. The Lockers, who live outside Spencer, discovered the blaze on their return home.

Locker rushed in to the burning structure and carried Mrs. Payton outside. She was dead when found, but it is thought that death came as a result of shock, rather than from burns she suffered.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that Mrs. Payton was attempting to start a fire in the kitchen range.

She is survived by her husband and several sons and daughters, all married. Funeral services will be held Monday.

City Planners Urge Necessity of Additional Park Lands.

Nothing is needed more by the city of Lincoln than additional land for parks, declared Dr. B. F. Bailey, chairman of the park committee of the city planning sub-division of the chamber of commerce, in a talk before that group Monday noon.

Dr. Bailey asserted that Antelope park is badly crowded, on recreation days and that Capitol Beach is about the only other place left for people to go. He declared that every city owes to its people free parks, and urged that land be purchased for this purpose. A place for people to play on recreation days is just as important as their work he said.

There is much cheap land in the neighborhood of Lincoln which could be obtained for park purposes, said Dr. Bailey.

J. E. Miller, a member of the zoning committee emphasized the need of opening up Fifteenth street from O to R streets and declared that the accomplishment of this would do more thon anything else to obtain from the legislature the amount needed for the completion of the new capitol. He also urged that steps be taken toward obtaining more land for free parks.

Chancellor Samuel Avery reviewed the enlargement and improvement of the university campus, adding that attempts are being made to beautify the campus near the railroad tracks, which, he said would serve as an advertisement to many people who pass through the city.

Accuracy In Phone Directory Stressed By Ad Club Speaker

Donald Bell, commercial manager of the Lincoln Telephone company addressed the members of the Lincoln Ad club at its weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce Monday noon, and asserted that it is the purpose of the telephone company to co-operate in any way possible with business men in their advertising.

He emphasized the importance of correct telephone numbers in successful advertising, asserting that it is the aim of the company to aid advertisers in this line by on extreme effort in acuracy in the telephone directory.

He demonstrated with a mechanical device the manner in which connections are made through the local exchange.

NO CHANCE FOR ROACH

A roach may not find a poison powder or liquid. But there is a way that leaves him no choice. Insects breathe through pores, and a whiff of El Vampiro kills them. There's no danger, no mess. Puff it into the crevices for roaches, into the air for flies, around beds for bed bugs. Free plants, chickens, pets and animals of insect life. El Vampiro is in the YELLOW bellows box, 10c and 30c sizes, at the nearest store. There's a big sifter-top can for $1.25—and Liquid El Vampiro, too, for flies. It's just as potent. DEFEAT PRESENT JAP GOVERNMENT

Newspapes Predict Early Resignation of Premier Kiyoura.

Early Election Returns Give Ruling Party Only 32 of of 162 Seats.

(Associated Press.)

TOKIO, May 12.—Resignation of the government of Premier Kiyoura at an early date is forecast by the morning papers today on the basis of official returns from Saturday's parliamentary elections.

Official incomplete returns today gave the Seiyouhonto, considered the Kiyoura party, only 32 of 163 seats decided.

Elections were held for 464 seats, with officials returns on 302 of them, yet to be received. Those reported on, it was announced, have been won by the different parties as follows:

Kenseikai, 56; Seiyuhonto, 32; Seiyuksi, 29; Kakushin club, 12; Business men's party, 7; Independents, 26.

Five prefectural governors running as government candidates have been defeated.

The newspapers declared that the government had been defeated unmistakeably, proving that it did not have the confidence of the electorate. Resignation of the premier was asserted to be inevitable.

AN ADJOURNMENT DECISION SHORTLY

(Associatde Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 12—The ability of adminisrtation leaders to carry through their announced program of adjourning congress in the first week of June, is expected to be definitely determined this week.

With the revenue bill in conference, farm relief will take the center of the legislative stage.

Looming in both the house and senate are various measures dealing with railroad legislation. Members of the insurgent republican group are being quoted as asserting that adjournment will not be taken until consideration has been given to proposals for modifying the rate making sections of the transportation act and the Barkley-Howell bill proposing abolition of the railroad labor board.

American Legion Making Plans for Military Carnival

Lincoln Post No. 3 is assisting in the military carnival sponsored by the Reserve Officers' association, to be held at the state fair grounds, May 23. Units of artillery, cavalry and an air squadron will participate in this carnival, making the trip overland from Fort Riley, Kas. The Legion will have charge of the concessions at the fair grounds and Commander Kinsinger has appointed the following committee for this purpose: Glen Carrigan, chairman, Earl Ketcham, F. U. Guenzel, C. B. Morey, Richard Oddie and Trev E. Gillespie.

The proceeds will be used to give a free dance for all ex-service men at the Legion club rooms on the evening of May 23, and the troops participating in the fete day will be the guests of the Legion. The dance committee is composed of T. N. Blockwitz, chairman, Clifford Lind, D. E. Lindstrom, Lyman Fitch and Talmage Smith.

Other business to be taken up at the post meeting this evening will be completion of plans for Memorial day, the report of the membership committee preparatory to a campaign for new members and the election of five members of the executive committee. Retiring members of the committee are Geo. I. Craven, Dr. Paul Royal, Fred Craig and Trev E. Gillaspie.

Prospect For More Open-Air Concerts If First Is Success

If the open-air concert of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra presenting Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" in Nebraska's Memorial stadium Wednesday evening, May 14, is properly patronized, the University will be encouraged to plan for even greater things in the future. This is the usbstance of a statement issued this morning by Chancellor Samuel Avery of the university.

"The Nebraska Memorial stadium offers for out-of-door programs possibilities unequalled elsewhere between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast. The May festival given on the fourteenth is in a certain sense an experiment to determine whether the university the comunity and the state will appreciate the opportunity for out-of-door productions that the stadium affords.

Chancellor Avery points out that complete amplifying apparatus cannot without propriety be purchased at the expense of the taxpayers. "If, however, the May festival, which does not require any elaborate sounding apparatus, is a great success," the chancellor continued, "the university will doubtless see its way to procure a complete modern system to be paid for out of future gate receipts. After the first cost has been met, its use can be made free to the public with such charge only as wil cover the expense of care and upkeep."

Workmen will start constructing a special stage to accommodate four hundred persons in front of the west section of the stadium the first of the week. Flood-lighting apparatus will be installed to assure perfect illumination. Arthur J. Gaines, associate manager of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, has pronounced the acoustic properties of the stadium to be excellent for such a concert. Henri Verbrugghen, director, and the eighty-six musicians of his organization will arrive in Lincoln Wednesday morning.
